SENATE PLOWS ECONOMY UNDER IN FARM AID HIKE

FSA Head Assailed as Communist.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Senate economy advocates today lost their fight to lop $25,000,000 from the cash appropriation for the Farm Security administration, which they assailed as an experiment in collective farming under the direction of a Communist.

The controversy over the FSA appropriations occupied the senate's attention thruout the day and delayed action until tomorrow on the pending 680 million dollar agriculture department appropriation bill.

By a vote of 48 to 16 the senate approved an amendment by its appropriations committee increasing the FSA's cash appropriation for loans, grants, and rural rehabilitation from $25,319,557, the amount allowed by the house, to $50,319,557, in addition to a reappropriation of $5,000,000.

Those Opposed to Fund.

The 16 senators who voted against the increase in funds are:

Republicans: Wayland Brooks [Ill.], Hugh A. Butler [Neb.], Rufus C. Holman [Ore.], Eugene D. Millikin [Colo.], Robert A. Taft [O.], Raymond E. Willis [Ind.].

Democrats: Harry F. Byrd [Va.], Bennett Clark [Mo.], Peter G. Gerry [R. I.], Carter Glass [Va.], Harley M. Kilgore [W. Va.], Ernest W. McFarland [Ariz.], Kenneth McKellar [Tenn.], George L. Radcliffe [Md.], Lloyd Spencer [Ark.], David I. Walsh [Mass.].

$80,000,000 Is Added.

The senate also approved a committee amendment increasing from $70,000,000 to $125,000,000 the amount of funds which the FSA may borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The senate thus added approximately $80,000,000 to the authorizations voted by the house for the FSA.

Sen. McKellar and Sen. Byrd, both members of the joint committee on nonessential federal expenditures, denounced the FSA program as communistic.

"I think it is the worst setup we have in the government," said Sen. McKellar. "I think Mr. Baldwin [C. B. Baldwin, FSA administrator] is a Communist. To my mind the FSA is the most wasteful and extravagant activity we have."

Called Extravagant.

McKellar said he could not recall how many millions of dollars Baldwin had spent. Sen. Byrd said it was approximately 1 billion dollars.

"I think Mr. Baldwin is the most extravagant administrator of all the administrators of the government, barring none," McKellar added.

When Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] challenged McKellar's charge that Baldwin is a Communist and demanded that the statement be justified, McKellar replied that he had made the charge to Baldwin's face at a committee hearing and would repeat it.

Refers to Testimony.

In support of the charge that Baldwin is a Communist, Sen. Byrd referred to his admission before the joint committee on nonessential expenditures that representatives of his organization had prepared a long range program to collectivize agriculture by using the power of eminent domain to break up large land holdings.

The Virginia senator presented documentary evidence that the FSA has used "high pressure methods" in the solicitation of clients for government assistance. He submitted evidence that the FSA used its official government frank to distribute reproductions of an article in the left wing magazine New Republic, which attacked various senate opponents of the FSA.

Sen. Brooks observed that while the FSA makes loans to white citizens for the payment of poll taxes, it refuses to make such loans to Negro citizens.

English Woman Jailed for Refusing Factory Work

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—Another female conscientious objector felt British justice today. Gwendoline Outred, 26, of Gravesend, was sent to jail for two months for declining to do work of national importance in an aircraft factory. The presiding magistrate called her a traitor to her country.

M'Donald Jury May See Film —After Judge

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court will doff his black robe and turn movie critic this morning—but only for the hour or so it takes to run "Hellzapoppin," the film which on Feb. 24 had just flickered off the Palace theater screen when Clarence McDonald, 17 years old, shot and killed his high school sweetheart, Dorothy Broz, as they sat in their favorite seats in the darkened balcony.

Judge Dunne then will rule on a defense plea that the jury of eight women and four men which will decide McDonald's punishment should see the picture. The defense contends that the gunfire and general excitement of the movie should be blamed in part for the crime.

Arguments in Chambers.

Judge Dunne yesterday at first ruled that the film could not be shown after arguments in chambers by Assistant State's Attorneys Francis McCurrie and Leslie Curtis against Attorneys Donald D. Rogers, Ben Aronin, Frank Ferlic, assistant public defender, and George Freudenthal Jr.

The defense then put on the stand, with the jury absent from the courtroom, Miss Florence Hart, 5325 Hyde Park boulevard, who has seen "Hellzapoppin" twice, once because she wanted to and once, notebook in hand, at the request of Freudenthal. She told of the opening "devils' ballet," with a chorus singing the prophetic "Anything Can Happen—And Probably Will," then described other exciting scenes—many with gunfire—including the shooting of the supposed playwright, who, however, wore a bulletproof vest.

Didn't Think It Was Funny.

On cross-examination Curtis got Miss Hart to agree that Olsen, Johnson, Martha Raye, and Mischa Auer are comedians and that the film is a rehash of the Olsen-Johnson vaudeville routine. But when he termed it "an uproarious comedy," Miss Hart checked him sharply.

"I couldn't see anything funny," she said. "It seemed slightly insane to me."

Attorney Rogers asked whether it had been advertised as a picture that "will drive you crazy." She said it had.

Judge Dunne then adjourned court until 10:15 o'clock this morning, asking that the picture be ready for a private showing at 9:15 in his chambers.

Another Defense Victory.

The defense won another victory earlier in the day when Judge Dunne permitted Charles F. McDonald Sr., 3330 North Central Park avenue, to say what verdict was reached by a coroner's jury in the death in 1936 of Virgil McDonald, father of the defendant.

"It was death by strangulation while temporarily insane," McDonald said.

Since the defense is based in large part on a plea of hereditary insanity, this ruling pleased the defense lawyers. McDonald, a second cousin of Clarence's, but known to him as "Uncle Charlie," was an excellent defense witness in other respects, too.

In response to a question by Ferlic as to whether he knew of any other insanity in the family he said:

"Why, yes. I am the guardian of Hattie McDonald [an aunt of Clarence's, who testified shortly before]. She was paroled to me from an Indiana state hospital in 1928 or 1929 after being in and out a total of two different times, seven years each."

Treatment by Father.

He then was asked whether he had ever noticed anything unusual in Virgil McDonald's treatment of Clarence, and over numerous objections by the prosecution said:

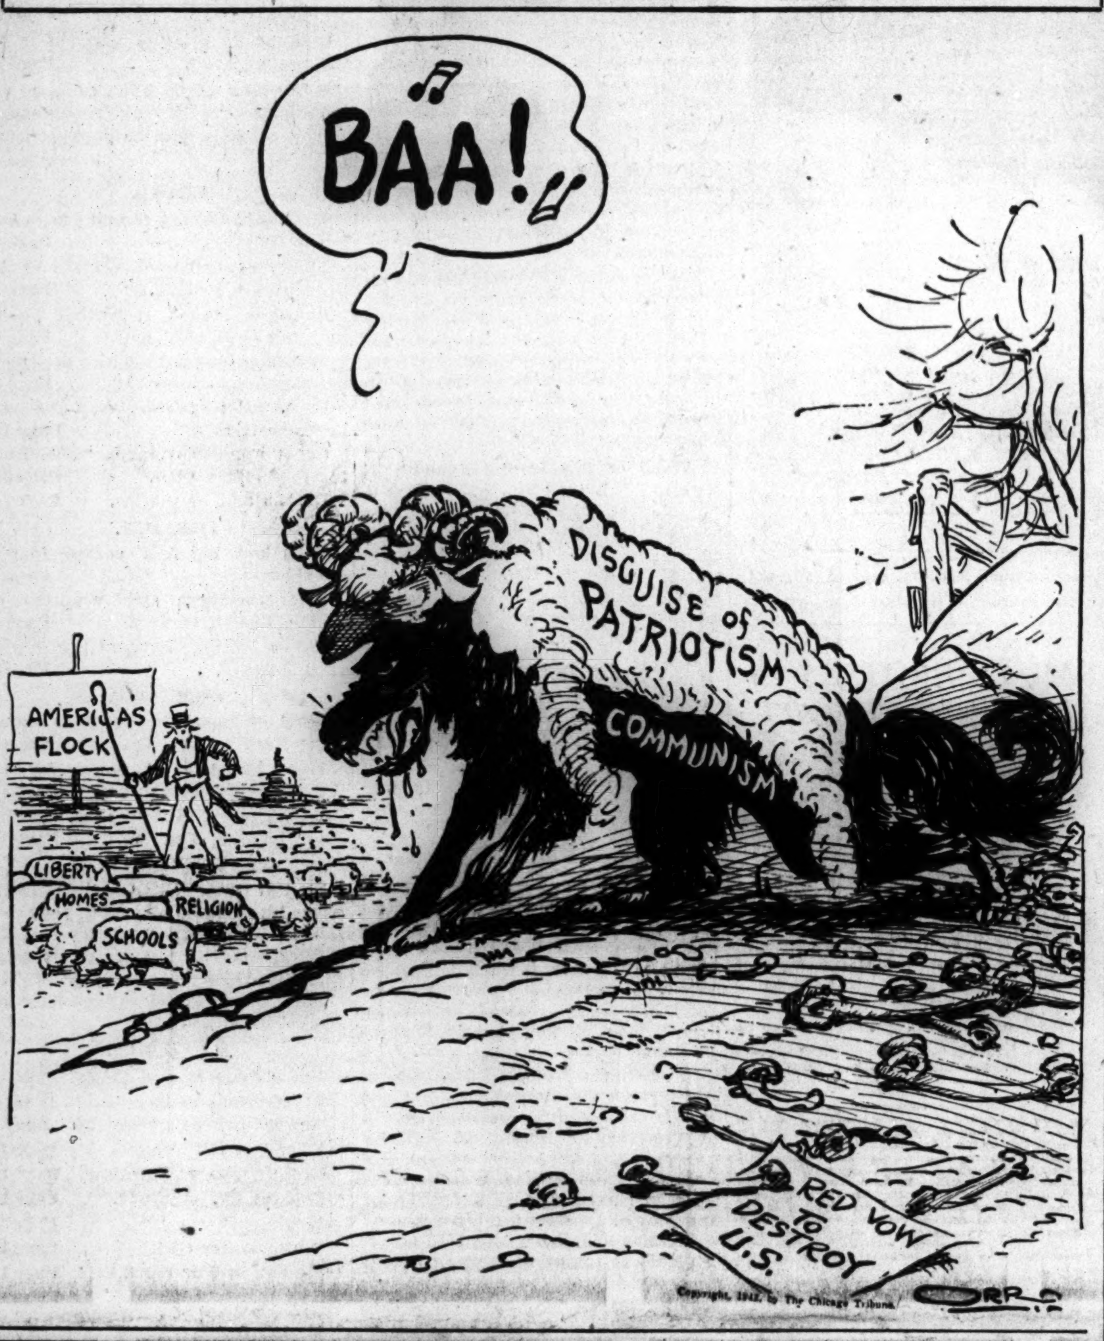
"In the summer of 1935 Virgil had one of his spells [objection]. He inhumanly [objection] whipped the boy —not in an ordinary way. He used the nearest thing to him, a stake we were going to play horseshoes with. Later, as we were playing together I let a shoe go and Clarence walked in front of it. It struck him on the head and he fell down."

The witness then told of young McDonald's "laughing and joking" at his father's funeral, and how three years later the boy asserted: "My father is on the police force." He said he asked whether Clarence meant his stepfather, Carl Wagner, and was told: "No, my real father."

"I said: 'Wait a minute, you know your real father's dead, don't you?' And he looked me in the eye for a minute, then looked at the floor and said: 'Yes.'"

On cross-examination McDonald was hostile, giving the prosecution bark for bark.

REFORMED WOLF?



Capital Wives Learn Marvels of Price Rule

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Today, as price ceilings went into effect the nation over, 200 congressional wives hurried to the Congressional club to get a first hand explanation of it all from Mr. Leon Henderson.

Mrs. Mae T. Evans.

Invitations had said that Mr. Henderson, whose wife last week buoyed Washington morale by washing her own windows, was to lead them in an all-day institute in understanding.

This accomplished, the invitations said, the wives could go home this summer and do the same for their husbands' constituents.

Down to Her Last Pair.

The turnout was amazing. So were the wives, in that most of them, now bruised mentally by the public outburst against their husbands' gasoline X-cards [for unlimited supplies], came by streetcar. One walked six blocks to catch a bus. Two had runs in their hose, and a third announced she was clad in her very last pair.

This, of course, is incidental, altho it comprised the conversational meat at the buffet luncheon [35 cents]. Before lunch three OPA men had talked about rents, food, and merchandise, but the wives were saving their questions for the afternoon free-for-all to be conducted by a woman whom most of them addressed as "Mae."

Mae is Mrs. Mae Thompson Evans, head of consumer relations for the OPA. She is small, rosy, brown-eyed, and ecstatic about price fixing.

Wonderful, and to Get Worse!

She said it was drastic, but wonderful. Just wonderful. She said things are going to be acute. "You just haven't heard anything yet," she assured the wives with a benign smile.

She even defined "consumer," saying merrily, "a consumer is what everybody is." That produced general laughter. She next quoted an OPA official who said: "You know, I'd hate to be a consumer." This, too, produced smiles.

Then Mrs. Evans went into action. "Now," she began briskly, "what is going to happen to the little business man who finds he cannot stay in business?"

The wives sat up alertly. What WAS going to happen to the little business man?

"Not all the wartime casualties will be at the front," she explained brightly. "I would say—" she hesitated. "What would you say if I said I think all the rest of the day should be off the record?"

It was.

For further information, listen to your congressional wife if she comes home this summer to help her husband campaign. Mrs. Evans says she [the wife] should know all the answers.

Mr. Henderson, incidentally, didn't show up at the institute.

BROOKS PLEA WINS ARMY'S CONCESSION TO DEFENSE WORKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—In response to a proposal by Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], the war department has agreed to accept a "declaration of citizenship," properly signed and witnessed, in lieu of birth certificates as a condition of employment in war industries.

The war department's decision was revealed in a letter to Sen. Brooks, which he read to the senate. The senator previously had called the senate's attention to existing barriers against the employment of men over 45 years of age in government agencies and in industries with war contracts. Among such barriers is the requirements of a birth certificate as evidence of citizenship.

"As no adequate record exists in many states to prove the date of birth of men of this age, they are practically debarred from employment," Brooks said.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Tribune Hires Old Dobbin to Save Rubber!

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE turned back the clock to the horse-and-wagon days last night as a part of this paper's rubber conservation program.

Five black and red wagons, drawn by husky white horses, pulled away from THE TRIBUNE'S loading platform at 7 p. m. and delivered loads of papers to corner newsstands thruout the night.

Within the next few weeks scores of additional oat burners and their rubberless and gasless equipage will be added to the newspaper delivery force. The step to conserve the vital war materials was taken two weeks before the date set by office of defense transportation for the drastic curtailment of rubber tired truck deliveries.

Loop Crowds Stare.

Loop crowds stared as Old Dobbin trotted nonchalantly in and out of traffic, pulling the wagonloads of TRIBUNES.

Old timers greeted with wide grins the sight of a horse trotting placidly down Michigan boulevard.

"See, I told you," a white headed gentleman told his wife as the crowd jammed around a wagon at Michigan avenue and Randolph street. "The auto wasn't here to stay, after all."

Ike [Chink] Salinger, the loop's oldest newsboy, let out three big yelps when the horse and wagon arrived at his stand at Washington and Clark streets.

"I've been selling TRIBUNES here in the loop 55 years and this is about the biggest thrill I can remember," Salinger said. "Atta girl! You and me are going to be friends." He gave the horse a farewell pat and began a discussion of the good old days with his customers.

They Learn Their Routes.

Loop deliveries were made only a few minutes behind the regular truck schedule.

It is predicted that the horses and wagons will make even better time soon.

"Horses learn the regular turns and stops and all the drivers and helpers will have to do is throw off the papers," one driver said. "Eighty per cent of us formerly drove horses for THE TRIBUNE."

Steve Kovac, who is in charge of the Tribune stables at 232 East Grand avenue, said the horses would be alternated every other day to give each one 24 hours' rest between work nights.

The wagons were rebuilt in Tribune shops by Tribune craftsmen. In place of headlights each carries red lanterns.

CHINESE CLEAR SALWEEN RIVER BANK OF JAPS

Columns Wiped Out or Driven Back:

CHUNGKING, China, May 18 (AP).—The west bank of the Salween river barring the eastward advance of the Japanese up the Burma road has been cleared of the enemy, and his columns have been wiped out or driven back to Lungling, the Chinese announced today.

Some 250 miles to the south, however, extremely heavy fighting was reported in progress as reënforced Japanese attacked from three directions in an apparent effort to drive up from Thailand between the Salween and Mekong to flank the Salween defenses.

The Japanese reverse along the Salween was announced after fierce artillery fire had been exchanged for days across the barrier, which the Japanese did not dare to attempt crossing.

Chinese reënforcements were flung across the stream, and in a bitter struggle the main Japanese forces were thrust back all the way to Lungling, 20 miles from the river, and remnants which clung to positions at Mailaopu and Hungmushu were wiped out.

Lift Menace to Paoshan.

As a result, said the Chinese, Paoshan, 55 miles beyond the Salween and the next Japanese objective in that theater, is no longer menaced by the northward movement from Lungling.

The Chinese communique told of greatly intensified fighting around Mong Hai and Mong Lin, 30 and 45 miles south and southeast respectively of Kengtung.

Each time, the Chinese said, they threw back the Japanese, but the Japanese were reported to have been reënforced, and the battle was said to be continuing. The Japanese were pushing columns in from the two sides, along the Mekong to the east and across the Salween from the west.

The communique told of a successful Chinese counterattack at Mong-Pailiao along the Mekong, and of battles still raging at Kungkum and Taikao along the Salween.

New Bases Established.

Chinese military quarters said their forces were establishing new bases in the hills of eastern and northern Burma from which to continually menace the Japanese flank and conduct guerrilla warfare. The presence of these forces was calculated to have a powerful effect upon a Japanese invasion of India or China.

[On the west Burma front, the opening phase of the battle for India appeared near as British forces withdrew to less than 20 miles from the provincial border of Assam. The Japanese said their advance patrols were within four miles of the frontier. The diminished forces of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander were being replaced by fresh troops from the command of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell in India, and the Japanese were coming within range of stronger air forces of the allies.]

Fighting in Eastern China.

In eastern China, where the Japanese pursued an offensive in the coastal province of Chekiang, presumably with the idea of seizing points which might serve as United States air bases for the bombing of Tokio, the fighting was intensified as the Japanese reënforced their columns and the Chinese attacked and inflicted heavy losses.

However, the Japanese were able to advance from Siaoshan to the vicinity of Chuki, in their push south of the Tsientang river. One hard fought action took place at Fenghwa, birthplace of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Bomb Two Indian Towns.

TOKIO, May 18 [from Japanese broadcasts] — (AP). — A Domei news agency report today from the Burma front said Japanese planes yesterday blasted warehouses and trains in the first raids upon Bahadurpur and Silchar, 100 miles inside India.

These towns were described as important points on the India-China communication line in Assam province.

Japanese army headquarters in North China announced that operations begun late in April to wipe out Chinese resistance centers in Hopei and Shantung provinces had "achieved brilliant results," with 16,492 prisoners taken, 19,288 voluntarily surrendered, and the bodies of 14,363 Chinese soldiers found on the battlefields.

HERE'S DIGEST OF WAR NEWS ON WORLD FRONTS

Latest war developments:

The Japanese force on the west bank of the Salween river in Burma has been wiped out or driven back, the Chinese announced. Further south reënforced Jap armies were attacking from three directions to drive into China from Thailand.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced that allied bombers had scored hits and probably destroyed two Jap transports off the island of Timor. Seven Jap planes were destroyed or damaged when 34 of them raided Port Moresby, it was added.

Russians Kill 12,000.

Moscow reported Russian troops advancing on a 100 mile front around Kharkov in the Ukraine, fighting massed German tanks pulling trailerloads of infantry. The Reds said the battlefields were littered with 12,000 German dead. Nazi parachutists also were being used to stem the Red drive.

London reported that the 10,000 ton German cruiser Prinz Eugen was damaged by two torpedoes fired by RAF planes which caught the ship along the Norwegian coast, and fought an air battle with a large force of German fighter planes.

Yanks Land in Ireland.

Large forces of American troops, equipped with tanks and artillery, arrived in northern Ireland to reënforce the American contingent already there. Most of them were from midwestern and northern states.

Tells How Vast Convoy Fought Off Axis Subs

BY JOHN A. MOROSO III.

A NORTHERN IRELAND PORT, May 18 (AP).—I have just crossed the Atlantic with a huge American convoy that outfoxed enemy submarines all the way. We had to "push the periscopes down" almost all the way of our 2,400 mile voyage of daring and skill.

The destroyers and planes delivered thunderous depth charge attacks.

In convoy work the job is to get the troopships thru. You don't have time to investigate attacks or run the enemy down. You blast him when you think he is near and keep sailing.

The vicious explosions left no doubt in our minds that the depth bombs were getting results. We were five miles away but our ship shivered sharply from the blasts.

No Torpedo Fired at Convoy.

We were near enough to the target to believe the submarine could not have escaped.

No torpedo was fired at us. Neither were we bombed by planes, altho our eager gunners waited expectantly for an attack as they crouched by their guns night and day. This eagerness was one of the cheering things during the voyage. Our Yankee kids have the utmost confidence in their ability to knock down planes.

So thousands and thousands of cheering Yankee soldiers—mechanized men of America's new world girdling army—have arrived here after their dangerous and fog-ridden journey.

With these lads came millions of dollars' worth of battle tools—ready for instant use.

Largest Unit Sent to Ulster.

The value of our convoy and its ultimate effect on the war are like the operational details of our trip—military secrets. But I am allowed to say that it was the largest yet to arrive here.

The soldiers of this war are better equipped and prepared than the lads who rushed overseas in the last conflict.

They have a new type of helmet that affords more protection. Their rifles shoot harder and faster. Their food is more plentiful and scientifically planned. They are sturdier, healthier, and as cheerful as kids at a circus.

TANKS LANDED WITH SOLDIERS FROM MIDWEST

Veterans of Pacific War Included.

Hint at an Offensive

LONDON, May 19 [Tuesday] (AP).—Arrival of thousands of American soldiers in Northern Ireland allows planning for offensive operations on the continent "on a scale of at least 20 divisions, or 300,000 men," a military observer said today.

A British radio commentator said: "It won't be long, let's hope, before the Americans can cross the English channel or the North sea."

The military observer said that the inclusion of tanks is proof "that the United States is utilizing its greatest advantage over the enemy—the cream of a mechanically minded nation," adding: "These troops are fully equipped. Often that's a military catch phrase. But this time, happily, it's absolutely true. They are miles ahead of the American divisions landed in France in the first World war."

AEF HEADQUARTERS, Northern Ireland, May 18 (AP).—Shipload after shipload of American troops equipped for offensive fighting—thousands of them with tanks and artillery—have arrived in Northern Ireland [Ulster] to reënforce the already big United States force here.

These fighting men came over as public enthusiasm in Britain mounted for a second front against Germany on the continent.

These troops brought an array of power in a fleet of transports and supply ships almost as vast as the largest convoys of the last war.

They were preceded by other formidable contingents which arrived between late January and early March.

[Arrival of the troops was announced in Washington, D. C., by a communique which said: "British Isles: The war department today announced the arrival of additional United States army troops. The number is substantially larger than previous contingents and includes tank units."]

Follow Up Canadian Division.

Reënforcement of the rapidly expanding American garrison followed closely the arrival of advance units of a Canadian armored division and thousands more men which the dominion is contributing to the land and air force the allies are marshaling in the British Isles.

Many of the United States soldiers who swarmed ashore in Ulster were from midwestern and north central states. Among them were young, tough men who, despite their youth, already have served in the western Pacific.

The debarkation here, carried out in great secrecy, was smooth, and swift. The men were quickly dispersed to secluded bases already prepared for them thruout Ulster.

Escape Enemy's Planes, Subs.

The great convoy of liners and former fancy cruise ships converted into troop carriers apparently escaped the enemy's aerial eyes and its U-boats. The army shared with the navy in the praise for the safety of the troops. The guns aboard the transports were manned by soldiers of the army's transport service and the ship's crews were civilians.

A British officer, to whom the operation was an oft-viewed scene, said: "This is the finest I've ever seen."

The first enlisted man off the first ship in this contingent was Pvt. Marvin O'Neal, who said he was "an Irishman from South Dakota"—the town of Philip. Coming ashore with O'Neal was his commanding officer, Capt. Junior Miller, Rapid City, S. D.

Finds War "Getting Better."

In cheering contrast to the arrival of other contingents, these troops stepped ashore into "an American picnic," a wharf shed where stewed meat, vegetables, pork and beans, slices of luncheon meat, pickles, jam, bread, pears and apricots, and coffee were waiting for them.

One lieutenant colonel, an infantry veteran of the first World war, remarked as he hurried along:

"The last time I came over on an old cattle boat. This time it was a liner. The war is getting better."

Day and night the unloading continued. Every American and British defense unit—air and ground—was alert as huge field guns rolled away

Ammunition cases, unloaded almost as quickly as the troops themselves, were rushed into the countryside.

Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle Jr., commander of the AEF in Northern Ireland, in passing one of the piers personally greeted Pvt. Van Jernigan of New Albany, Miss.

One field commander said his huskies were in splendid shape and that "you'll hear a heck of a lot from them."

These men, he said, had been in training since the army's intensive field maneuvers in the south more than six months ago.

"Now that the boat ride is over back to work we go," he added.

Increased Emphasis on War.

The increased emphasis on the war in this area of the world, as shown by the flow of men and munitions, brought a new spirit thruout the Northern Ireland command of both the British and American allies.

This was evident as huge tanks rolled off the ships and clanked away to field bases in the interior.

"They're ready to go," Capt. H. T. McWatters of Pittsburg, Tex., shouted to a British major.

The Briton called back to the overall clad McWatters and asked if there was anything he could do for the tankmen.

What Do They Need? Nothing!

"Nothing," he was told. "The boys will take care of everything."

The "boys" were an expert group of long trained noncoms and armored force specialists who have worked and virtually slept and eaten with tanks, most of them for more than a year, many as long as the armored force has existed.

They know all about their radio equipped battle wagons and weapons from the .30 caliber machine gun to the walloping 75 millimeter [3 inch] cannon.

Hardly an order was necessary as the tanks were run from their ship berths to the docks.

BRITISH HAIL NEW AEF

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19 [Tuesday].—Most London newspapers this morning gave front page headlines to the arrival of another unit of the AEF in Northern Ireland. "Invasion Panzers Landed," said the Daily Mail. "U. S. Army Here in War's Biggest Convoy—Two-Navy Escort," said the Daily Express. "U. S. Troops Here in Thousands—And Their Tanks," said the Daily Mail, adding:

"Their arrival presages a gradual occupation of key towns and villages in Northern Ireland by American troops who will relieve British forces. Today there is scarcely a strategic point in the province which does not have its quota of Americans."

Only Civilians Unload Tanks.

The speed with which the tanks were unloaded and driven off by their own trained crews was mentioned in most dispatches. However, the News-Chronicle complained that "only one item was carried out in slow motion—disembarking tanks." The military personnel, it explained, was not allowed to help the civilian dockers and longshoremen with the unloading because of trade union regulations.

"So one was compelled to watch five men hauling on a cable—and making very heavy weather of it—while half a hundred able bodied and highly trained personnel stood about waiting," its reporter remarked.

PRIVATE STOWS AWAY ON CONVOY —TO 'GET ACTION!'

AEF HEADQUARTERS, Northern Ireland, May 18 (AP). — There was a stowaway aboard with the newly arrived contingent of American troops—Pvt. George F. Duval Jr., 29 years old, of Chelsea, Mass.

Pvt. George Duval, Jr.

Slipping past the police at an eastern United States port when the troops embarked, he said, he went aboard and "grabbed myself a bunk." He was discovered after the convoy was well out to sea.

Now he is under technical arrest in Northern Ireland, but it is likely that he will be absorbed in a military police unit. He served one three year hitch in the army before he was drafted. Explaining why he stowed away, he said: "I wanted action and that was the best way I could figure out to get it quick."

REDS REPEL TANK, CHUTIST ATTACKS IN KHARKOV DRIVE

Pincer Assault Closes In on Key to Ukraine.

MOSCOW, May 19 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's armies of the south, beating down and rolling over the teamed attacks of German tank troops and parachutists of the sort who had run wild in France, were reported early today to be still advancing on a 100 mile arc about Kharkov in the Ukraine.

"During May 18," said the soviet command's midnight communique, "in the Kharkov direction our troops conducted offensive operations and advanced."

Less official information earlier had indicated Timoshenko's left flank was nearing Krasnograd, in an area about 60 miles southwest of Kharkov, and that his right was moving up on that Ukrainian metropolis itself.

On the Kerch peninsula in the Crimea, the midnight bulletin reported only a continuation of "stubborn battles in the region of the town of Kerch," thus not repeating an earlier statement that some parts of Kerch itself were in Russian hands.

Shot Down 64 Nazi Planes.

The midnight communique also said the Russians shot down 64 Nazi planes yesterday, losing only 21 themselves, and that soviet planes sank an enemy minesweeper in the Barents sea [in the arctic].

Before Kharkov, said Russian dispatches, the most violent German counterthrust — where tanks pulling armored trailers of infantrymen charged the soviet line and parachutists were dropped in single groups numbering as high as 120—had everywhere failed to check Timoshenko's progress.

Already that drive has gained 12 to 37 miles over battlefields littered with 12,000 German dead and the wreckage of war materials, the Russians announced.

Every soviet account indicated the German command was hurling every weapon into a supreme, reckless defensive effort.

Krasnograd Taken, Says Briton.

LONDON, May 18.—A British military commentator today said the left wing of the Russian drive on Kharkov already rests on Krasnograd, midway between Kharkov and the Dnieper river. He said the Russians are advancing on a front about 100 miles long, extending in an arc northward from Krasnograd thru Chengniev to Volchansk. Chengniev is approximately 20 miles southeast of Kharkov and Volchansk is about 30 miles northeast of the latter city.

Admit "Desperate" Soviet Resistance.

BERLIN, May 18 [from German broadcasts].—(AP).—The German high command today conceded a "desperate" soviet resistance on the Kerch peninsula.

German military spokesmen said the operations on the Kerch peninsula were aimed only at "rounding out" their positions and declined to describe the action as the beginning of a German offensive.

Of the Kharkov front, a communique asserted 324 Russian tanks had been destroyed since May 12, 56 of them yesterday in a tank battle and another 54 by German planes.

The Germans also reported that bombers blasted Russian barracks and supply columns in the Lake Ilmen sector and that Hungarian troops advanced on the Lapland front.

CHICAGOAN WITH RED CROSS AIDS IN NEW AEF CONVOY

AEF HEADQUARTERS, Northern Ireland, May 18 (AP).—One of the attractions of the unloading of the United States convoy which brought a new contingent of the AEF here was 30 nurses wearing navy blue slacks. One of the women, who were members of the Harvey Cushing unit of Harvard university, said, "Slacks were the sea going uniform recommended, altho low skirts are the rule."

Among the arrivals was a Chicagoan, Red Cross Field Worker Joseph Baker.

One of the happiest soldiers to land here was Pvt. Gene Minier of Brookings, S. D., who was greeted by his soldier father, Maj. Earl M. Minier. However, Maj. Minier had only a brief opportunity to talk to his son, who was sent to a base miles away.

Developments reported yesterday from the southern end of the war front in Russia are told in captions on the map.

WATER'S BAD FOR OUR TWO SPORTS; THEY PROVE IT

Adolph Muench, who is 40 years old but has no regular address, was lolling in one of his favorite lolling places, the east bank of the river near Montrose avenue, yesterday. In the high grass beside him and also enjoying the warm sun and the warmer liquids they were sharing was William Arvidson, 52, of 4045 North Damen avenue.

Muench arose to stretch and yawn, and stretched right on into the river in water about chin deep. Arvidson hesitated only long enough to deposit the bottle carefully on the ground, and dove in to the rescue.

About the time both realized they could not swim and came to the further conclusion that it was practically impossible to stand up long enough to keep their heads above water, Policemen Joseph Kowal and Thomas Hayes of Damen avenue arrived and fished them out.

Russia Appoints Malik as Ambassador to Japan

MOSCOW, May 18 (AP).—Y. A. Malik has been appointed Russian ambassador to Japan to succeed Constantin Smetanin, who returned to Moscow three months ago. When Smetanin left Tokio, his visit to Moscow was described as routine, and it was said he would be returned to his post. Instead he has received another appointment.

SMUTS PRAISES U. S. WAR EFFORT TO HIS SOLDIERS

WITH THE SOUTH AFRICAN ARMY IN THE WESTERN DESERT, May 18 (AP).—Field Marshal Jan Smuts, prime minister of South Africa, lauded the United States war effort today.

"We have as our ally America, the most powerful nation on earth," the veteran of two world conflicts and the Boer war told staff officers and 500 selected South African troops after inspecting his forces here.

"We really owe Japan a debt of gratitude for having brought the United States into the war," Smuts said.

HIS GIRL KNEW HE WAS AT SEA; THE MAIL GOT SLIM!

Philip, S. D., May 18 (AP).—A mother and sweetheart broke into tears of happiness today when informed that Pvt. Marvin O'Neal was safe in Ireland—the first enlisted man in America's third contingent to land. His mother exclaimed:

"We're so happy that he's on land again. We know he must have been at sea when he didn't write his usual two letters a week."

Then 17 year old Virginia Peterson, the girl he left behind, said:

"I knew he must have been at sea because I didn't get his usual three letters a week."

REPORT GESTAPO CHIEF IN HOLLAND TO SUBDUE DUTCH

Puppet Regime Move Seen in Himmler's Visit.

LONDON, May 18 (AP).—Adolf Hitler has sent Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler to the Netherlands to quell a surge of anti-Nazi resistance among stout hearted Dutch patriots, the Aneta news agency said tonight.

Heinrich Himmler.

Himmler's dispatch to the low country followed a week of Nazi repression in which the invasion jittery Germans executed 96 Dutchmen, rearrested all former Dutch officers and cadets, and seized 460 prominent Netherlanders as hostages.

Before going to the Netherlands Himmler conferred with his strong-arm lieutenant, Reinhard Heydrich—"Der Henker," or the hangman, as he is known among Europe's oppressed millions—who has been shifted from Czecho-Slovakia to occupied France to deal with widespread anti-Nazi violence.

Warn of Puppet Government.

Earlier, a spokesman for the Netherlands government in exile here broadcast a warning to the occupied country that a puppet Nazi administration would be established there, headed by Anton A. Mussert, would-be little Fuehrer and chief of the Dutch Nazi party.

It was believed in London that Himmler's arrival was connected with these German plans.

The Netherlands spokesman, Adrian J. Pelt, urged Dutchmen back home to offer all possible resistance but to refrain from reckless acts that would lead to new wholesale executions.

Nazis Reënforce Norway, Dakar.

British sources asserted today that Hitler has dispatched 50,000 combat troops into Norway since March and has persuaded Vichy to send almost half a million tons of goods—largely war materials—and "substantial" numbers of troops to Dakar, French West Africa, because of fears of allied thrusts.

In northern Norway, they added, the German army ordered that traffic on all roads leading north of Narvik to Tromsoe be limited to military transport and dispatched several Austrian mountain regiments to the area between Narvik and Kirkenes. Large numbers of German air force ground crews also have been sent into northern Norway to operate new airdromes from which the Nazi planes are harassing convoys taking United States and British goods to Russia.

ASKS ENGINEERS TO SOLVE PUZZLE OF WAR SHIPPING

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The chief of the army's services of supply called on American transportation engineers tonight to devise ways to speed American munitions to the fighting fronts.

Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell told men from 16 engineering societies that it was an unhappy fact that "transport afloat and ashore is our greatest bottleneck."

"Our tank factories and our plane factories are turning out machines in numbers that would astound and dismay the dictators," Somervell advised. "Our task is to get them where they are needed by the shortest route in the shortest possible time.

"If one of you transportation engineers can figure out some way of increasing our transportation efficiency, and put that scheme to work you'd be as great a national hero as the general who wins battles on the field. I urge you, try to help us out with this."

Here's what the Boys say about Andes Candies—

The box of candy was so tempting that I had to use the rifle buttstroke to prevent a riot. The boys jammed closely and every one wanted to be the first, so they could get at least one piece of Andes Candies. Every piece to the last was well appreciated.*

I broke open the package and found a box of Andes Candies. I also found several of my buddies standing around my bunk, anxious to find out what was in the package. The boys from Chicago knew it was good candy from the name on the box; the others out here soon found out how good it was when they tasted it.*

MINISTER FINDS FAT PROFITS IN SHOUTING 'NAZI'

Birkhead's Red Sympathy Is Big Business.

Various individuals and organizations have attacked The Chicago Tribune because of its insistence on an all-out American war effort. In the belief the public should know the background of these attacks, The Tribune is printing factual stories about its detractors from time to time. Another in this series is presented below.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—The Rev. Leon Milton Birkhead, a dissident Methodist preacher with a flair for publicity, is making a very comfortable living these days out of charging other people with being "traitors," "appeasers," "defeatists," and members of "Nazi transmission belts."

Birkhead is director of the self-founded "Friends of Democracy." War has put him on a big business basis. His goal for a battle fund is 5 million dollars and the cash is dropping merrily into his till. The organization will take anything from a two-bit piece up.

The "Reverend" was always good at raising money for a cause—and himself. Years ago in Kansas City, Mo., he inserted ads in the Sunday Star urging young folks to come to his church for "dancing and cards and to get acquainted." He rented the church out to all comers, including Communists. He wooed national publicity by performing "companionate" marriage ceremonies.

Attacked The Tribune.

One of the Rev. Mr. Birkhead's most recent activities was the peddling of a full page advertisment attacking newspapers which have demanded an all-out war effort, no matter what political careers must be sacrificed in order to bring victory.

THE TRIBUNE was one of the newspapers assailed in Birkhead's ad for "endless carping, spreading of unease, and constant spittle of suspicion of our government and allies . . . the ceaseless drip of poison day after day."

This ad was printed in the San Francisco Chronicle. It was turned down by reputable newspapers, such as the New York Times, which sent the Friends of Democracy a note saying it was "not acceptable." Wendell Willkie, former Republican candidate for President, refused to let his name be used on the ad.

For Companionate Marriage.

Birkhead first sprang into print in a big way in November of 1927 when he conducted the "companionate" marriage ceremony of Josephine Haldeman-Julius of the publishing family to Aubrey Roselle. Of it the Rev. Mr. Birkhead reverently said: "I think of it as genuinly religious altho there was no mention of God and other religious terminology."

Later, the Rev. Mr. Birkhead was the author of several Haldeman-Julius blue books. Among them was "The Sins of Good People," in which he suggested good people would be better if they would "commit a dark, pleasant, terrible, wicked deed." He went on to propose they should "sin a little."

In the self-portrait he painted for Who's Who, the Rev. Mr. Birkhead described himself as "technical adviser to Sinclair Lewis during the writing of Elmer Gantry." Elmer Gantry was a scalding, satiric novel on the American clergy.

Paid Tribute to Atheist.

Birkhead also served on an international committee formed to pay tribute to the atheist, Robert Ingersoll, by the Freethinkers of America. He attacked religion in a treatise on "change and decay in religion," which was published in the book, "Humanist Sermons."

The "reverend" now has a swanky Park avenue office for his "Friends of Democracy" but before the war his activities were centered in a Unitarian church in Kansas City. Birkhead left the Methodist church two decades ago for reasons unknown. He called his church in Kansas City "Liberal Center."

Besides asking the young folk to come up sometime for dancing and card playing, Birkhead solicited other groups. One handbill he circulated was addressed to the following: "Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Communists, single taxers." There is a record that the Communists did meet in his church and the rafters vibrated to the "Internationale."

Follows Communist Line.

Another group to whom Birkhead turned over the church was the American League Against War and Fascism. This was a Communist front organization which later became the League for Peace and Democracy and dissolved after exposure by the Dies congressional committee investigating un-American activities.

In his campaign against THE TRIBUNE, the Rev. Mr. Birkhead is following the Communist party line. The Reds in this country have wrapped the respectable cloak of the Russian war effort around them but are still aiming at sovietizing the United States. THE TRIBUNE has fought the movement and is a principal target for the Communists.

Another preacher of the same stripe who formerly was president of the "Friends of Democracy" is the Rev. Joseph C. Cleveland of Kansas City. In April of 1938 he got Sally Rand, the fan dancer, to speak from the pulpit of his Congregational church. She made a plea for the Red army in Spain.

The identity of the fat cats behind Birkhead's activities has not been revealed, but it is reported that money has been siphoned to his organization by the Council for Democracy. The council is heavily financed and staffed by Henry Luce, publisher of Time, Life, and Fortune magazines. Its prime function is promoting the editorial policies of the Luce magazines as a purportedly independent organization.

MAYOR GREETS 900 IN CIO UNION AT CONVENTION

Some 900 delegates to the fifth convention of the United Retail Wholesale and Department Store Employés of America [CIO] yesterday heard Mayor Kelly welcome them to their convention in the Morrison hotel. They also heard him define "criticizers."

These, said the mayor, include the Monday morning quarterbacks and the back snipers. But chiefly, he asserted, they include the whisky general who knows how to run the war after a few drinks, criticizes everything that is done, and breaks down the morale of "the boys at the front, the boys in the shop, and the citizenry."

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, pronounced the invocation. A number of CIO international chieftains were present at the opening of the convention, which is to run all week.

F. D. R. Envoy to India in Cairo on Way Back Home

CAIRO, Egypt, May 18 (AP).—Louis Johnson, special envoy to India for President Roosevelt, arrived today en route to the United States. He is returning because of illness. He said that doctors in India had been unable to diagnose his condition and that he intended to enter the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn.

THEY MAY TURN THE HANDS BACK ON SIGN CLOCKS

Nobody knows exactly why, but as long as any one can remember the hands on painted signboard clocks have read 8:21. A proposal to move the time back 26 minutes was made yesterday at the annual convention of the United Horological [watchmakers] Association of America in the Morrison hotel.

A resolution introduced at the opening convention session calls for a 7:55 signboard clock with this notation under it:

"This clock is set to remind us of the first shot on Pearl Harbor at 7:55 a. m., Dec. 7, 1941. Remember the time of the crime of all time."

Another delegate suggested that the signboard clocks read 11:05, the hands thus forming a 'V' for victory, but delegates seemed to prefer the original motion.

Folklore has it that the 8:21 signboard time marks the assassination or death of Abraham Lincoln. But historians say it isn't so. Lincoln was shot about 10 p. m., and died about 7 a. m. the next day.

U. S. MAY DECREE HOW YOU SHALL SPEND INCOME

Treasury Experts Work on New Plan.

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Rationing of the proportion of income that could be spent for consumer goods or travel has been proposed by treasury economists as an alternative to the over-all rationing of consumer goods themselves, it was disclosed today. The plan has not yet been officially sponsored by the treasury department and whether it will be submitted to congress was said to depend in large extent on whether the chances of a favorable popular response seem good.

Backstop to Price Control.

Treasury experts, however, have made known their preference for it over commodity rationing, claiming it will be a necessary backstop to price control and taxation as anti-inflationary measures. They argue that while such commodities as men's and women's clothing may offer many possibilities of evading price control by the production of different qualities and styles of apparel, the treasury plan would remove the incentive for this by limiting the market for price-inflated goods.

By setting a definite limit, scaled to individual income, that a man or woman may spend for clothing, loopholes in price control could be plugged, it was added. For instance, if a man's allotment for clothing, as worked out by the treasury, entitled him to spend $200 a year, he could spend the entire amount for a suit if he wished, but would have nothing left for other apparel. The number of those able or willing to buy the high price suits under such a plan would be so small as to result in an extremely limited market scarcely worth a producer's attention.

Seen as Inflation Curb.

By setting such a limit, treasury economists believe they will discourage inflationary spending of the $14,000,000,000 to $18,000,000,000 in excess consumer spending power which may be left even after present taxation and war bond sales programs have been met. In preventing the use of these funds for the purchase of consumer goods treasury men feel they will drive such money into savings or investments.

Under the treasury experts' plan there would be no restriction on expenditures for the payment of taxes, the purchase of war bonds or other investment, rent, medical care, and perhaps recreation.

That proportion of incomes which could be spent for the purchase of food, consumers' goods, whether durable or nondurable; and for travel would be rationed. The proportion would decrease as the income mounted. In other words, a poor man would be allowed to spend most of his income for such purposes while a wealthy one would be restricted to a comparatively small amount.

On Progressive Basis.

The restriction would be progressive like the income tax. In its favor it is argued that it is superior to other alternatives. For instance, a rich man; altho hit hard by taxation or forced saving, could spend his capital assets if he were determined to be a playboy. A poor man might decide to spend his little surplus on the wrong things, such as silk shirts, and neglect visits to his doctor or dentist.

It is urged that the proportion of income allowed to be expended on consumer goods might be varied from year to year in accordance with the supply of such goods available. In this way a more exact check could be kept on total possible expenditure for such goods and thus on price inflation.

Rationing of expenditures, like other rationing, would have its accompaniment of ration books. It would have to be supplemented by the commodity rationing of really scarce items. But treasury economists who favor it say it would make over-all rationing unnecessary.

Enters Service

Lew Ayres, happy because his draft board assigned him to noncombatant duty, grins before the X-ray machine in Portland, Ore.

Portland, Ore., May 18 (AP).—Lew Ayres, film actor, left a conscientious objectors' camp at Wyeth, Ore., today and signed up to serve with noncombat troops of the army for the duration.

He appeared with 25 inductees from Hood River, Ore., at an induction center, where girl clerks scrambled for his autograph.

The star two months ago chose life in a camp for conscientious objectors to army service because he did not believe in bearing arms—and still does not.

He said today that he was eager to serve his country as best he could now that his draft board had granted his request for noncombat service with a recommendation that he be assigned to duty in the medical corps. He hoped it would be the medical corps.

"I have charge of first aid and nursing at Camp Wyeth," he said. "I have been a Red Cross first aid instructor for quite a while and I lectured in Los Angeles on first aid and civilian defense against chemical warfare."

BUILDING TRADES WORKERS NEEDED AT NAVY'S BASES

Call for Recruits 17-50 Years Old.

Chicago building trades workers are being recruited to staff the naval construction battalions in service outside the continental limits of the United States, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. David N. Goldenson, recruiting officer.

More men are needed, particularly carpenters, excavation, and concrete workers, Lieut. Goldenson said. The battalions are building sea bases and repairing damaged naval craft. Recruits may be from 17 to 50 years old.

Age Limit Lowered.

The navy also announced yesterday that it has lowered the age limit on recruiting men for training in the operation of secret aircraft detectors. Formerly the ages were from 21 to 50 years, but now the navy will accept men who have passed their 17th birthday. Those from 17 to 21 will be given seamen's ratings. Men over 21 may be rated as petty officers.

Instruction for manning the detector device includes training in radio, electricity, algebra, and shop practice. Examinations for applicants are being given at the Navy Pier training school.

Airport Contract Signed.

The naval expansion drive received another boost yesterday with the signing of the contract for enlarging the Curtiss-Reynolds airport at Glenview. The contract calls for the addition of runways at the new training base covering 1,100 acres near Arlington Heights.

Plans to make the field one of the largest inland bases—if not the largest in the nation—were announced early in the year by the navy. In February it was reported that the project would cost nearly $2,000,000, but since that time the program has been expanded.

"I can't say how much the program will cost, but it will be considerably more than $2,000,000," said Capt. R. D. Spalding, works officer for the Great Lakes naval training station.

Three Firms to Do Job.

The contract was signed yesterday by three Chicago construction companies, Standard Paving, 30 North La Salle street; Midwest Construction company, 221 North La Salle street, and White Consolidated company, 1735 Fullerton avenue.

The three companies will begin work of grading and draining immediately, Capt. Spalding said. It is expected that the work will be finished this summer. Construction of most of the field's buildings has been completed.

The field was purchased by the navy in 1940 and barracks have been added to the huge hangar already at the field.

DISCUSS MEANS TO GET GASOLINE TO EAST STATES

Others Talk of National Ration Plan.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—A White House conference of legislative leaders today discussed measures to relieve the gasoline shortage in Atlantic seaboard states while four governmental agencies studied proposals to extend the motor fuel rationing nation-wide, including petroleum production regions where there is a surplus of gasoline.

The legislative leaders were disturbed by hardships on motorists and by the burden on railroads, street cars, buses, and taxicabs caused by 10 million motor vehicles receiving short rations. They talked of new pipelines and more barges.

Rubber Shortage Affects Plans.

The federal agencies considering an expansion of the gas ration area are thinking of rubber conservation. It's the administration's official opinion that some such rigorous curtailment of tire wear is necessary to assure transportation for munition workers and to assure the military of rubber for ships, planes, tanks, and miscellaneous equipment.

Sen. Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader of the upper chamber, said on leaving the White House that three agencies are to investigate the feasibility of prompt and rapid construction of one or maybe two pipelines from Oklahoma and Texas oil fields to the east coast. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, the War Production board, and the petroleum coördinator will jointly conduct the inquiry with particular attention to new reports that unused or little used pipe could be relaid on the new lines.

Discuss Expanding Barge Lines.

Speaker Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], also at the conference, said proposals were discussed to increase deliveries to the east by barges on inland waterways and on the intracoastal canal This would expand present barge lines on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers. The White House talk also revived an often discredited project for a barge canal across Florida to connect intracoastal waterways on the Gulf of Mexico and on the Atlantic coast.

The War Production board has previously rejected pipeline proposals indorsed by Petroleum Coördinator Harold Ickes on the grounds that they would require steel for pipe that is more sorely needed for battleships, guns, and tanks.

The senate adopted a resolution authorizing its commerce committee to make a "full and complete investigation and study" of methods of utilizing the nation's inland waterways for petroleum transportation.

Bill for Canal and Pipeline.

The house rivers and harbors committee today held its first hearing on a bill to authorize completion of a barge canal and a pipeline across Florida. Maj. Gen. Eugene Reynolds, chief of army engineers, testified that the pipeline could be completed in six months at a cost of 10 million dollars. He said if the canal were completed in three years the engineers would consider it a job well done. The bill, introduced by Chairman Joseph J. Mansfield [D., Tex.], provides for an appropriation of 144 million dollars.

The Office of Price Administration, the petroleum coördinator, the RFC, and the WPA figuratively have their heads together on the nation-wide gas ration proposal. The ration in 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia reduced daily tire mileage on 10 million vehicles approximately 50 per cent when it went into effect on Friday.

May Ration All on July 1.

On June 1, the 700,000 in the states of Oregon and Washington are to be included. On July 1, according to some of the advocates, all of America's 33 million motor vehicles would be covered by restrictions on fuel consumption.

The Office of Emergency Management declared in a press statement today that unless driving mileages are reduced, 20 million motor vehicles will be forced off the highways within another 12 or 15 months due to the tire shortage. It predicted that without a curb on mileage only 8 million passenger cars could survive thru 1943.

In the meantime, Price Administrator Leon Henderson ruled today "B" cards, giving allowances of gasoline for business driving, can be used for pleasure driving to the extent that the business trips are reduced. The written statement did not say whether the "X" cards could be used for pleasure gasoline but a spokesman interrogated said the legitimate holder might drive some nonessential mileage.

FREIGHTER'S SHOT HITS U-BOAT IN BATTLE ON COAST

'Free French' Ship in Three Hour Fight.

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, May 18 (AP).—A "Free French" freighter battled and may have sunk an enemy U-boat in a three hour engagement in the Atlantic, it was learned today when the vessel limped into port battered by "dud" torpedo hits and shellfire. One of the crew was lost.

In the fight, crewmen believed their ship's gun scored a direct hit on the submarine before the action was broken off. The ship was hit twice by torpedoes which failed to explode, and by zigzagging she avoided a third torpedo.

The locale of the fight was "off the Canadian Atlantic coast," recalling that only a week ago two and perhaps three allied merchant ships were sunk in the St. Lawrence river by torpedoes.

Ten Shells Hit Ship.

Ten of 50 shells fired by the U-boat struck the "Free French" ship, the last hitting a steam main. One shell exploded near the freighter's gun, killing one man. Four were injured.

After firing three torpedoes, the U-boat surfaced a half mile away and opened with her gun. The sub's opening shot carried away two lifeboats and sprayed the deck with fragments. Direct hits then tore away most of the bridge.

As the sub approached, the crew machine gunned the lifeboats and rafts. The freighter gunners held their fire until the U-boat was a bare 300 yards away, and then let go with the possibly vital shot.

The freighter met a lobster man, who took them in tow.

Sub Shoots Crew on Deck.

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia, May 18 (AP).—The eight survivors of a Norwegian tanker who arrived here today said the German submarine which sank their vessel machine gunned the crew on deck before setting fire to the ship. Twenty-six men are missing.

The survivors, two wounded, arrived by airplane from Carrizal, where they were landed after their vessel had been destroyed off the coast May 12. They said the submarine commander ordered the crew to line up on the deck of the tanker, and that the U-boat then opened fire with its machine guns against them.

24 Rescued in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, May 18 (AP).—The United States embassy said today that the first officer and 23 men of a torpedoed ship had been taken to Cozumel, island capital of Quintana Roo territory, after arriving in a lifeboat at the Islas Mujeres off Yucatan peninsula. The men were uninjured.

19 Survivors in Port.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, May 18 (AP).—Nineteen survivors of a United States freighter were brought here today and reported that an axis submarine, after sinking their ship near the Island of Bonaire, machine gunned the crew in lifeboats. The survivors were landed on Bonaire and brought to Willemstad by plane.

STREETS OF MANILA GET JAPANESE NAMES AS 'TOKEN OF PEACE'

TOKIO, May 18 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—A Domei dispatch from Manila said today that "to commemorate the return of complete peace and order thruout the Philippines following the fall of Corregidor" the principal streets, parks, and bridges of Manila have been given Japanese names.

This, it was said, was done by the civil administration under Jorge B. Vargas "with the understanding of the Japanese expeditionary force."

Thus Dewey boulevard [named for the 1898 victor of Manila bay] becomes Boulevard Heiwa [Peace]; Taft avenue [for the first American governor general, later president of the United States], Avenue Daitoa [Greater East Asia]; Harrison boulevard [for Francis Burton Harrison, governor general under President Wilson] Boulevard Koa [Progress of Asia]; and Harrison park, Park Rizal [for a Filipino hero]; Jones bridge becomes Banzai [ten thousand years] bridge.

NOW IT'S SUGAR! 22,000 POUNDS OF IT ARE STOLEN

Back in the days when liquor was illegal the boys used to hijack it from bonded warehouses and drug stocks, remember?

Well, yesterday when officials of the Orange Products corporation opened their doors at 4336 Division street after the week-end, what do you suppose they were missing?

Sugar. More than 22,000 pounds of it. Some one with a key—there was no sign of forcible entry—had removed 227 bags of it, 100 pounds to the bag.

And the government was just as steamed up about it all as it used to be 10 years ago about whisky. Jack Oppenheim, head of the criminal division of the OPA quoted statute and section and threatened a year in prison and $10,000 fine for the thieves, and the same for any one who buys it.

TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED.

Wayne Hanley of 5919 West Jackson boulevard, driver for a meat products company, was robbed of $100 late yesterday by an armed man in front of 1451 Harrison street.

WPB CURBS SALE OF FOOD SLICERS, COFFEE GRINDERS

New Rules Restrict Steam Power Equipment.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The War Production board today prohibited manufacturers of dairy, coffee grinding, and food slicing and grinding machinery from filling any orders not bearing WPB approval.

Approved orders include those of the army and navy, certain other government agencies, the united nations, lend-lease, and orders bearing military priority ratings. Several types of exempted transactions were listed, most of them dealing with transfers of used or reconditioned machinery thru repossessions, bankruptcy procedures, mergers, leases of plants, and so on.

No restriction was imposed on deliveries of less than $1,800 worth of parts for repair purposes, and deliveries in any amount were permitted in case of an actual breakdown.

Production, sale, and delivery of heavy power steam equipment was restricted today to war agencies, lend-lease, the united nations, and purchase orders carrying military priority.

Intent of the order, the WPB said, was to guarantee that no power equipment was "put into production for any but highly essential purposes." Further, it prevents firms from obtaining new equipment under their standing priority ratings covering repair and maintenance.

The restrictions do not apply to sales or deliveries to regular distributors to fill approved orders previously received, or to equipment already in transit.

The WPB also limited the use of tin and terne plate to eight specific civilian items, forbidding all other uses except for army, navy, and maritime commission contracts. [Terne plate is a coating made of a mixture of lead and tin.]

Possessors of the metals were notified that they must file an itemized statement of their holdings "so the material may be purchased from them and channeled into war production."

The permitted uses are:

For cans, under limitations previously set forth.

For bottle and jar closures, only to the extent authorized by the closure conservation order.

For baking pans for institutions and commercial bakers. This use is limited to 1.25 pounds of tin plate per base box [about 100 pounds] and up to ½ pound of electrolytic plate per base box.

For dairy equipment, hot dipped tin plate up to 3.30 pounds per base box.

For cheese vats, dipped plate up to 11 pounds per base box.

For gas meters, dipped plate up to 3.30 pounds, electrolytic up to ½ pound, short ternes up to 1.30 pounds, and long ternes up to 4 pounds.

For oil lanterns, short and long ternes with the same limits as for gas meters.

For textile spinning cylinders and card screens, dipped plate up to 1.25 pounds per base box.

The WPB also announced plans to increase the output of structural steel shapes used in shipbuilding by curtailing other items made on the same type of steel mill equipment. Output of structural shapes has become a new ship production bottleneck, having failed to keep pace with the expanded output of steel plates. A directive has gone forward to steel companies instructing them to expand shape production in June, WPB said.

FEARS FOR PRESS FREEDOM AFTER WAR IS ENDED

Lawrenceville, N. J., May 18 [Special].—Concern that freedom of the press might not be restored at the end of the war was expressed here tonight by Arthur Krock, chief of the Washington bureau of the New York Times, in the eighth of a series of lectures of the "Lawrenceville forum" program at the Lawrenceville school.

"Should any government then in power seek to prevent this restoration," Krock said, "the American people will realize that all its freedom centers on this and that it must put down the government on this issue. If they do not, we will suffer thru victory a greater defeat than any Hitler ever dreamed of."

He advocated the combining of military and nonmilitary censorship under one civilian head, saying that the Office of Censorship, headed by Byron Price, was not adequate. All that office does, he said, is to control in-going and out-going information and act as a sort of messenger service between the newspapers and the offices of government.

CUBAN BOATS MUST HAVE RADIO.

HAVANA, Cuba, May 18.—The government today tightened safety requirements for Cuban vessels. All boats, including fishing craft, must carry a radio. Special provisioning of lifeboats and rafts as well as regular crew drills were ordered.

ARMY BOMBERS STOP ERUPTION OF MAUNA LOA

City of Hilo Saved as Lava Flow Is Diverted.

HILO, T. H., May 18 (AP).—Mauna Loa volcano on Hawaii Island, after two weeks of its greatest activity since 1881, has finally been quieted by aerial bombing. The army lifted its censorship on the situation.

The city of Hilo feared its greatest danger from the volcano in 61 years as the huge wall of lava, flowing two miles a day, was diverted just before it reached the Hilo water supply and shifted southward 11 miles from the center of the city. The huge mass came to a stop shortly thereafter.

Wall 60 Feet High.

The eruption began April 26 from a fissure ripped from the side of the 13,675 foot volcano at the 9,300 foot elevation.

The wall of lava, 60 feet high, sometimes split over a wide distance as it tumbled down the slopes, but always rejoined the main stream. At first the lava headed directly toward Hilo, then was diverted in a southerly direction.

The fiery fountains built up a cone 300 feet high and poured for two weeks, sending a stream of liquid rock moving at a rate of 30 to 50 miles an hour for a distance of three-quarters of a mile. It then went beneath the surface thru the rock tubes, finally emerging again one mile away as a stream of lava flowing two miles a day.

The illumination cast a red glow over Hilo, 30 miles distant, in which newspapers could be read at night. Eyewitnesses said heavy tremors were felt every few minutes.

On May 2 warplanes dropped bombs. The bombing, following a procedure taken in the 1935 eruption, finally closed off the flow, which eventually stopped on May 13.

IT'S WORLD'S BIGGEST.

Mauna Loa, the world's biggest active volcano, rises 13,675 feet above sea level on the island of Hawaii, largest in the Hawaiian group.

According to the National Geographic society, Mauna Loa is good for thirty major performances every century. Its eruptions are often accompanied by flows of lava and preceded by mild tidal waves. It was last reported in action in April, 1940. Its most dangerous eruption in recent years occurred in December, 1935, when five army bombers dropped twenty 600 pound bombs near the surface of the lava flow, blasting the vents thru which the lava escaped.

Thomas A. Jaggar, government volcanologist, credited the planes with halting the eruption.

NEW ZEALANDERS MAKE NATION A BULWARK IN SEA

Prepare to Hold Japs Off Route to Australia.

BY CLARK LEE.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, May 18 [Wide World].—When Vice Adm. Robert Lee Ghormley assumes command of all the allied forces in the South Pacific area, he will find all New Zealand hard at work preparing to do its part in defeating the Japanese.

New Zealanders believe that with sufficient ships and planes, the dominion could be made invulnerable and American lines to Australia thus permanently safeguarded. They are looking to the United States to supply the needed ships and planes to assure that New Zealand is held.

Don't Expect Invasion.

The average New Zealander thinks that the Japanese won't invade. But New Zealand is doing about everything possible with its limited population and resources.

Both wealth and man power have been conscripted. The dominion legislature recently passed a staggering war budget of $422,250,000, plus $182,250,000 to cover ordinary expenditures for the current fiscal year. The budget represents 71 times the amount New Zealand spent for the entire 1914-'18 war.

The expenditure is met by sales taxes in addition to direct taxation plus war loans whereby the government borrows from the people's savings. The average New Zealander receiving an income equivalent to $19.50 weekly pays $6.50 in taxes.

Most Men in Uniform.

Except for those engaged in essential work, every able bodied man is in uniform. Women also are serving as air force, army, and navy auxiliaries, in government services, and in hospital and clerical duties.

The New Zealander feels the war most in the shortage of gasoline which limits private cars to 40 miles monthly. Sugar is the only commodity rationed, altho eggs are scarce and tea rationing is possible.

Import restrictions have been in effect over two years and no imported luxury goods are available. Entertainment is confined to movies, sports, and occasional horse races, but New Zealanders don't miss night life.

This country is essentially agricultural and has no large industry which could turn to war production, but it makes munitions on a limited scale and also is continuing to supply Britain with food from its farms.

Retain Social Benefits.

The transition from peacetime to wartime economy was accomplished with a minimum of dislocation in the country's social system, which in more than 40 years has eliminated both extreme wealth and extreme poverty. Social benefits such as old age and unemployment insurance, widows' pensions, and state medical aid continue as usual.

The complaint most frequently heard is that the government is failing to demand the same sacrifices from labor as other sections of the populace. An example is the 40 hour week, still in effect in most industries, with overtime paid for more than 40 hours.

ORDER BRITAIN'S MEDITERRANEAN SEA CHIEF TO U.S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, commander in chief of the British Mediterranean fleet, has been named successor to Adm. Charles Little as head of the British admiralty delegation in Washington, D. C. Little will become commander in chief of Britain's Portsmouth base.

Rear Adm. Sir Henry Harwood, victor in the battle of the Plate river near Montevideo, Uruguay, which resulted in the scuttling of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee on Dec. 17, 1939, will replace Cunningham, it was announced.

Cunningham led the British Mediterranean fleet into the successful battle against the Italians off Cape Matapan after signaling his ships: "We are going to have some fun. All guns will be in action."

Bids Fleet Good-by.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 18 (AP).—Adm. Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham told the Mediterranean fleet in a farewell message today that the day is not distant when "we will reëstablish our age-old control over this waterway so vital to the British empire."

BOMBERS BLAST JAP TRANSPORTS IN RAID ON TIMOR

Bag 7 Planes in Port Moresby Battle.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 19 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Allied bombers struck again yesterday at Japanese shipping off Koepang, Timor Island, scoring direct hits and probably destroying two transports, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today.

One heavy Japanese bomber was shot down and probably three others were destroyed, and three fighter planes damaged when 34 heavy bombers and 15 fighter planes attacked Port Moresby in New Guinea.

Minor damage was caused to the runways at Port Moresby and one allied plane was reported missing, the communique said.

MacArthur Calls Conference.

Gen. MacArthur has been conferring with intelligence officers and the chiefs of the naval and air staffs in recent days on the part each force will play in the event of a new Japanese move in the southern Pacific.

Some of the officers were trained by Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines and have already had an opportunity to study Japanese methods at close quarters.

Allied aircraft are constantly on guard in the Coral sea area for a concentration of Japanese naval forces and the lookout has been intensified in the last few days. The enemy's efforts on the New Guinea front have dropped to spasmodic raids on Port Moresby. This is regarded as a sign that the Japanese forces are ready for a new move to the south.

Leaders Warn of Attack.

Emphasizing anew Australia's grave peril, commonwealth leaders pictured the Japanese reassembling a more powerful invasion force for another thrust in this direction.

Prime Minister John Curtin declared that "altho I have no fear of the results," Australians might soon be meeting "the shock of war upon their own soil."

Addressing the Royal Empire society at Sydney, Curtin said he had never been able to understand the controversy stirred by his appeal for aid to President Roosevelt after the fall of Malaya and Singapore.

"I make no apology," he said, "nor recant one word of the statements I made to the United States to regard this Pacific zone of war as being one of vital importance not only to us but to the security of the United States. I was forced to appeal directly to the United States because of the circumstances in which Britain was placed."

Sir Keith Murdoch, a leading commonwealth editor, wrote in the Melbourne Herald that the allies were unduly optimistic over the situation in the southwest Pacific and urged that Curtin impress upon Washington the need for more ships and planes.

"President Roosevelt's statement that 'there is good reason to believe the Japanese southward advance has been checked' is only symptomatic of the optimism that has obstinately colored Washington thinking about the western Pacific," he said.

The Sydney morning Herald described the Coral sea triumph as only giving the allies a breathing spell."

JUNGLE NATIVES FIGHT JAPS WITH POISON ARROWS

'Spooky,' British Colonel, Leads Tribesmen.

BY DANIEL DE LUCE.

CALCUTTA, India, May 18 (AP).—Fierce Karen tribesmen commanded by British officers were reported today striking out from jungle hideouts in the highlands of Burma's southern Shan states in guerrilla attacks on China bound Japanese convoys.

The guerrilla campaign, undertaken by 5,000 tribesmen under five British officers, was organized even before the fall of Rangoon two months ago. Their leader is a tall, religious colonel who is a soldier, philosopher, and expert on the far east. To his comrades he's known as "Spooky."

Against the day when the Japanese might overrun Burma, "Spooky" enlisted thousands of loyal Karen villagers. They swore to the army oath of allegiance, received arms and trained in small bands with captured Italian rifles, shotguns, a few tommy guns and cross bows firing poison tipped arrows.

Burned Their Homes.

On the British government's promise to recompense them for all losses after the war, the Karens sent their women and children into the northern mountains for safety, burned their homes and withdrew to the jungle.

Col. "Spooky" arranged hidden supplies for his guerrilla army, elephants for transport and portable wireless sets. His staff of four British officers wear native skirts and turbans. Badges showing a half rising sun and the Karen drum are the only insignia the troops wear.

A price of 500 rupees was set for each Japanese officer whose killing is confirmed, 100 rupees for a Japanese noncommissioned officer or private.

Friend of Hill Tribes.

When the Shan states were invaded units lacking radios were notified by a courier service relay of foot runners averaging 70 miles in 24 hours.

"Spooky," whom I visited in April at his secret Mobile headquarters, laughed at the suggestion he was the "Lawrence of Burma." He expressed hope that his operations would keep the Japanese busy while the united nations prepared a counteroffensive to regain Burma.

Ten years in the far east, he won the friendship of the hill tribes by spending his leaves with them. He often told British juniors to study native religions, probably more important than the study of strategy for officers intending to command native troops.

The Karens, historically friendly to the British and Chinese, remember old animosities toward the Burmese and Thai, now the tools of the Japanese.

Roads in the Bengazi, Soluch, and Msus areas, far behind the front lines some 80 miles west of Tobruk, also were attacked.

VALETTA, Malta, May 18 (AP).—British pilots shot down eight enemy fighters and probably three more today over Malta, bringing their two day total to 27 axis craft destroyed or damaged. One British pilot was missing after today's operations.

11 British Planes Blasted: Rome.

ROME, May 18 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Five British planes were shot down in an axis sweep over Malta yesterday and six enemy aircraft on the ground were set afire, the Italian high command said today. Loss of one Italian plane was acknowledged. Otherwise, only normal patrol and artillery activity in Cyrenaica was reported from the Mediterranean front.

RAF Cripples Nazi Cruiser; Smashes at Invasion Coast

Prinz Eugen Blasted

LONDON, May 18 (AP).—The powerful 10,000 ton German cruiser Prinz Eugen was regarded tonight as knocked out of the vital battle of the Atlantic perhaps for three months by the gaping wounds of two or more aerial torpedoes driven home before dusk last night by an RAF fighter-bomber squadron which caught her slipping along the Norwegian coast. Four destroyers, reputedly escorting the ship home from Trondheim for repair of damages inflicted May 3 by the British submarine Trident, were raked with cannon and machine gun fire.

The air ministry news service said "the attack was pressed home in the teeth of strenuous opposition from a large force of enemy fighters and heavy anti-aircraft fire from ships." Two pilots told of seeing smoke and flame rising from the cruiser after hearing two large explosions 15 seconds apart.

The attack was placed off Lister fjord, 60 miles south of Stavanger, and little more than 300 miles air line from northeastern Scotland. A communique said five German ME-109 fighter planes were shot down and acknowledged the attack cost nine British planes.

Bomb Wide Area

LONDON, May 18 (AP).—The royal air force today followed up night attacks on Nazi airdromes in Holland with a two hour predawn pounding of targets from Dunkirk to Boulogne, then struck repeatedly across the English channel during the day. A "barge like enemy ship" and a motor launch were reported damaged near Dunkirk.

Enemy aircraft made three attacks on coastal cities in southern and southeastern England today and tonight, killing two persons. [Berlin reported bombing the harbor districts of Hastings and Folkestone.]

Nazis Claim Big Air Toll.

BERLIN, May 18 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Seven British fighters and 22 bombers were shot down in the North sea yesterday when strong enemy air formations ineffectively attacked the cruiser Prinz Eugen, the German high command asserted. This brought to 52 the number of British planes shot down during the day in repelling attacks on German naval forces and occupied territories. Three German pursuit ships were lost, but their crews were rescued.

NEW YORK DRAWS SHADES, HOPES TO AVERT BLACKOUT

New York, May 18 (AP).—Given the alternative of a complete blackout, New Yorkers pulled down the curtains in their homes and shielded outside lights tonight in a desperate effort to make the city-wide dimout more effective.

Theaters turned off all lights except those under marquees.

Reports from scattered sections of the city said there was still plenty of "sky lighting" but the city was hopeful of approval from army, navy, and civilian officials who cruised with a group of newspapermen to observe the effects. On the findings of these officials hinged further restrictions and possible total blackouts.

GERMAN RED CROSS ASSUMES CARE OF INTERNED AMERICANS

VICHY, France, May 18 (AP).—The German Red Cross last week took over all Red Cross work in the internment camp for American civilians at Compiegne, in occupied France, where the work previously was done by the French Red Cross, belated advices from the occupied zone said today.

The French Red Cross has notified Geneva headquarters that it is ceding to the German Red Cross the task of distributing all relief in the camp, including packages forwarded by the American Red Cross.

The American Red Cross in France does not operate in the occupied zone.

SEES SEAMY SIDE OF GERMANY—IN A 'LUXURY' HOTEL

Goes Cold, Hungry; Gets Little Tobacco or Soap.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, May 18.—Jaschke's Grand hotel at Bad Nauheim, where I was confined for five months, gave me a cross-section view of present conditions in Germany. Even in this "luxury hotel," I had the impression that the strain in Germany is reaching the breaking point. The complicated life of the 20th century just cannot function there. The reich does not have the materials to keep it up or the people to attend to it.

When I arrived at the hotel, in company with 15 other correspondents who were confined there until released in an exchange for axis diplomats and newspapermen held in the United States, the hotel had been closed for two years. Strangely, unlike most other such establishments in Germany, it had not been taken over by the military as a hospital or rest home.

The hotel's water and drainage systems would not function and there were insufficient plumbers to work on them. Some bathrooms would run only cold water, some only hot, and some none at all. It was a month before enough workmen and material could be found to give this "luxury hotel" the conveniences of an ordinary American boarding house.

Shiver in Severe Winter.

Even the blackout screens were inadequate, allowing the hotel to blaze like a beacon. Finally, the porous iron screens were replaced with heavy black paper.

The hotel had been built originally for the summer trade, and we shivered until the worst of Germany's unusually severe winter had passed before workmen got around to putting on the much needed double windows and doors.

The bed linen was coarse and patched. The quilts were covered with cotton sateen. The manager sent a bill for $38 to a member of our group who made a cigaret burn in one cover.

We were allowed one face towel and one abbreviated bath towel weekly. The supposedly elaborate "silver" in which "tea" and "coffee" were served was of coarse metal slightly silver plated. A broken dish or a glass was a tragedy. The manager had no idea how he could replace it. When a festive table ordered a bottle of wine, the waiters never could find matched glasses for six persons.

Scant Food, Little Meat Served.

Our food ration was supposed to be 50 per cent larger than that of the average German. Judging from that, the ordinary German is living in a pitiable way. We had "field kitchen" lunch every Monday and Wednesday. This would be a plate of soup, usually barley, or a mess of boiled frozen carrots and turnips, with a tiny chunk of meat. Thursdays and Fridays were meatless.

In accordance with the luxury hotel traditions, the management posted on the dining room door a high sounding menu for each meal and we consulted it to see whether the insipid mouthful we were to get on the meat days was officially known as beef, pork, or mutton. Otherwise no one would have known.

In justice, it must be said that an occasional effort was made to do better by us. About every two weeks a small portion of chicken, duck, goose, or turkey hash would come to the table. We saw significance in the daily newspaper stories of persons who risked their lives—and were executed—to get some butter, cheese, ham, or spices. Sometimes, however, we received additional food from the commissary of the American embassy in Berlin. This food had been shipped from the United States.

Given No Tobacco Rations.

The time came when the habitual smokers were reduced to swiping butts because the Germans allowed us no tobacco rations. Sometimes, however, we received some tobacco thru the embassy in Berlin.

Our soap supply was inadequate either for personal use or laundry. Many of the diplomats had to give up their sartorial elegance and wear only two clean shirts a week.

SAILOR REPORTED KILLED IN HAWAII IS BACK AT HOME

Oscar Maynard Thompson, once reported by the navy to have been killed in action during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, walked into his family home at 601 Richards street, Geneva, yesterday. Thompson, who is 21 years old, was wounded while fighting aboard an American warship, but he recovered. The message announcing Thompson's death was followed by another with the news that he was still alive. His father, Fred Thompson, and the sailor's sister, Mrs. James Carmichael, nevertheless worried until they actually saw him return alive. He was given a medical discharge after he recovered.

CHARGE BRITISH SEEK TO PROFIT IN MADAGASCAR

French Deny War Need Dictated Seizure.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, May 18.—Hope of economic profit rather than military considerations prompted the British to undertake seizure of the French island of Madagascar off the east coast of Africa, speakers asserted today as protest demonstrations continued thruout France.

"The island of Madagascar is rich in various minerals and products of all sorts," a speaker at Lyons declared. "The pretext of military necessity is only a screen for grabbing these riches."

Rap Blows at Helpless Land.

The newspaper Moniteur of Clermont-Ferrand, which often reflects the ideas of Chief of Government Pierre Laval, asserts that an attempt is being made to deprive France of its possessions while the nation is "down and out." The paper urged that there be no division of French thought at this crucial period in the nation's history.

French opinion, the Moniteur continued, was shocked at "the American exactions" with respect to the French West Indies island of Martinique, coming as they did a few days after the American note backing up the British action in Madagascar.

Loses Ship; Fights to Death.

Adm. Jean Darlan, supreme commander of French armed forces, was advised today that Comm. Marcel Fontaine had been killed fighting ashore after his auxiliary cruiser, the Bougainville, had been sunk by the British in the assault which preceded the capture of the Diego Suarez naval base.

Comm. Fontaine, who had twice run the British blockade at Djibouti, was a brother of Darlan's chief of staff.

ITALIANS RENEW DEMANDS FOR PART OF FRANCE

BERNE, Switzerland, May 18 (AP).—The Italian press tonight demanded that Italy, as a war victor, be awarded its share of defeated France's territory. It insisted that the transfer be effected immediately, regardless of the length and outcome of the present war. The insistence of the Fascist press was the strongest since Italy, Germany, and France signed the armistice nearly two years ago.

The campaign threw open the question of the efforts of Chief of Government Pierre Laval to bring France into full coöperation with the axis. It revealed Italy's impatience to have her share in the war gains as a reward for joining Germany in the conflict and it indicated that Germany had not given in to Italian claims. The campaign suggested that Germany might incline toward support of the French view and that it was impossible to line up both Italy and France in the axis at the same time.

The campaign was launched significantly with the return to Rome of Mussolini, who had been reviewing his troops in Sardinia, an island neighbor of French Corsica. The Giornale d'Italia, commenting on Mussolini's six day tour, referred to Tunis, Corsica, and Nice, and spoke of the "badly traced frontiers" of history.

LABOR SHORTAGE WORST PROBLEM OF NAZI FARMERS

Draft Children of 10 to Work in Fields.

[Ernest G. Fischer, of the former Berlin bureau of the Associated Press, now en route home after five months of internment, tells here how the German farmer has been ordered to increase production despite a variety of obstacles.]

BY ERNEST G. FISCHER.

LISBON, Portugal, May 18 (AP).—German farmers, who are at least three weeks behind schedule on their 1942 crops, have been ordered to increase the production of vegetables, vegetable fats and potatoes. At the same time, Reichmarshal Hermann Goering told growers that the 1941 acreages in grain and sugar beets must be maintained.

Unfavorable weather, insufficient fertilizer, the shortage of manpower and horsepower and tardiness in the delivery of seeds are delaying this program.

Altho Nazi propagandists claimed that Germany produces approximately 600,000 tons of butter yearly, ranking second only to the United States, the country has suffered from a shortage of fats since before the war.

Eat More Vegetables.

The demand for vegetables has increased because of low rations in meat, butter, and eggs. Per capita vegetable consumption for the five years before the war averaged 105 pounds per year, but in 1941 it was 165 pounds, according to German statistics.

Goering called last winter the "longest, worst, and most stubborn in more than a hundred years."

German farm experts said that the phosphorous fertilizer available this year was only 33 per cent of the amount used in 1933 and that nitrogen supplies were only 76 per cent of the amount distributed in 1938-'39.

The most serious difficulty, however, appears to be the shortage of labor. German sources estimated that at least 600,000 laborers were needed. Already 1,000,000 of the 2,100,000 foreign workers in Germany are employed on farms and in forestry projects. In addition 800,000 prisoners of war are used in agriculture.

Draft Soldiers' Wives.

Various means have been employed to recruit farm labor. One of Goering's decrees compels residents of country towns, including the wives of soldiers who have been living on government benefits, to go into the fields.

Even children from 10 years old on up—will be drafted this summer and fall as farm laborers.

Hitler's labor leader, Fritz Sauckel, called upon Arthur Axmann, Hitler's youth leader, to send out his 8,000,000 uniformed children to plant potatoes, plow, weed, and harvest the crops for Germany's fourth winter of war.

Any German schoolchild can be expected to be ordered from his class into the field anywhere in the reich to work a day or all summer. The most they have been promised is a vacation of at least three weeks sometime during the summer.

Worn Clothing a Loss.

Girls are not excused. They are expected to he helpful to farmers' wives in their nurseries and kitchens.

Extra wear and tear on the closely rationed clothing of these city children turned farm laborers is to be made up with cash payments. Since the average person can buy no such goods in Germany today, the children will have to be resigned to regarding each ruined suit as irreplaceably lost.

The children will be fed free, and have been promised unstipulated small amounts of pocket money, but they will get no pay.

Farmers are also burdened by the loss of horses, which were requisitioned for military use. Goering promised the farmers that manufacturers had been given additional raw materials for the production of better farming equipment.

He also promised that gasoline rations for farmers would be increased when more tractors became available.

London Time Bomb Hero Pleads Guilty to Fraud

LONDON, May 18 (AP).—Capt. Robert Davies, a Canadian engineer who won the George cross and promotion for removing a huge time bomb dropped by German planes near St. Paul's cathedral in the 1940 fire blitz, pleaded guilty today to a charge of improperly accepting $2,000 from Charrington Co., Ltd. He pleaded innocent before the same court martial to 10 other charges relating to alleged offenses while commanding a bomb disposal squad, including an accusation that he used the services of soldiers to construct an air raid shelter for which he received money.

NAZIS INCREASE DRIVE TO RECRUIT FOREIGN LABOR

Report Shortage Imperils Arms Production.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—A serious labor shortage in Germany is hampering Nazi armament production making necessary a drastic new drive to recruit foreign labor, according to information received by the department of commerce.

Altho foreign reserves of labor apparently are beginning to be depleted Hitler proposes to double the number of foreign workers used in German farming and industrial operations, according to the commerce department's report.

Latest figures, as of last September, showed 2,139,553 foreign laborers, exclusive of 1,500,000 war prisoners, working for Germany, and it is now intended to raise the foreign labor figure to 5,000,000 or 6,000,000, the department said.

Most Taken from Poland.

Most of the foreign labor in Germany has been taken from Poland, totaling 1,007,561 as of last September, and a recent German press item said that the reich is recruiting foreign workers at the rate of 8,000 weekly and from Poland an additional 120,000 agricultural workers and 30,000 industrial workers will be recruited.

The German government has also made a deal with Spain for recruiting 100,000 Spanish workers and has finally squeezed Italy into supplying Germany with additional workers, according to commerce department information.

At first Italy tried to avoid further shifts of workers to Germany—271,667 Italians already were working for Germany last September—claiming it could not spare them, but after a recent visit of the Nazi commission for the four year plan to Italy, it was officially announced by the Italian government that it was undertaking general conscription of labor and that a large number of workers would be sent to Germany.

State Monopoly of Labor.

The recruiting of foreign laborers in the occupied and neutral European countries has been placed on an organized basis and employers in Germany must apply to the foreign employment bureau. This agency has a monopoly on the employment of foreign laborers and has established commissions to examine and enlist recruits — 40 of them in occupied soviet territory alone working to bring labor into Germany—according to the commerce department.

"Prisoners now being brought into Germany from concentration camps in the soviet union are also to be used primarily on the land," said the department. "Most foreign laborers are used on farms because it is there that the greatest need exists, the largest number of German soldiers having been drawn from the farms.

"Since the beginning of the war it is estimated that 10,000,000 additional men have been drawn into the armed forces.

Arms Output Menaced.

"The war materials industries have been supplied with sufficient labor until recently, but it is understood that in the last few months that arms manufacturers are faced with shortage of labor."

The department said that recruiting possibilities within Germany are very limited, but it is intended to compel 600,000 unemployed women to work and also recruit young girls, old men, and others capable of employment, said the report.

The German government is not bearing down upon workers, but on the contrary is seeking their goodwill in various ways, presumably to prevent any uprising. As one example, the department said workers are no longer forced to take employment in cities away from their homes, and are allowed more liberties than before. The Nazis also find the employment of foreign labor desirable because they have more direct control over it and can subject it to greater discipline. These foreign workers also serve as hostages in event of revolt in the occupied lands.

CHAPTER 24

In recent years General Douglas MacArthur has, upon occasion, recalled the escapade of the three locomotives he captured from the Mexican rebels at Vera Cruz. His recollection of this event has gained added significance recently because the young officer who helped him get through the rebel lines was an attache of the German Embassy and his name was Franz von Papen, the same Von Papen who today is Germany's Ambassador to Turkey.

It was such acts of daring as Douglas MacArthur exhibited at Vera Cruz and his outstanding ability in directing men under his command in the Mexican campaign, that caused Major-General Frederick Funston to recommend him for promotion. Consequently, in 1915, MacArthur was advanced to the rank of Crusader Links Campaign to Vice in Army Areas.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Drys today extended their campaign for vast zones of prohibition against liquor and vice around all army and navy establishments as they called a national conference here in early June to press for legislation to establish such dry areas.

Foremost among the advocates of this legislation is Edward Page Gaston, long time dry crusader, who as national commander of the Patriot Guard of America, Inc., is rounding up congressmen in the new drive. He claims a hundred supporters in congress.

Hold Secret Meeting.

A "confidential" strategy conference of about 30 members of congress was held today in the speakers' dining room of the house under direction of Rep. Joseph R. Bryson [D., S. C.], who said he called the meeting to settle differences over various proposals for legislation and then to get congressional action.

He said that looking to this end he had named a steering committee composed of Senators Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], Josh Lee [D., Okla.], W. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.], Theodore G. Bilbo [D., Miss.], and Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], and Representatives Knute Hill [D., Wash.], Wilburn Cartwright [D., Okla.], John M. Houston [D., Kas.], Edwin Arthur Hall [R., N. Y.], Edward H. Rees [R., Kas.], Clifford R. Hope [R., Kas.], and A. Leonard Allen [D., La.] Bryson will be chairman of the committee.

Bryson said the full group had held a general discussion of a dozen bills now before congress, without reaching a definite decision to support any one of them.

Gaston Issues Statement.

After word of the secret conclave leaked out Gaston issued a statement.

"I had made the suggestion originally," he said, "and was invited to sit in and advise on intercongressional legislative strategy; hence today's proceedings were off the record.

"Invitations for the early June conference will be sent to the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Knights of Columbus, Jewish Veterans, Sons of American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, Daughters of the Southern Confederacy, Federation of Women's Clubs, Parent-Teachers associations, American Federation of Labor, Congress of Industrial Organizations, churches, temperance and Negro groups and other powerful units," said Gaston.

He anticipated that a delegation will be sent to President Roosevelt on behalf of the dry cause. No definite date has been set for the conference.

Urge Dry Law for Duration.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 18 [Special].—The women's missionary organizations of the Presbyterian church in the United States today launched a campaign for prohibition of the sale and manufacture of liquor in the United States for the duration of the war. The organization has a membership of 1,500,000.

The action was taken by some 500 women delegates to the quadrennial session of the organization. The Rev. Cameron P. Hall, Philadelphia; director of social education and action of the board of Christian education of the Presbyterian church in the United States, will be in charge of the campaign. He will present the plan to the general assembly of the church at its meeting in Milwaukee next week.

SHOPPERS SHOW NO INTEREST IN PRICE CURB LISTS

Women shoppers and some storekeepers exhibited disinterest in the publication of price ceilings and subsequent reduction of certain "cost of living" articles yesterday in grocery shops, drugstores, and ready-to-wear shops.

Granted a few days' grace in setting up their maximum March prices in temporary lists or tags, many merchants were not prepared to furnish their "ceilings" for customers yesterday morning, the original date set by the Office of Price Administration.

"No one has even bothered to inquire about the ceilings," the manager of one of the largest grocery chain stores, declared. "I haven't found anybody interested in the lists enough to study them."

Prices of fresh meats and bakery goods remained at approximately the same price level as in April, buyers for these departments explained. A drop of 3 to 4 cents a pound, however, has taken place in smoked meats. Round steaks and veal are the only fresh meats affected by the ceilings, round steak having dropped approximately 2 cents a pound and veal steaks and chops between 2 to 4 cents.

No noticeable reduction was found in canned articles, pineapple and seafoods alone showing some decrease.

1,000 RATION JOBS CREATED IN VAST EXPANSION PLAN

No Patronage; Glad of It, Say Politicians.

More than 1,000 clerks, stenographers, and inspectors will be hired to staff rationing boards in Illinois which soon will be increased in number and deluged with additional duties, including price control, it was learned yesterday. Expansion still is in a formative stage.

Altho it is expected that hundreds of the new federal employés will have to be found elsewhere than on existing lists of civil service applicants, politicians were generally of the opinion that no patronage squabble will arise.

"With the war on and sacrifices being called for all around, these jobs are too hot to handle," one politician said. "The jobs would be more trouble than they're worth. We'd rather be able to say we have nothing to do with it, like in the relief setup."

U. S. Census in Four Days.

John C. Weigel, regional director for the Office of Price administration, said that it is difficult for the public to conceive of the amount of clerical work involved in the emergency tasks.

"What happened was that a census of the United States was taken in four days," he said. "All that sugar rationing information gathered in the schools will hit the rationing board offices to be assembled, filed, and indexed.

"By next month or July the burden of price control upon the boards will be great. We don't know yet how many new board offices will be established nor how many employés will be needed."

Michael F. Mulcahy, metropolitan director of OPA, said that each board will require from one to three employés and that probably there will have to be at least one board for each of the city's 50 wards. When federal civil service lists do not provide an employé, or the civil service applicant does not qualify for the special tasks involved, the jobs will have to be filled some other way, he said.

No Patronage Involved.

"Patronage is not involved," Mulcahy said. "None of the applicants will clear thru party patronage offices. Some ward committeemen have called to ask me about the situation and were relieved to learn that they are not involved."

The metropolitan area may need more than 500 employés, Mulcahy said. Downstate, where there already are about 300 federal employés in rationing offices, may require three times this number. The downstate offices will be under a state OPA director yet to be appointed.

Gov. Green has suggested the names of seven men to Leon Henderson, national OPA head. One of them is Henry Pope, present state rationing supervisor.

PRICE LIMIT SET ON DRINK OF MILK, BUT NOT HIGHBALL

'Preparation' of Drink Determines Status.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Maximum prices for a glass of milk and for a bottle of beer were fixed by the overall price ceilings that became effective yesterday. Prices for a cup of coffee and for a highball, however, are not controled by the order.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson made this decision today, holding that his ruling applied to beverages sold by hotels, restaurants, soda fountains, bars, and cafés for consumption on the premises. He decided that beverages prepared on the premises are exempt from the price ceilings but that others are under price control.

"The word 'prepared' means that something must be done besides cooling or icing, opening, and pouring a beverage," he said. "The price of a glass, bottle, or other container of a beverage not mixed on the premises is therefore controled.

March Price Fixes Level.

"If a six ounce glass or a half pint bottle of milk was sold in a restaurant during March for a top price of 5 cents, that is now its maximum price regardless whether the wholesale or the retail price has been increased since March. The same rule applies to a glass or a bottle of beer or of soft drink. The mere dropping of ice into a drink is not preparation.

"Beverages mixed on the premises, however, are not under control, since mixing is 'preparation.' Thus a chocolate malted, ice cream soda, cocktail, or highball is exempt.

"The test whether a beverage is covered by price ceilings is this: Was the beverage prepared on the premises or is it served to the customer in the form in which it came to the retailer?

"Coffee, tea, cocoa, and chocolate are prepared on the premises and therefore are not subject to price regulation.

Ready for Consumption.

"But milk, beer, and bottled soft drinks, for example, come to a restaurant, cafeteria, or bar in form for final consumption. Such beverages are subject to price regulations and effective today must not be sold above the highest price for which the restaurant sold the same beverage in the same quantity in March.

"A similar interpretation is being prepared covering the relatively few foods that come to a restaurant packaged in final form for serving to the customer.

"The reason for the distinction becomes clear when it is recalled that beverage sales by restaurants, bars, etc., were exempted from the regulation only because of the impossibility of determining whether the price of a meal or mixed drink was raised by cutting the quantity or quality of its ingredients or skimping its preparation. Where beverages are not mixed on the premises and are sold in bottles or poured into glasses or other containers for immediate consumption, administrative and enforcement difficulties are reduced to a minimum."

Berwyn Donates 600 Tons of Junk to Triple Quota

Berwyn salvage officials yesterday took stock of the heap of pots and pans, old water heaters and iron bedposts in the lot at 30th street and Wesley avenue and came away amazed. "Our original quota was to collect 200 tons," said Anton Pav, commissioner of public works. "But there are more than 600 tons in that lot now and we have only canvassed one-third of the city. It looks like a tough war for the Japs and Nazis."

PANAMA GRANTS LAND TO U. S. FOR CANAL DEFENSE

Reveal Some Military Bases Built.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18. — An agreement between the United States and the government of Panama for occupation of Panamanian territory in defense of the canal was announced today by the state department.

Even prior to signing of the agreement the government of Panama permitted United States military forces "to occupy and develop these areas as gun emplacements, airplane detector stations, bombing ranges, and auxiliary airfields." The permission was granted last year by former President Arnulfo Arias, now in exile.

Bases Outside Canal Strip.

The bases are located at various points in Panamanian territory beyond the 10 mile mide canal zone strip. Airfields have been established both on the coast and in the interior, the largest being the Rio Hato air base about 80 miles southwest of the canal. In addition to the defense arrangements, the agreement, as revealed in an exchange of notes between Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Panamanian Ambassador Ernesto Jean Guardia, provides for the settlement of several problems in relations between the two countries.

Of particular significance, said the state department, are these three points:

1. Withdrawal of this government's Panama Railroad company from real estate operations in Panama City and Colon by turning over to Panama lots owned by the company in these cities.

2. Delivery to the Panamanian government of water works and sewage systems lying within territory under Panamanian jurisdiction.

3. Liquidation of Panama's indebtedness rising from the construction of the strategic Rio Hato-Chorrera highway.

Pact Must Be Ratified.

The agreement was signed in Panama by United States Ambassador Edwin C. Wilson and Panamanian Foreign Minister Octavio Fabrega. The military phases of the agreement must be ratified by the Panamanian national assembly, while the other points must be approved by the United States congress, the state department said.

Twice in the agreement the stipulation is made that United States occupancy of the areas "shall terminate one year after the date on which the definitive treaty of peace which brings about the end of the present war shall have entered into effect," but that it may be renewed at that time.

THE OPA COMES TO THE RESCUE OF WOMANKIND

Hint No. W-57 Tells Girls How to Put On Stockings.

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Today we girls have the OPA's helpful hint No. W-57 on our part in the war. It tells us how to buy, get into, and wash our stockings.

No. W-57 wastes no words and minces no facts. Every one of its 650 words is devoted to telling us girls things we know. A careful study of the 650 words leads to the conclusion that every word is accurate—and unnecessary.

Some Helpful Hints.

Some of the OPA stocking hints are:

"Buy the size that best suits your foot and leg; it will mean longer wear.

"Get the correct foot size.

"Choose the weight best suited to the wear you are going to give your hose. Keep sheer hosiery for dress occasions and use service and heavy service for street wear and household duties, respectively.

"Buy two pairs of stockings of the same shade and weight, so you can match them up if one stocking of a pair should run.

Wash Them Promptly.

"Have at least two pairs—and wear them alternately.

"Wash stockings after each wearing in order to avoid perspiration damage.

"Rings or rough hands, feet, and nails cause snagging.

"In putting on stockings, always roll them down to the ankle of the hose, insert your foot, and unroll them up to the top.

"Make sure your garter is fastened to the welt and not below

"Runs and holes are apt to appear in the stocking foot. Darn them immediately. Don't pull off snagged threads, but pull them thru to the inside."

Hint No. W-57 says these tips were discovered in tests made upon several hundred pairs of stockings.

U. S. WILL TRAIN 210 HIGH SCHOOL BOYS AS PILOTS

Planned as Experiment in 21 Institutions.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics administration, as an experiment, will open its pilot training program in the near future to 210 high school boys.

Charles I. Stanton, acting administrator, announced today that flying instruction would be given at 21 high schools scattered over the country. Its description as an "experimental program" was taken to mean it would be extended to other schools if it proved successful.

Heretofore, the CAA pilot training program has been directed to college age youths, with 90 per cent of the 70,000 pilots produced since 1939 receiving their training thru colleges and universities. The other 10 per cent, all aged 18 to 26, won training scholarships in competitive noncollege ground school courses.

One Illinois School.

In opening the courses to boys of high school age, the CAA reduced the minimum age requirement to 17.

Stanton announced the experimental program would be given in the following locations:

Columbus, Ga.; Idaho Falls, Idaho; Danville, Ill.; Anderson, Ind.; Battle Creek, Mich.; Mexico, Mo.; Roswell and Santa Fe, N. M.; Jamestown, N. Y.; Duncan, Okla.; Baker, Ore.; York, Pa.; Watertown, S. D., and Danville, Va.; Ensley High school, Birmingham, Ala.; Modoc Adult High school, Alturas, Cal.; East High school, Waterloo, Ia.; Flathead County High school, Kalispell, Mont.; Pershing County High school, Lovelock, Nev.; Box Elder High school, Brigham City, Utah, and St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis.

Applications Being Received.

Stanton said applications already were being received from students in the high schools selected for the experiment. Applicants must be able to pass the physical requirements set up for participants in regular CAA courses.

If over 18, the applicant must enlist in the reserve of the armed air forces, and if under 18 must sign an agreement that upon reaching 18 he will apply for enlistment in the reserve.

MAKERS OF PAJAMAS CONSIDER SLEEPCOAT WITHOUT THE PANTS

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The war may bring about a 1942 model of the old-fashioned nightshirt. One of the proposals for cloth conservation advanced at a meeting of men's pajama makers with the War Production board today was a collarless sleepcoat—described by WPB as "a sort of nightgown."

Other suggestions, which may be embodied in a forthcoming order, included the shortening of trousers and coats on ordinary pajamas; the elimination of collars, lapels, cuffs, pockets, and belts; the use of only a few specified fabrics, and the manufacture of perhaps not more than three pajama styles.

AMERICA'S WAR OF MOVEMENT

...and how you can help fight it!

Two years ago, New York Central's 131,000 employees enlisted in America's War of Movement. Today they must have your help, too.

For two years, train crews and maintenance crews, dispatchers and signalmen, office workers and field workers have carried on with the smoothness of a well disciplined army. And the vast Victory traffic has kept rolling, rolling . . . without a hitch in the railroad's regular job of feeding and supplying the cities . . . and with only the most minor inconvenience to the traveling public.

Your part in America's War of Movement

Now, with military demands growing daily—with more war goods to be moved, more soldiers to be transported—travelers too must be enlisted in this mighty War of Movement.

New timetables are war-timetables. To further expedite war traffic, some civilian passenger schedules are being lengthened, and certain services are being discontinued.

It will mean some hardship. But the men of New York Central who—with the other railroad workers of America—are speeding the nation's war effort, know they can count on your cooperation.

What you can do to help clear the track

Try to avoid unnecessary travel. Schedule your trips for mid-week instead of during congested weekends. Notify us early of your travel needs, and let us know promptly if your plans change. Accept an upper berth or a coach seat instead of your usual Pullman accommodation—realizing this may be necessary at times in order to release needed sleeper equipment for long-haul military movements.

In the days ahead, as war requirements become greater, your further help may be asked in keeping the tracks clear for Victory.

A double pledge to the travelers of America

Whatever happens, the men of New York Central promise you as much speed and comfort and convenience as possible. But above all we pledge you this: with your help, we will do our part in fighting America's War of Movement through to success. We'll keep our rails ringing to the tune of Victory. Day and night, from the Mississippi to the sea, the click of a million wheels will be sounding taps for the Axis.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

IMPUDENT INTERFERENCE.

The arguments for a second front on the European continent are based on the theory that if Hitler can be disposed of, Japan can easily be defeated. That is only a half truth. Admittedly, if Hitler is defeated greater forces can be directed against the Japanese. But if in the meantime the Japanese have been allowed to proceed unchecked with their conquests they will have put themselves in such a position that they cannot readily be overcome regardless of the size of the force set against them.

In this second front campaign the London Sunday Times—a publication not to be confused with the Times of London—has seen fit to lecture the American people thru its correspondent in New York on the line they should take in the conduct of the war. Deprecating the attitude of THE TRIBUNE and others in arguing against dispersal of our armed forces to secondary and inconsequential fronts all over the world, the correspondent contends that people in the middle west "show sufficient common sense' to accept the contention that an American expeditionary force, no matter where it operates, protects American security just as much as if kept near home."

This is an evasion of the issue, since no one has contended that we keep our armed forces in America. Protests have been directed against their dispersal to points where their strength is wasted.

That, however, is a secondary matter to the impertinence of British publications which attempt to dictate to Americans what they should think and do. The United States and its people have been more than generous to Great Britain in this war. They applaud the courage with which the British people have borne attack, but they also recognize that British leadership has not always been as brilliant as it might have been and that British military effort has been characterized repeatedly by the grossest sacrifice of men and arms due to the dispersal of forces and the attempting of projects for which the available force was insufficient. Americans will resent any British attempts to place this nation, now with Russia the predominant force in the war, in any colonial status in which it is expected to follow blindly whatever policies are laid down in London.

The attempt to dictate to American opinion can only strengthen the suspicion that British agents in this country have had a large part in the efforts of the administration, eagerly seconded by the Communists, to purge from public life those members of congress who, regardless of party, have insisted that the interests of the American people must come first. The people of this nation are unswerving in their determination for victory and they have a proper appreciation of the effort which the British are making toward that common end. But that will not prevent their resentment at any indication that British influences are directed toward interference in American affairs.

A FAKE WAR PROJECT.

The submarine Peto, built at Manitowoc, is to be floated on pontoons to the gulf. Its draft is too deep for the Mississippi and for parts of the Illinois waterway. It cannot be taken eastward because it is too long for the St. Lawrence river locks.

Proponents of the St. Lawrence waterway project, which is one of the 236 projects in the pending rivers and harbors bill, have advertised it as an essential war enterprise. One of their favorite arguments is that if the waterway were built shipyards on the Great Lakes could be used to a much greater extent to build ocean-going cargo vessels. The ships, they say, could be built at inland yards and taken thru the waterway to the sea.

This argument is specious for at least three reasons. The first is time. The most favorable estimate is that with the best of luck and with full priorities the project could not be completed until 1946, while under the terms of agreement Canada is not required to complete its portion of the waterway before Dec. 31, 1948. If the War Production board's decision to stop construction of new arms plants and to stand or fall on the nation's existing plants means anything it means that those in charge of our war effort believe the war will be over long before 1946.

The second consideration is the use being made of shipbuilding facilities on the Great Lakes now. Marine News reports that a full program of combat and cargo ship construction is already in progress. Thirty shipyards are busy building 164 vessels, and the contracts will occupy them for many months to come. There is no opportunity of taking on additional construction of ocean-going cargo vessels.

The third factor is that even if there were facilities on the lakes to build more ships, and if they could be launched in time to be of use in the war, they could not be got out to sea thru the proposed new St. Lawrence waterway. Rep. Alfred Beiter of New York cites the fact that the waterway as projected cannot accommodate vessels with a draft exceeding 24 feet. The waterway channel is to be 27 feet, but the army engineers have stated that 3 feet of water is desirable under the keel of a ship for proper handling. The ocean-going cargo vessels now being built for the maritime commission range in draft from 37 feet 4 inches to 45 feet 6 inches.

Mr. Beiter said that the St. Lawrence waterway, as an essential war project, was about on a par with most of the other 235 projects in the rivers and harbors bill, which would cost the taxpayers another billion dollars in time of war. Only 36 of the projects, he said, "bear any approval on the part of those in charge of our war efforts as having any relationship to national defense." They would consume vital materials of which we are already short, would divert labor and engineering talent from necessary war undertakings, would contribute nothing to the prosecution of the war, and would squander a billion dollars. The rivers and harbors bill is what it started out to be—the most flagrant illustration of the pork barrel system in our history.

BROWDER RELEASED.

The White House statement attributed the release of Earl Browder, the Communist leader, to the desire to promote national unity and to the further desire to allay the suspicion that he had been given an unusually stiff sentence because of his political views.

Neither explanation makes sense. Browder's release might have made a contribution to American national unity between the summer of 1939 and the summer of 1941 when the Communists were sabotaging American defense. From the day Stalin and Hitler signed the pact which precipitated the present war until the day Hitler marched against Russia, the Communist effort in this country was directed against the rearmament of America and against participation in the war "on the side of British imperialism." For nearly a year now, the commies have been proarmament and pro-British imperialism. Obviously the release of Browder cannot convert the Communists to support the war because they are already supporting it or at least that part of it which concerns Russia.

The alleged desire of the White House to allay the suspicion that Browder was punished for his political views makes no sense because it is clear that he was so punished. Browder wasn't bothered so long as he went along with the New Deal, but Mr. Roosevelt broke with him when Stalin and Hitler got together. Thereupon the prosecutions began. Within a few months Browder was indicted and toward the end of January, 1940, was convicted.

He was given four years for having misrepresented facts in an application for a passport. As an American citizen he was entitled to a passport unless, of course, it is assumed that our citizens travel abroad only by consent of their government. Mr. Browder in his application said he never before had been issued a passport tho in fact he had received one or more under an alias. He had lied, all right, but it wasn't a very important lie and nobody was much, if any, the worse for it. Nevertheless, he got four years, which would be a pretty tough sentence for a half million dollar income tax fraud or robbery with a gun.

Everybody in Washington knew all the time that Communists travel under phony passports. It is one of the rules of the game, like wearing a cap and carrying a slogan in the picket line. Why did the New Dealers suddenly get excited about the passport frauds? Obviously because they wanted to sock Browder on account of his political views. Why did they seek to give him a long stretch? Obviously because they wanted to sock him hard for following the party line when it diverged from the New Deal line. To pretend now that the New Deal had any other purposes is to indulge in a mealy mouthed hypocrisy.

The plain truth is that this administration has used the enormous powers of the department of justice as a political weapon. The department on occasion withholds prosecution in exchange for political support and on occasion socks the citizen who dares to oppose the New Deal. The Browder conviction like the Browder release are evidences of the degradation of justice in this country to the level of despotic favoritism.

It was all legal enough, no doubt, and the conviction and sentence stood the test of appeal, but the motives at every juncture were rotten. The New Dealers cannot defend themselves by saying that Browder got no more than he deserved as a troublesome enemy of American liberty, etc., etc.; they can't say that because they played ball with him for years when he was all of those things and because they let him out when he is still all of them.

Browder was released after a well organized publicity campaign which may have alarmed the administration, for the Communist vote in New York is large enough to swing a close election as was proved the last time Gov. Lehman ran. Quite likely, too, strong representations were made on behalf of Browder by the Russian government. But whether he was freed in response to domestic pressure or soviet pressure or both, the fact remains that communism, now as formerly, menaces our liberties, our homes, and our churches. The release of Browder shows that the administration is again on the friendliest terms with as grave a menace as this country has ever faced. The fact that in this matter the administration has shown itself to be unprincipled only adds to the danger.

Editorial of the Day

CHURCHILL WELCOMES CRITICISM.

[New York World-Telegram.]

For a leader who has lost three of the last four by-elections, Prime Minister Churchill in his speech yesterday took a most effective tack with his critics.

He recognized the demand of public and press for a second front. Instead of calling his critics fifth columnists he actually praised them. It was not an oratorical trick either. He accepted the motive and purpose of this popular pressure for more vigorous conduct of the war.

Indeed, he found in this criticism the most encouraging evidence of the morale that wins wars. He welcomed this as proof of the people's militant spirit, both in England and America.

How inspiring, he said, that massmeetings in Trafalgar square are shouting for more fighting—instead of pleading for a defeatist peace.

Then the prime minister's pledge: That the government must not fail such people in daring or wisdom. He did not even lecture them on the superior intelligence of those in high places and the dangers of obstruction and disunity.

A surprising attitude for a government to take? Not for a British government. The right to cuss his government is the most precious heritage of the humblest Englishman. That is what he means by democracy. That is why Hitler could not bomb him into submission. That is why he will fight to the end, win or perish.

And it is the genius and glory of those who govern England that they admire this character of freemen. More than admire, they use it as England's greatest strength. So the prime minister learns from his critics, knowing that common men who share their government's decisions fight harder and longer than goose-steppers that finally crack.

Everywhere British fortitude is admired—not least in Germany, which has never been able to match it. Dictators who demand unquestioning obedience of the people do not understand that the Englishman's fortitude is the result of his individual freedom, nor do fair weather friends of democracy, who think that civil liberty should be laid away in moth balls for the duration.

We are proud to be an ally of the England that practices democracy while it fights for democracy. America must do no less.

THE "MIRACLE" MAN.

The late Morris Gest, dynamic and picturesque magnate of the American stage before the depression folded it up, deserves a formal, full-length biography, and steps have already been taken toward that end. His able historiographer, Oliver Sayler, spokesman for the Moscow Art theater and "Miracle" tours in the gusty Gestian years not so long ago, has such a work ready for the printers. In manuscript it seems to be a biography of the size that Gest would have loved.

* * *

He was a great impresario and importer of European theatrical products. Furthermore, he publicized his exhibitions with burning zeal, and the amount of newsprint that has been devoted to his Russian players, his "Miracle," his "Chauve-Souris," etc., would go a long way toward reporting a year or two of This War. Morris was no mere counter of shekels in the box office. His shows were the apple of his eye, and he would hire all the housetops in town to proclaim his passion for them as works of art.

* * *

His firm, Comstock and Gest, produced a long list of average money makers, but Gest himself never gave much attention to the staples of the trade and let his partner look after the small stuff. He was always in search of the exotic, the spectacular and the colossal. He was the first American manager to give us glimpses of the imperial Russian ballet; he was the last to import Eleanora Duse.

* * *

Perhaps in the present state of affairs all this doesn't mean much more than the addition of another name, vaguely remembered from another era, to the obituary record. But it is fitting to recall the Auditorium altered into a Gothic cathedral, and a song of wooden soldiers on parade, and a zealot following his vision of theatrical magnificence, and the crumpled old velours hat that always marked the unforgettable Morris Gest.

SOMEWHERE ON THE PACIFIC.

Somewhere on the Pacific
  Carnage and fire bloom
Into a fateful flower,
  A flower of death and doom.
Somewhere on the Pacific
  Another flower grows—
Courage and valor of dying
  Bloom in a crimson rose.
Somewhere on the Pacific
  Men look upon the sky
And, seeing it for the last time,
  Salute its sun and die.
Somewhere on the Pacific
  The sea birds scream alone,
And the sun looks down on the havoc
  Over the wild waves strown.
Somewhere on the Pacific
  The torn waves toss and roll,
And men who cling to wreckage
  Commend to God each soul.
Somewhere on the Pacific
  None cries to heaven in vain;
O, Saviour, walking among them,
  Assuage men's fear and pain.

Seeking the Right Name for It.

No news. No news from the Men of Bataan, of Corregidor. No news from Manila. And I wonder about Charmian Boomer, and Brenda Watts, and Mary Harries. . . . I wonder about Bill Thorp, and Trap Trapnell, and Frank Nelson, fighting a losing, hopeless fight that should have been neither lost nor hopeless. But mostly I think, on this gray and peaceful morning, about this war of God against the gods: against Hirohito, the emperor and sun god, and Hitler, the deity of the self-called Aryans. The issue seems clear enough: Thou shalt not have false gods before Me.

And I think about simple Joe Louis Barrow, fighting a good fight and pounding the decision home when he said, "In this war we're on God's side." Over in the Philippines the little, tough-sinewed Moros were fighting with us beside men who used to be their enemies, along with their datos in the green turbans of Mecca. But Mohammed was their Prophet, as the Son of the House of David was ours.

Let history call it by a handy name, but this is the War of the Last Crusade. Nancy Shores.

IN SCARLET LETTERS.

(Nathaniel Hawthorne, 1804-'64.)

That house of brooding shadows called the heart,
  Toward which the crimson soul thru every hour
Must thread his lively way by nature's art
  To be renewed with nourishment and power;
That central citadel where love is stored
  Embosomed deeply near the cave of hate,
And garrisoned most strangely by a horde
  Of miscreants dour and ministers elate·
That realm of almost boundless tanglewood
  And rooted undergrowth of strong desires,
Ruled by the wavering will's capricious mood,
  And harried by the flame of frequent fires:
That was to him the fountain and the shrine
Of warmly consecrated scarlet wine!

I found Max Maier's fantasy about Joe Weber's arrival in Heaven [May 14] interesting but—one of the Weberfieldian veterans he mentioned as among those present isn't there yet. David Warfield can be found every afternoon at the Lambs club, New York, animate and articulate. I saw him and talked with him there about a week ago. THE LIVER IS ONLY HUMAN.

THE wisdom of nature has provided us with two eyes. If something goes wrong with one, the other will function adequately. But we are supplied with only one stomach, one heart, and one liver.

The largest organ of the body—the liver—is likely to suffer whenever we pour poisonous substances into the digestive tract. The reason is that all nutriment absorbed from the intestinal canal [except that which passes thru the thoracic duct] is dispatched to this structure. Only after it has been filtered by this reconditioning apparatus can it become a part of the general circulation.

Altho this gland is huge, its cells are delicate and easily injured. Sometimes they can be regenerated by means of sizable quantities of glucose. If we will add insulin, we can increase still further the utilization of sugar.

But in the disease known as "cirrhosis," scar tissue—which is useless—has crowded out working cells. Once the damage is done it can never be undone. After the destruction is well advanced, about all we can hope for is to protect the remaining normal areas and spare them further wear and tear.

In some instances the structure becomes hard and firm. Thus, the term "hobnail liver" is descriptive. In other cases it is larger than normal. In such circumstances, symptoms are characterized by persistent jaundice.

While the exact cause is unknown, we have identified many trouble makers such as infections, alcohol, and too much highly seasoned food. Alcohol alone cannot be blamed, as it was in the past. Poorly balanced meals, with too little vitamins—particularly when coupled with irritating condiments — probably account for the majority of cases.

As a rule, the disorder comes on slowly. A single indiscretion can be handled easily, but repeated daily assaults over a period of years are bound to take their toll. After the horse has been stolen is a poor time to start locking the barn door. It behooves us, then, to take advantage of the knowledge we now possess and adjust our habits so that this vital mechanism will not be abused.

The rôle of foods, while still under investigation, points to the fact that this factory can be protected with proper nourishment and with generous doses of vitamin B. A recent report from a New York hospital sets forth a liver saving regimen which is high in carbohydrates. Altho protein and fats are not excluded, starchy material constitutes the bulk of the menus. Vitamin B is furnished by two ounces of powdered brewer's yeast in each 24 hours.

The results, when compared with untreated subjects, show clearly that more sensible dietary programs not only prolong life, but maintain reasonable efficiency.

The plan increased caloric intake by 20 to 25 per cent, while the carbohydrate portion was not less than 10 to 12 ounces. This management was effective in stopping the tendency to bleeding which many of these victims exhibited. With those who complained of pain [neuritis], marked improvement ensued. The gain in weight and strength, and the loss of water from the tissues, enabled many of these sufferers to resume their vocations with moderate comfort.

JAUNDICED BABY.

W. S. writes: Does jaundice ever attack a newborn infant?

REPLY.

Yes, quite commonly. Symptoms may appear on the first or second day. As a rule no treatment is required.

Rarely, however, a severe form will be encountered for which infection [streptococcic] is responsible. This explains why the hygiene of all infants is so important. An intestinal upset of bacterial origin may precede the jaundice.

WATER IS WATER.

L. J. writes: Will any type of fluid—coffee, tea, soup, etc.—take the place of water?

REPLY.

Yes, insofar as the demand of the tissues is concerned. There is nothing quite so effective, however, as aqua pura in allaying thirst.

WPA INVESTORS.

Roselle, Ill., May 14.—A new high in political boldness has been reached. The so-called clients of the WPA are now permitted to buy war stamps and bonds without jeopardy to their standing as recipients of public charity.

Charles P. Casey, state WPA administrator, states that the "voluntary purchase of defense stamps would be considered as a patriotic sacrifice to help win the war." He neglects to state, however, on whom the burden of such sacrifice falls.

Certainly, no self-supporting and self-respecting American objects to contributing to the relief of those so unfortunate as to require aid even tho the system of distributing such relief is honeycombed with graft and abuses of the worst type. When those on the WPA rolls not only have to be provided with food, clothing, and shelter, but also a savings account in the form of war bonds, the time has come to write a new definition of "charity" or demand a reduction in the appropriations for relief purposes.

The politicians and economically ingenious social workers are less to be censured for causing such a situation to exist than the suckers who let them get away with it. CAL WHITNEY.

THE SOUTH DAKOTA PRIMARY.

Lead, S. D., May 11.—Apropos of your editorial analyzing recent primary elections, I read with interest your analysis of the South Dakota primary. In this editorial you omitted any reference to the result of the Mundt-Barnard contest, which was conducted upon the sole issue of Mundt's nonintervention position prior to Pearl Harbor. Rep. Mundt was the most pronounced and outstanding noninterventionist in the entire South Dakota delegation. He was renominated over his opponent by a landslide vote of five to one. CHAMBERS KELLAR.

MADE IN AMERICA GERMAN.

Las Vegas, Nev., May 7.—I was born in Vienna, Austria, but was treated as a foreigner, because my parents were born in Czecho-Slovakia.

I came to America 27 years ago, became a citizen of this country, and am treated as a foreigner, because I was born in Vienna. In Austria I was a Czech; in America I am a German.

In 11 months I have lost three jobs, because I am a German [made in U. S. A.]. KARL O. MERICKA-VEITH.

FARM LABOR.

Chicago, May 8.—Why not start something about the food going to waste because of the lack of farm labor? Stop the rationing before it becomes necessary. In the last war my mother went, on Sunday, with the Ladies' Aid to peel tomatoes in a canning factory. They put their wages in the Red Cross fund. If local needs were sufficiently publicized and people urged, for their own larder's sake as well as patriotism, to take their Sunday on trips to a truck farm, we'd have food enough to get along without coupons. HELEN BUGBEE.

EXAMPLE FOR CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 12.—I was a visitor in Milwaukee recently. The things there that impressed me most were the clean streets and alleys. Chicago politicians, please take notice—then take action. Don't wait until election time to do it. GEORGE F. RENNIE.

USING THE ARMORIES.

Chicago, May 15.—The members of the 3d battalion, 2d regiment, Illinois reserve militia will differ with D. G. Harter when he states that the Broadway armory seems to be begging for some one to use it. The armory may stand idle during the day, but has he ever investigated the evening activities? Our members work during the day at their various trades and professions, and drill without pay on the several drill nights.

When the National Guard was called into federal service, the Illinois reserve militia was organized and moved into the state armories. Members of the reserve militia went on active duty the day after war was declared and they're still on the job. Armory training made this service possible.

If Mr. Harter is between the ages of 18 and 35, and really concerned about putting the armory to use, he is welcome to drop around on Tuesday evening and enlist for two years. RAYMOND E. DREYER.

MR. HUGHES WAS SLOW.

Chicago, May 14.—It was my intention to be helpful to the secretary of state and send my application for a driver's license in early, and not be among the last minute rush. I also encouraged my friends to do the same, notarizing their blanks early.

My application was sent in the middle of February, and on the 23d of April I received a card stating that the licenses would be released before May 1st. Here it is the 14th of May and I haven't received it as yet. It has taken three months so far.

Around the 15th of April the department was complaining because of the small number sent in, why then does it take so long to send out those that were received early? GLADYS FAULKNER.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL TRAINS.

Chicago, May 11.—I note with considerable interest where you quote the Illinois Central suburban lines as "having almost unlimited equipment," according to an official. Also that traffic has increased 14 per cent in three months. I suppose this explains why they have recently chopped off two cars on a number of South Chicago trains. Some of the trains had only four cars to start with, thus cutting them exactly in half. The other day I counted over a hundred people standing in the aisles on a southbound train at 4 o'clock. Patrons of this branch of the I. C. pay well for their transportation, and should not be made to suffer these inconveniences unless absolutely unavoidable due to wartime conditions. SOUTH SHORE RESIDENT.

"PRINT HEROES' PICTURES."

Chicago, May 12.—I have noticed at various times that you publish the pictures of criminals in connection with news items. This morning I read the account of how Joe Mancuso captures a confirmed criminal, James Voe, but again the criminal's picture is used. Why not put credit where credit is due?

It seems to me that righteous living, especially when it involves heroism and devotion to duty, would get a break just once in a while and receive in the press the recognition it so properly deserves. F. F. FREYBERG.

FOUND SCHOOL PHONE GIRLS COURTEOUS.

Chicago, May 15.—I have read the letters submitted by Mr. Howatt and Mr. C. E. Johnson, and noticed in this morning's paper that Jill Neill also complained severely about the board of education. I happen to be a business man, not a politician, and am not affiliated with any part of the school board, but I will speak in favor of the telephone operators. Only recently I called and asked a question similar to that of Mr. Johnson and they treated me very courteously. They advised me in a nice, diplomatic way that they were not allowed to give numbers. We were moving, and I walked several blocks to the school and obtained the number from the principal. She also stated that if the board gave out telephone numbers to some of the people who call, the operators would be pestered to death and would not be able to take care of the children properly. HENRY MEYERS.

DEFENSE NOTICES IN MAILBOXES.

Chicago, May 10.—The writer is a block captain. It is my understanding that postoffice regulations prevent the use of mailboxes at homes from being used for civilian defense notices unless they are mailed and postage paid. This is due to previous complaints that bulky advertising literature had been crammed in boxes preventing use for first class mail. It would lighten the burden and facilitate rapid notice if the mailboxes could be used for memos pertaining to defense work delivered by special messenger.

It is my impression that it would not require an act of congress, or a Presidential edict, but only an order from the postmaster general to permit such use. BLOCK CAPTAIN.

DIVORCE.

Chicago, May 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband was sent to prison on an embezzlement charge for three years. I lived with him a short time after his release, then he disappeared and I haven't seen or heard from him since, which is 11 or 12 years. I've looked up records at the city hall to see if he divorced me [as I've been told he married again] but can find no such record. We were married here in Chicago. I have no money for a lawyer or divorce as I support myself and could never find him.

1. Can he get a divorce from me in another state and me not know it?
2. If he had secured a divorce [knowing my address] should I have been notified?
3. Am I still married to him after being separated so many years?
4. How can I find out the details?

M. A.

1. This is theoretically possible, but if your failure to receive notice was due to his filing a false affidavit that he did not know your address, this would invalidate his decree.
2. Yes.
3. Depends on facts that are not before us.
4. If you know where he has lived you should inquire of the court clerks there. If you do not know, then we see no way for you to exhaust the possibility. If you wish to contract another marriage you should yourself obtain another divorce.

FEDERAL WORKS PROJECTS FACE WAR SHUTDOWN

Study Ordered to Weed Out Non-Essential Jobs.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—A reëxamination of the 1,400 projects in the public works program of the federal works agency has been ordered with the view of sidetracking those not indispensable to the war.

Brig. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, FWA administrator, who issued the order, said today it meant that many projects approved before Pearl Harbor might be abandoned. Designs and specifications for others may be revised to eliminate proposed use of critical materials.

Shortage of Materials Cited.

"The constantly growing shortage of all kinds of materials due to our war production program requires a drastic curtailment of every form of construction," Fleming said. "This means that unless a project is directly tied in to the actual production of ships, tanks, airplanes, guns, armament, and other necessities of the armed services, it will be rescinded."

He said projects including schools and hospitals would be analyzed from the standpoint of their direct relation to war production, the extent to which existing facilities were being utilized, and what efforts had been made by local communities to meet demands for increased space without new construction.

Temporary Buildings Likely.

He said that where construction of new schools and hospitals is found essential, temporary structures probably of one story frame may be erected.

Fleming said that a week ago Col. William N. Carey, chief engineer of the federal works agency, began a study of all pending war public works projects thru regional organizations.

CITY AID SUES HIS WIFE ON CHARGE OF MISCONDUCT

Richard J. Glennon, who is paying $60 a month separate maintenance to Mrs. Clarice Glennon of 5811 Adams street despite his protest that her $35 a week salary makes her self-supporting, sued her for divorce yesterday. He accused Mrs. Glennon, 34 years old, of misconduct with men designated only as John Doe, Richard Roe and Joe Doe.

Glennon earns $225 a month as an engineer in the city water pipe extension service. Judge Philip J. Finnegan awarded Mrs. Glennon a separate maintenance decree Jan. 3, 1938. But the decree authorized her only to live apart from Glennon and gave her no support money, the judge holding that because of property holdings and her salary she could support herself.

The Appellate court held that separate maintenance meant money payments, and Judge George Fred Rush subsequently ordered Glennon to pay $60 a month. Glennon's bill, drawn by Paul Pomeroy, his attorney, asked that Mrs. Glennon be restrained from seeking an increase in the payments while the divorce suit is pending.

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Alice N. Tucker, 6909 34th street, Berwyn.]

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever "clear up" a misunderstanding with a person and become better friends as a result of it?

WHERE ASKED.

Madison La Salle building, 173 West Madison street.

THE ANSWERS.

Henry Sienkiewicz, drill press operator, 1417 Shakespeare avenue—My Latin teacher and I didn't get along. She thought I was lazy in studying my lessons and told me so one night after school. After I explained to her that I missed school the previous year she was a little more lenient and I worked harder.

Robert Britz, student, 2000 Lincoln Park West—When my schoolmate borrowed my clothes continuously and neglected to return them I was irritated. I thought it careless of him and told him so. When he told me that it was his financial status and not carelessness, we were better friends and I had fewer clothes.

Lorraine Jackusack, student, 4319 North Spaulding avenue—Another girl and I were to make plans for a party. Just because I was new I didn't think it reason enough for her to take everything in her hands. When she explained that she was not only the chairman of the committee but also president of the club, I changed my attitude.

L. Thane De Poy, electrical operator, 512 East 89th street—An army buddy and I were writing to girls who were sisters. He began to dislike me as he was no longer receiving letters from his friend and concluded I had been making reports to her sister. After he discovered she had married some one else, we were the same old friends.

Carlton Himman, clerk 4209 North Oakley avenue—Our Spanish teacher would speak nothing but Spanish in class. It provoked me because she would never explain anything in English. After a few weeks, I learned she had just come to this country and spoke no other language. After that I dismissed my antagonistic attitude.

Betty O'Hern, student, 4143 North Ridgeway avenue—Every time I greeted our new classmate in the hall she didn't seem happy about it. I didn't think she was a very pleasant person until one morning she told me that she wished I would call her by her right name.

M'CAHEY FIGHTS BACK AT SCHOOL BOARD'S CRITICS

Points to Record of the Last Nine Years.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Switching from his policy of ignoring critics who he declares "have more spleen than logic," James B. McCahey, ending his ninth year as president of the Chicago board of education, yesterday struck back at the board's detractors and promised to make public a long list of facts covering the charges made by the board's critics.

McCahey has had the payless job longer than any one else in over a century of Chicago public school history.

The springboard for McCahey's counteroffensive was the farewell resolution tossed into the city council's lap by Ald. Paul H. Douglas last week. Douglas resigned forthwith and enlisted in the marine corps, leaving behind his charges of inefficiency and political control. Since then McCahey has been assembling material for his reply.

Recalls Other Complaints.

"I have no quarrel with Douglas' motives, but the people who are cackling about the schools now are the same ones who a few years back opposed the ROTC and vocational training," McCahey said. "Even they must feel ashamed now, altho I don't expect to hear them admit it.

"Fair is fair and facts are facts, but I can't find facts or fairness in the yelping of parlor pinks who echo the barking of paid executive secretaries of this-and-that who are trying to look busy and keep their jobs.

"It's high time that the fair facts are put on the table. Let the taxpayers see what they're getting for their money and I'm content to let them decide whether they've got a good school board."

Cites Costs Per Pupil.

Figures speak louder than words, McCahey said, when it comes to the cost of the Chicago public schools. This is his view:

Chicago's cost per pupil is $124.67 a year against the average of $139.92 for five cities with over a million population, according to the latest federal compilation [1938-'39].

New York's figure is $161.46. Other pupil costs thruout the country in the federal list are: Boston, $139.58; Hartford, Conn., $151.70; Long Beach, Cal., $156.14; San Francisco, $148.53 [How much coal do they need?" McCahey asks as to the California cities]; Los Angeles, $137.91; Albany, N. Y., $151.16; Pittsburgh, $132.13, and Milwaukee, $112.85.

A present board member, assuming his unpaid office, asked McCahey where he could find his official limousine and chauffeur. This got him only hearty laughter.

Those Days Are Gone.

Time was when the automobile budget for board members alone ran to $37,500 a year—not including the prices of the Packards and Lincolns. Now only the school superintendent and the assistant superintendent have the cars—Buicks. One board member, Mrs. L. Robert Mellin, visited 71 schools in the last year; like the others, she travels on her own.

The chauffeured vehicles which were blown away by the depression wind were only a straw. Following are some other results to which McCahey points with pride.

In 1931 the former board spent $80,219,532; the present board in 1941 spent $65,093,580.

In 1931, tax anticipation warrants were gobbling up more than 6 per cent interest. In 1941 the rate was as low as 1 per cent, and thus far in 1942 the highest rate has been 1⅞ per cent.

Outstanding tax warrants in 1933 amounted to 81 million dollars. At the end of the first 1942 quarter they stood below 50 million dollars, with the expectation that they will be brought down to 40 million by the end of next month.

Current Debts Reduced.

Bills to the trade and other current debts were 5½ millions when the present board took over, but the amount is now $430,000—which are merely those bills in process of being paid within the month.

Teachers and other employés were 26 million dollars behind in salaries; all this has been paid and all salaries are now paid on time.

Some teachers still complain because the board has not seen its way clear to restore the final 5½ per cent of the 23½ per cent pay cut of 1933, which included shortening of the school year. Progress has been steady in this direction, however. The school year is back at par—40 weeks. The pay cut was reduced from 7½ to 5½ per cent in the 1942 budget.

The board's expenditures for pensions increased from $1,404,043 in 1931 to $2,327,251 in 1941.

YELLOW KID PLEADS NOT GUILTY; COURT SETS TRIAL JUNE 18

Joseph C. [Yellow Kid] Weil's trial on a 10 year old confidence game charge was set for June 18 by Judge Harold Ward in Criminal court yesterday after Weil had entered a not guilty plea.

In the detention room, Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin explained the judge's power to fix minimum and maximum sentences and suggested a guilty plea. "What's your deal?" asked Weil. Sherwin, saying he would have to talk with his superiors, asked if he could confer with Weil later. "Mr. Sherwin, come and spend an afternoon with me," said the Yellow Kid, who, lacking $10,000 bail, is in jail.

When Sherwin introduced Weil to Judge Ward as "a most interesting person," Weil observed: "Flattery is as anesthesia which lulls the defendant into susceptibility, but I'm not going to be lulled."

Weil is charged with defrauding Mrs. Bertha Harter, then at 6544 Newgard avenue, and her daughter, Agnes, of $32,000 in 1932 in an "investment" in Montana mining property.

TELLS PRESIDENT NEW DEAL IS WED TO COMMUNISTS

Thomas Wires Protest at Freeing Browder.

New York, May 18 [Special].—President Roosevelt's commutation of the sentence of Earl Browder, Communist leader, "is conclusive proof that the New Deal is garroted by Communists," Rep. J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.], member of the Dies committee, said today in a wire to the President.

Calling the President's action "deplorable," Thomas said that at the next session of the Dies committee he would move to make "the New Deal-Communist marriage our first order of business."

Freed by President.

The President on Saturday commuted Browder's four year sentence to the time served—14 months. The red leader was sent to prison after his conviction on charges of swearing falsely in applying for a passport.

Mr. Thomas' telegram to the President said in part:

"Your executive order freeing Earl Browder, Communist law violator, is conclusive proof that the New Deal is garroted by communism. As a member of the Dies committee I know that these same communists are using the present war as an avenue for further gains in America. To aid them as you have in the Browder case is most deplorable.

Wife Evades Deportation.

"Further, since when have we used the advocacy of the overthrow of the American government as an excuse to open the jails? At the next session of the Dies committee I shall recommend that the committee make the New Deal-Communist marriage our first order of business."

Meanwhile Browder remained in seclusion in his Yonkers home. Neighbors said his wife was with him. Mrs. Browder, the former Raisse Irene Berkmann, was ordered deported by former Attorney General Robert H. Jackson in 1940. The order has not been enforced.

Threatens Unity, Says Official.

State Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, Erie county Republican, told the Buffalo Lions club that the release of Browder would "contribute toward a doubt among our people, which is not conductive to unity in this time of crisis."

"The average American believes the communists are absolutely inimical to our form of government and can't understand why a leader who has done everything to subvert our form of government should be released after having been duly convicted and sentenced under our laws," Mahoney said.

HIT BY CHURCH LEAGUE

The commutation of Communist Earl Browder's prison sentence by President Roosevelt is fraught with alarming significance, the Church League of America said in a statement issued yesterday. Browder's release, the statement asserted, will result in an extension of anti-democratic and anti-Christian forces in the United States.

Frank J. Loesch is general chairman of the organization which is composed of clergy and laymen of all faiths.

"The real cause for alarm at the release of Browder by Presidential decree is that, coming as it does under the pressure of the Free Earl Browder crusade, it shows the power of the communist forces in the United States," the statement said.

"Every thinking churchman will be deeply concerned over this incident because Browder is the symbol of a movement that is based fundamentally upon atheism. It is a movement notoriously opposed to religious activities and worship.

"Almost without exception the communist functionaries who have been called before official investigating bodies in this country have refused to take an oath before testifying, giving as their reason that they do not believe in a personal God. The spreading power of this atheistic movement in America is a real cause for genuine alarm."

BEGIN LISTING OF DIATHERMY MACHINES HERE

Fear Use by Aliens as Radio Transmitters.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Possessors of diathermy apparatus in the Chicago area yesterday began responding to an order of the Federal Communications commission that all such equipment be registered by June 8. The first applications for the proper forms were filed here yesterday at the FCC offices in the United States courthouse, H. D. Hayes, inspector in charge, reported. Hayes called attention to the fact that the FFC order provided that the forms when filled out are returnable to the FCC in Washington, D. C., and not to the various field offices.

Diathermy machines generate radio frequencies in such a manner that patients may be treated by this energy for internal disorders. The machines can be easily converted to short wave transmitters that might be used to carry information over long distances. Since the operation of short wave transmitters is forbidden to all aliens easy access to diathermy equipment represents a constant temptation to enemies of the United States, it is said. There have been several reports of the illegal use in the east of such equipment for radio transmission.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and President Somoza of Nicaragua will be other speakers.

SUBPENA 2 WHO SEEK FURTHER FLYNN INQUIRY

New York, May 18 [Special].—Subpenas were served today upon Prof. Herman Gray and Sidney Baron, chairman and secretary of the Citizens Committee to Reopen the Flynn Case, upon the order of the Bronx county grand jury, which reconvened at the request of District Attorney Samuel J. Foley.

The jury recently heard the Edward J. Flynn paving block scandal.

Apparently Gray, professor of constitutional law at New York university, and Baron had been informed of the action, for they were waiting in Mr. Gray's office when county detectives arrived to serve them. They will appear tomorrow.

This developmepnt in the case involving the Democratic national chairman is believed to stem from a juror's revelation to the citizens committee. This juror allegedly stated that Foley "had advised the grand jury that no indictment for larceny could be returned if substantial restitution of the properpty had been made prior to the filing of a formal complaint before a magistrate."

APATHETIC VOTE EXPECTED TODAY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Gas Rationing Is Factor in Primaries.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18 [Special]. —A light vote is expected thruout Pennsylvania tomorrow as an electorate preoccupied with war will nominate party candidates for governor and other state offices and for the state's 33 seats in the house of representatives.

Party chairmen agreed today that ballots will be cast by only 25 to 35 per cent of the approximately 4,000,000 registered voters.

Gasoline rationing in 42 counties of the populous eastern section of the state will also cut down the vote, political observers said.

Bitter Contests.

Both the Republican and Democratic parties have staged bitterly contested primary campaigns for the gubernatorial nomination. Governors in Pennsylvania are elected for four years and are ineligible to succeed themselves.

In the Republican camp, U. S. Sen. James J. Davis, who has two years remaining in his senate term, is opposed as the party's choice for governor by Maj. Gen. Edward Martin, retired, until recently commander of the army's 28th division.

Martin has had the backing of the state Republican organization and of several members of the cabinet of the retiring Republican governor, Arthur James. Offsetting this is the large personal following built up by Davis in a public career which includes 12 years in the senate and terms as secretary of labor in the cabinets of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

3 Democrats in Race.

Personal feuding was absent from the three cornered Democratic race for nomination for governor. Apparently remembering the party splitting fight of 1938, the three candidates confined themselves to quiet campaigns. They are F. Clair Ross, state auditor general, who is backed by the Democratic state committee and David L. Lawrence, national committeeman; Luther A. Harr, bituminous coal consumers counsel, who has been supported by the Philadelphia Record, pro-administration organ of David Stern, and Judge Ralph H. Smith of Pittsburgh, who has the support of Sen. Joe Guffey and his powerful federal patronage machine.

A note of sadness was injected into the primary by the death early today of Rep. Patrick J. Boland of Scranton, Democratic whip of the house, who was a candidate for reëlection.

LOWER AGE LIMIT FOR LIFE GUARDS AT PARK BEACHES

Due to the shortage of employable young men, the Chicago park district has lowered the age limit for lifeguards at its 10 bathing beaches and 38 outdoor park pools to 17 years. Heretofore the minimum age was 18.

Ninety-nine young men, 54 of whom were under 18 years old, registered last evening at three of the park district bathing pools for a special Red Cross senior life savings and first aid course to qualify for application as lifeguards. The course, which will be given each day this week from 6:30 to 10:30 p. m., will furnish the required American Red Cross senior life saving certificate and standard first aid card to graduates. Qualifying tests for 260 openings as lifeguards will be held June 8 thru 18 at Washington park pool.

The courses are being given at Ridge park pool, 96th street and Longwood drive; LaFollette park pool, Hirsch street and Laramie avenue, and Portage park pool, Central avenue and Irving Park road. A similar course will be given next week at Blackhawk park pool, Belden and La Vergne avenues.

ADVOCATE WORLD GOVERNMENT FOR A LASTING PEACE

Formation of a world government in which all nations can participate is the only solution to maintaining a lasting peace after this war, three speakers agreed in a panel discussion before the City Club of Chicago yesterday in the La Salle hotel. They differed only as to the methods by which this objective could best be obtained.

The speakers were Dr. Emery W. Balduf, national director of the Federal Union, Inc.; John R. Van de Water, executive secretary of the World Citizens' association, and William B. Lloyd Jr., midwest director of the Campaign for World Government.

All emphasized that the United States must play a leading rôle in maintaining world order. They also stood for the gradual elimination of barriers to free trade.

Accuse Policemen

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

TED JOHNSON.

Selection of jurors in the trial of Frank Cunningham, 32 years old, and Michael Marren, 30, former state's attorney's policemen who are charged with extortion by threat, proceeded late yesterday in spite of a series of delays thruout the day.

When the two were arraigned before Judge Michael V. Tremko in jury court, Cunningham, represented by Attorney Harry Busch, petitioned for a change of venue, asserting that Judge Tremko and Judge John J. Griffin of Felony court were prejudiced. Trial of both men then was assigned to Judge John T. Zuris, sitting in Safety court.

Ralph Clare, assistant state's attorney, insisted on an immediate trial, but when the case was called before Judge Zuris, Busch obtained a recess to permit him to interview 14 state witnesses. Later Busch was granted dismissal of the first jury panel on his contention that Clare's reference to the defendants as "suspended policemen" was prejudicial.

Cunningham and Marren were suspended April 30 after Ted Johnson, 16, of 11215 Parnell avenue, accused them of taking $5 from him by threatening to arrest him for reckless driving and of trying to drag his companion, Miss Phyllis Mueller, 15, of 10907 Wabash avenue, to their car.

PARK OFFICIALS TAKE NEW STAND ON GOLF COURSE

Now They Say They'll Fight Patton Grab.

Bowing to public opinion, officials of the Calumet Memorial park district reversed themselves last night and announced that they will fight to keep their Burnham Woods golf course from falling into the hands of Johnny Patton, mayor of Burnham and ex-Capone vice lord.

Lester J. Kelly, president of the park board, called a massmeeting of the taxpayers for next Monday night to halt the Patton grab. Roman E. Posanski, the board attorney, gave his hearty approval.

But 24 hours earlier, Posanski had said the board would make no attempt to prevent the county board from transferring the golf course to Patton. And Kelly had said that whatever Posanski said went for him.

Denies Statement Later.

Posanski denied his statement when asked about it at the board meeting. Kelly explained afterward: "I didn't know what Posanski had in mind at the time."

The mass meeting will be in the park gymnasium. Taxpayers who face the prospect of paying a $125,000 bond issue bill out of their pockets will have an opportunity to express their sentiments publicly. The bonds were to have been financed from the golf course revenue.

The course, operated by the park district for 13½ years, was transferred to the village of Burnham May 12 by the county board, sitting as the forest preserve board. Kelly said two of the commissioners told him the transfer was ordered by "the boys at the Morrison hotel," which is the headquarters of Chairman P. A. Nash and the Democratic county committee.

Course Cost $173,953.

Trustees Frank Magdziasz, Sig Paszkowski, and Orleen Piccirilli were present with Kelly and Posanski at last night's meeting. The trustees showed records of $173,953 in expenditures on the golf course now earmarked for Patton.

If Patton has heard of the Birnam Wood that got up and walked to bring the downfall of a gentleman named Macbeth, as the Burnham woods situation is moving against him now, he said nothing about it at the meeting of his own village board last night. The vice lord and gambling chief beamed while the board accepted the grab, and piously remarked:

"We won't sell liquor, like the park did. It's illegal on forest preserve property."

HULL OFFICE GETS RED PROTESTS ON UDA PURGE PLAN

Reports Vain Search for a Document.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—The state department tonight issued a formal denial that its records contain a particular document quoted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on Saturday in a story concerning an undertaking by the so-called Union for Democratic Action to "purge" 3 senators and 26 reprsentatives in the congressional elections this year.

The state department's denial referred only to a specific document from which The Tribune story quoted. The particular report referred to by the department stated that members of the UDA have long records of affiliation with Communist front organizations, the number of which would represent a total of several thousand.

Dossier's Existence Not Denied.

There was no denial of the following paragraph in the Tribune story:

"Inquiry disclosed that the state department has a dossier on the Union for Democratic Action which it keeps in its officially denominated 'Communist activities file.'"

Michael McDermott, spokesman for the department, was asked whether the department wished to deny that it has a collection of data on the UDA which it keeps under the heading, "Communist activities file."

"We have no comment on that question," McDermott replied.

The state department announcement said a careful search of its records and files revealed no trace of the document quoted by The Tribune story and "no record of its ever having been received by the department of state. The inference given in the article that the alleged report was prepared in the department of state is absurd."

Reds Demand Repudiation.

The Tribune story said the report was contained in the files of the state department but did not say the department prepared it. THE TRIBUNE'S information is that the report was prepared by an official agency for the state department and at the request of the state department.

As a result of The Tribune story communists and their fellow travelers in and out of the administration bombarded the state department over the week-end with protests and demands for repudiation of the quoted document.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has no love for the UDA, which had accused his department of coddling the pro-Nazi Vichy régime in France and winking at monopolistic cartel agreements between American and German industrial concerns. The secretary was confronted, however, by the prospect of offending the communists on the very day that President Roosevelt had ordered the release of Earl Browder, their general secretary, from a federal penitentiary.

His silence respecting the charges against the UDA would benefit the pre-war noninterventionist senators and representatives whom the Roosevelt administration, in collaboration with the communists, is seeking to liquidate politically. Mr. Hull chose to deny that a report prepared for his department at the department's request is now in the department's possession.

CHARGES WINING AND DINING IN BOND DISPUTE

Seven ex-aldermen of Calumet City were wined and dined by 25 city bond holders who had obtained judgments of $554,000 against the city, according to charges made yesterday by Franklin Stransky, attorney for the mayor and 10 current aldermen of the community.

The charge was made before Judge John Prystalski in an action brought by Attorney Arthur Sullivan for the bondholders to hold the present mayor and present aldermen in contempt for not passing an ordinance to authorize the payment of the money.

Attorney Stransky asserted the purpose of the wining and dining was to influence the seven former aldermen not to contest the judgments. Their names were not mentioned. He held that the present officials cannot be held liable for the actions of their predecessors. The courts in 1940 ordered the judgments paid. Judge Prystalski will rule on the contempt petition Monday.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

K. S. writes: "I am the father of three children and am 38 years of age. My earnings are very small and not enough to support my family. My wife also has to work so that we can meet expenses. Will I get a 1-A classification because she works?"

ANSWER: If your wife's salary enabled her to support herself and the children, you probably would be placed in 1-A. However, if the draft board finds that your combined wages are needed to meet expenses you quite likely will receive a deferment.

P. W. asks: "If I should be drafted, how could I claim the benefit for dependents which is now pending. I contribute a great part to the family income. I do not believe my family—mother, dad, and young sister—could very well manage on my dad's income. For how many persons could I claim this benefit?"

ANSWER: Under the present provisions of the plan, you would be able to take advantage of the legislation by contributing $20 a month from your army pay. Your parents and sister would then receive an additional allowance from the government. This would amount to $25 a month for your parents and $5 for your sister.

G. W. H. asks: "Is there any branch of the army in which a man 30 years old can enlist with the assurance that he will be allowed to enter officers' training school after a few week's physical training or any branch in which he can enter officers' training immediately after enlisting? I am a university graduate with a degree in business administration and have had two years of ROTC training."

ANSWER: In view of your training in business administration you might be eligible for an immediate commission in the army finance department. Write to the Army Personnel Placement agency, United States courthouse, Chicago, for a questionnaire. Application to this office does not entail enlisting until the commission is granted. If you were to enlist there is no assurance you would be sent to officers' training school. A score of 110 or better on your army general classification test would make you eligible to apply for training.

Mrs. J. M. asks: "Will a man suffering from chronic bronchial asthma pass the army physical examination?"

ANSWER: No. The registrant would be recommended for either a 1-B or 4-F classification, depending upon the seriousness of the condition.

To A. L.—Unless you are an ex-service man, your age would bar you from enlisting. The other fact would not bar you.

SEVEN SUSPECTS HELD IN SLAYING OF GRAIN DEALER

Seven men were under arrest last night as suspects in the slaying of Mrs. Emma Wokohn, 66 year old tobacco and grain dealer, whose body was found bound and gagged in her ransacked store at 1635 West 47th street Saturday night.

Earlier in the day Probate Judge John F. O'Connell issued letters of administration to Anton Stutz Jr., 6237 Drexel avenue, Mrs. Wokohn's nephew, who said her estate consists of $25,000 in personal property and real estate valued at $5,000.

In a safety deposit box were found $1,700 in cash and 1,000 shares of Commonwealth Edison stock, with a market value of $19,000. She also had bank deposits of $9,000.

Police, Stutz, and his attorney, William O'Malley, also found hidden in grain and sawdust barrels, under partitions and in other places in the store, more than $1,600 in coin and old bills. Under one partition was a bag containing $1,000 in quarters and half dollars, an additional 702 shares of Commonwealth Edison stock, and two recent dividend checks each for $440.

FUND TO PROVIDE 164 AIRPORTS IS URGED IN SENATE

Improvement of 266 Other Fields Asked.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The senate appropriations committee recommended today a $199,740,000 airport program involving the proposed development of 164 new airports and improvement of 266 existing fields.

Also included were funds to complete certain landing fields in Alaska and to provide the army ferrying command with new landing fields in the United States.

Doubles House Figures.

The airport program accounted for the bulk of $204,625,135 net increases proposed by the committee in the annual appropriation bill for the departments of state, justice, and commerce and the federal judiciary for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

As reported to the senate by the committee, the bill carried appropriations totaling $425,703,235, compared with $221,078,100 voted by the house and $371,602,115 appropriated for the current year.

In addition to the landing field funds the committee voted $3,675,000 for establishment of air navigation facilities and $519,600 for certain airport paving development projects.

Requested by Stimson.

These increases were made in the appropriation for the Civil Aeronautics administration and were recommended by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson as necessary for the army air corps program.

The committee recommended reductions totaling $472,275 in the traveling expenses of the four agencies and asked a cut of $810,750 in allowances for printing and binding.

Another increase proposed by the committee would provide $90,000 for the American boundary commission to construct a sewage treatment works at Douglas, Ariz.

Avoid Pickup Dating, Even from Uniform

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Is it all right to pick up boys in uniform on the street?" asks a young innocent, aged 15.

No, it isn't all right, Fifteen, to pick up a boy in uniform, any more than it is right to pick up, or be picked up by, a boy in civvies. The uniform doesn't make a man any more shock resistant to fresh girls than does a business suit. The boy in uniform who has been brought up to classify unflatteringly girls who are easy to date without introduction doesn't change that opinion of them just because he has changed his garments.

Nor does a uniform change the character of a youth appreciably whose standards weren't notably high before enrolling in the army. It's no reflection on the uniformed men, either, to say that human nature undergoes no particular change just by putting it into a uniform.

So don't fool yourself, Fifteen, that you're fooling the boys into thinking you're doing a patriotic turn by walking up to them on the street and starting a conversation. You're always the girl easy to get, easy to afford, and easy to walk out on, if you're a pickup.

It's a different story if some older woman or man is along, and he or she starts a conversation, in which you may join. It's something else again to go to the canteens and the dance places managed after a strictly conventional code, and dance there with the boys, if they allow 15 year olds to attend, about which we have our doubts, unless they are well chaperoned.

If anything, you young women want to be just a little more circumspect in your behavior toward the boys in uniform, since they are in the services for a cause that has nothing cheap and flighty about it. When you meet these boys under favorable circumstances, be friendly, of course, but don't let them think you're cheap.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

"Anything" Doesn't Go.

"What can you do?" the interviewer asked.

"Anything," said the job seeker. She didn't get the job.

Why? Because the interviewer was a seasoned, experienced employer and he knew that, tho the young woman may have wanted the job badly enough to attempt anything, it did not follow that she was capable of every kind of work. She couldn't be.

Sport fans will tell you that when a candidate goes out for a team the first question the coach asks is, "What position do you play?" If the candidate says, "I'm a pitcher," well and good. It shows self-confidence and specialization . . . something he is sure he can do.

Say to the interviewer: "I can sell." Or say, "I can cope with people in difficult situations and am good at adjustment work." Say, "I specialized in home economics and am interested in foods," or, "I've taken a filing course and am familiar with the most modern office methods." Say, "I've managed a home and would like to work in your drapery department." . . . "I'm a stenographer." . . . "I have a good telephone voice." . . . "I'm a bookkeeper." . . . Say ANYTHING but "anything."

Indeterminate abilities are the hardest of all to place. And this, if nothing else, accounts for untold heartaches for the older woman. It is not her gray hair that keeps her from finding employment. Pretty, well-kept gray heads are bobbing up now in the most unexpected businesses. In many cases her inability to fit her experience into a job . . . and make the employer see how well it fits . . . accounts for bitter disappointment.

Turning the Tape.

A man reader offers a suggestion for the conservation of office supplies. "Save adding machine tapes, rewind them on spools, using the reverse side of the paper. We have tried it in our office and it has worked O. K."

That's Chester, Folks.

Early risers, loop bound, have been curious about the young lad, carrying a briefcase, sleepily eating an early breakfast on the same day each week in the same place. Is he carrying important papers? Is he on a secret mission? Are there state documents in that carefully guarded case?

The mystery is now dispelled. He is Chester Butler, 10 years old, of Clinton, Ia., who comes to Chicago once a week to take an early morning music lesson from Harriet Crane. And in his brief case you will find boogie-woogie numbers happily hobnobbing with Grieg's Concerto in A minor.

5 Feet 2; Eyes of ——!

Comes the moment in the life of every writer of "polite piffle," as B. L. T. [or was it R. H. L.] called it, when some one [usually a high school freshman faced with an overdue theme] writes to inquire, flatteringly enough, the shade of the hair, the color of the eyes, etc. And if no such letter EVER arrives, the crestfallen writer is prone to feel NOBODY CARES.

So just in the nick of time comes a letter from the Tall Girls' club asking the height of the white collar girl. Five feet two . . . in stockingless feet.

New Problems of Health Seen by Dr. Parran

The major health problems of the war are ahead of us, said Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States before the opening session of the National Biennial Nursing convention in the Coliseum last night.

Many of the 10,000 nurses, who are attending the five day convention are members of the American Nurses association, the National League of Nursing Education and the National Organization for Public Health Nursing. Representatives from every state in the union have met to discuss the problem of meeting the increased demand for nurses during the war.

"Fatigue and emotional strain will eventually take their toll, civilian needs will become acute when the professional services have been drained for military duty," Dr. Parran predicted. "Physical and mental output to the utmost combined with lack of needed medical and nursing care when the break comes will present the health forces of the nation with an incalculable demand."

Dr. Parran predicted that other and essential foods will soon follow sugar on the rationing list, and added, "In my opinion, the sooner the better."

"It is apparent that this is the one way to provide an equitable distribution of the things we have, on the basis of actual need, rather than purchasing power. Similarly, we shall have to ration the technical skills of the nation, of which there is inevitably a shortage in wartime."

Dr. Parran declared that if the army is increased to its objective of 6,000,000 men by the end of 1943, it will require the services of at least 39,000 doctors, 30,000 nurses [35,000 if the navy needs are considered] and 7,500 dentists.

Maj. Julia C. Stimson, president of the American Nurses association, conducted the meeting.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Chicago friends of the Frontier Nursing service have received letters from Mary Breckinridge, the director, asking for contributions which might serve, it seems to us, as a model for such letters in wartime. Mrs. Breckinridge's appeal is as follows:

Mary Breckinridge.

"As a sister of a marine and of a soldier, I join with you in eagerness to see the gifts pile up for war charities and for the Red Cross. After you have given to these, then please remember also responsible charities like ours who give direct care to women in childbirth, young children, and the sick.

"Maternity is the young woman's battlefield, and we have lost more women in childbirth in our history as a nation than men killed in war. During the last 3 score years and 10, 51,210 men were killed in action or died of wounds in our wars. During the same long life span, by the most conservative computation, several hundred thousand young women died in childbirth. Think of the men in the war today, but remember the women, too."

The Frontier Nursing service carries on its work in the hills of Kentucky, with headquarters at Wendover. The doctors, nurse-midwives, and couriers in the service ride on horseback to carry aid and care to rural communities where there are no Infant Welfare centers and no facilities for giving proper care to newborn babes and their mothers. The work is supported by men and women all over the country. Mrs. Charls W. Dempster heads the Chicago committee.

Women may still enroll in the Illinois Institute of Technology's second free course in ordnance inspection. Applications will be accepted until 200 have been enrolled, and groups of 50 will start the course every two weeks. A class of 40 started its studies yesterday. The classes are held at the institute's Lewis campus, 1951 West Madison street, 8 hours a day, 5 days a week. The course will continue for 12 weeks. The United States Office of Education pays the cost of the program.

An all-day training session to acquaint Girl Scout program chairmen with the work of the youth activities committee of the Office of Civilian Defense will be held in room 322, Pure Oil building, tomorrow. A review of those parts of the Girl Scout program which are most valuable to civilian defense will be given. Instruction in the best means of coöperation with the youth activities committee will be presented by Mrs. Morton Bassett, executive director of Girl Scouts, incorporated, of Chicago and a member of the youth committee. Mrs. Richard Bentley is chairman of the defense program committee for the Girl Scouts.

A report on the work of the women's interests section of the bureau of public relations of the war department will be presented by Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick of Washington, D. C., at a dinner meeting of the Chicago Home Economics Women in Business at 6 o'clock Thursday in the Peoples' Gas Light and Coke building. Miss Marye Dahnke, who will preside, will give a report on the activities of the group's members in civilian defense and other war work.

Marye Dahnke.

Discussion of the position of the alien in wartime and "Training and Employment Opportunities for Women" will be highlights of today's program in a three day institute on "Civilian Mobilization and Women in Wartime" at the Woman's City club, 410 South Michigan avenue. Among those who will take part in the panel discussion on training and employment at the afternoon session are Miss Sara E. Southall, supervisor of employment service, International Harvester company; Miss Anne S. Davis, in-plant training consultant, apprenticeship section, Federal Security board, and Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union League of Chicago and member of the advisory council on employment security of the Social Security board. This is the first day of the institute.

The new class of midshipmen from the naval reserve school at Northwestern university will be welcomed at a tea dance next Sunday by the Opera Guild Juniors. The dance will be held in the Chicago Yacht club.

To give the party a nautical touch, shipping labels will be used for tickets. With fingers crossed for sunny weather, the committee hopes to have the dancing on the outdoor platform overlooking the harbor. A buffet supper will wind up the festivities.

Good Morning!

Well, here's where we sashay back to the not so good old days when liquor was "half potato water and the other half poison," when "beer barons" shot one another in the back over booze and "territory" and molls. Sordid, terrifying days—and why bring them up now? As if we didn't have enough! Well——

In this number a big, sardonic guy named Steve Crandall shoots "Scar," another booze racketeer, in the back, and the latter's girl gets him, eventually. But there's a lot of dirty water in between, swimming with the scum of Crandall's efforts to get a hoofer's girl away from him—a girl who, excepting for a few brief, dazzled moments, doesn't want him. . . .

Brod Crawford—one of my favorite actors, be in western, comedy or eastern melodrama—presents a telling performance as the story's chief stinker. . . . Pat O'Brien comes gallantly to the fore as a cop who knows what and when to see and what and when not to see. . . . There's a trouper, Pat! Janet Blair and Ann Gwynne both demonstrate that they really are star stuff, and you'll be mighty glad to welcome Marjorie Rambeau again. . . . She's still handsome. She still can sing. She still has a figure to make many a younger woman green with envy.

George Raft is seen as a Hollywood actor, who, stopping over in New York, tells the story of 'way back when that is shown in flashback on the screen. . . . He's the same George Raft as always—which is plenty for most of us.

I suppose it COULD happen again—prohibition and gun running and poison and slaughtered innocents. . . . So maybe "Broadway" was made as a warning.

Anyhow—that's a thought.

See you tomorrow.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY KATE MASSEE

Childhood Days.

In the mail:

"Today I'd like to go back to a warm, lazy summer afternoon in 1911. Mother is sitting in a rocking chair on the front porch with her sewing, her black, curly hair piled high. I've been playing down the street and suddenly the sound of the ice cream man's bell rings out in the still, hot afternoon. I scamper for the porch and mother says I'd better run and get our dishes for ice cream. I'm back as quick as a wink, with two dishes and spoons, just as the man's horse drawn wagon pulls up at our hitching post. He dishes out two big helpings of fresh strawberry ice cream, and mother and I sit down to enjoy the fine cooling treat. Yes, today I'd like to go back to that peaceful world.—D. N. J."

Conscience.

One day last week a Chicago woman received a visit from a man whom she did not remember, but who identified himself as having worked in her late husband's grocery 40 years ago. He explained that during his employment he'd taken $10 from the till to buy his girl a Christmas present. The theft had lain heavily on his conscience thru the years, and he'd come all the way from Texas to make good his dereliction.

Letter from Home.

The corn is planted and today
Golden orioles flew this way.
The wrens are busy with a nest—
They like the house you built us best
For their bird family.
The brown Swiss calf plays in the field
Where cherry trees foretell great yield;
The Belgian colt thinks he has grown
And now can make his way alone,
But waits for your return.
The country land is full of peace;
When this becomes a world-wide lease,
We shall expect you home.
—Martha Wendt.

No Time Wasted.

En route to work the other morning on a North Western train, Marcia Kedzie noticed a pretty little woman going down the aisle of the crowded coach, talking to the commuters. Listening in, she learned that the woman, a volunteer Red Cross worker, was signing up a half dozen men to appear that afternoon at Red Cross headquarters to give their quotas to the blood bank. Her name is Mrs. Harry Jouver, and she comes all the way from Walworth, Wis., not only to work at headquarters, but along the way. That, commented Miss Kedzie [and we heartily agree], is really doing one's bit for one's country.

Virtue's Reward.

When the $25,000 ceiling on annual incomes popped into the news it reminded Otto K. Eitel of the time a valet at the Bismarck hotel found exactly that amount in currency in a suit he'd received from a guest for pressing. The valet promptly went to the man's room with the money and found him neither frantic nor pleased. "You're just a chump," the man said, "and I'm not going to give you even a dime as a reward. This money is insured and you could have kept it and taken things easy the rest of your life." The valet simply made a report of the matter, and in the years following often found hundreds of dollars in cash, as well as valuable gems, which he returned just as promptly to the owners.

Blind Dates.

For some months Mrs. J. L. Hoekstra's young daughter and her best friend have been corresponding with two sailors stationed in Chicago. The other evening the girls set out for their first date with the boys, whom they had not met up to then. Arriving at the appointed meeting place the girls saw, to their dismay, not two but 10 sailors. They were about to flee when their dates came across the street. The foursome struck up a fine friendship, and now the sailors are dining weekly at the girls' homes, with the hostesses preparing and serving the food.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., May 18.—More information about the first sound picture from E. L. Bachman of Englewood, N. J.: "Your article on the Webb talking pictures brings back memories. During the development of these pictures I was secretary to George Registar Webb and secretary of the Magnaphone company. This was in 1912 to 1913.

"The pictures were a development from the magnaphone, a loudspeaker used for fire control on United States battleships and as train announcing equipment.

"The pictures were made in the old Pilot studios, Yonkers, N. Y. The cameraman was George DeWitt and the director Jimmy Ashley of the Broadway stage. The first film made was a xylophone solo, 'The Stars and Stripes Forever,' played by George Van Epps.

"Mr. Webb was fond of opera and he recorded excerpts from many operas. Chief among them were the spinning song from 'Martha,' the sextette from 'Lucia' and the prologue and 'Vesti la Giubba' from 'Pagliacci.' The projector used was a Simplex with a synchronized phonograph turntable. The first public showing was at the roof of the New Amsterdam in 42d street, in April, 1913.

"Another of Mr. Webb's developments anticipated the phone juke box. There was a studio at 110th and Broadway, and the apartments around were wired and equipped with magnaphones. Each afternoon and evening stock market reports, sporting results, and music were transmitted."

Thru Bill Maloney I get from Thomas Crawford Hill, the cartoonist, a note on Hollywood as it was around the same period. There were no buildings at the intersection of Hollywood and Vine, but nearby was one store—a grocery.

To this store most of the new talent went upon arriving in Hollywood—those, that is, who had come out on their own to make their way. There was a bulletin board at the store, and on this board newcomers would put their pictures. Here a director could find out who had come to town. . . . It was a long cry from the present central casting system, whose complexities are such that extras and bit players spend their lives between jobs lugging telephones with long cords around home. Central casting has no time to look at portraits on a grocery store bulletin board; it lets the phone ring a few seconds, and if nobody answers, it calls somebody else.

It hurt to hear last week of the suicide of Frank Churchill, who gave the Disney studio many a grand tune. There are some yet to come—in "Bambi." A number sung by the owl, for instance, who feels that the springtime mating season in the forest is silly, and he grumbles about everybody being twitterpated.

"Your head's in a whirl. . . . You're walking on air. It can happen to you." That's the way "twitterpated" goes. It's a Churchill tune, and the words come from Larry Morey.

Well, along in the five years it took to make "Bambi," there appeared the need for a one-word description of the way forest—and city—folk act in the spring.

"Fellows and girls would go along the studio halls muttering words to themselves," recalls Morey. "I got my hunch for 'twitterpated' listening to the birds."

Morey played football for UCLA 10 years ago and doesn't look like a lyrist. But he had written campus shows and songs, and on graduating he went to work for Leon Schlesinger for $50 a week. Later he switched to Disney. To Churchill's lighthearted melodies Larry Morey put words for "Snow White." . . . It's tough, isn't it, that a world which Frank Churchill had helped make happy couldn't make him happy enough, or well enough, to want to stay.

United Artists tomorrow night is previewing "Ships with Wings," British film whose scenes include many shots aboard the aircraft carrier Ark Royal. . . . A word I'm getting tired of in press copy: "Curvaceous." . . . It's had a longer run than the late Percy Hammond's great discovery, "callipygian." . . . Sister act: Betty Hutton is in "Happy Go Lucky" at Paramount, and Marion Hutton's in "Orchestra Wife" at 20th.

NOW! SAVE ON BUTTER!

Make 2 lbs. Delicious Spread using only 1 lb. Butter... with KNOX GELATINE

Here's all you need:
1 envelope Knox Gelatine
1 pound good butter
¼ cup cold water
1—14½ oz. can evaporated milk

Here's how:

Soften gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Then place in a dish of hot water and stir until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Cut the butter into small pieces. Place it in a dish over hot water until the butter is quite soft. Do not melt. Gradually whip the milk and the dissolved gelatine into the butter with a Dover egg beater or your electric mixer. After the milk is thoroughly beaten into the butter, add salt to taste. If milk separates, keep on beating until it is all mixed in. Pack into dish or container and place on ice or in cool place until hard. It should be kept in refrigerator when not in use. Coloring may be added if desired.

Note: Fresh milk may be substituted for the evaporated milk—in which case use a pint of milk (preferably the top half of a quart bottle), and soften the gelatine in ¼ cup milk taken from that pint.

Food Value? Look at this!

In 2 lbs. of grand spread you get:
1 lb. butter...butter fats, vitamins: A, some D
1 can milk...Vitamin B Complex, calcium, butter fats, protein
1 env Knox Gelatine...All protein

And remember, 2 pounds of this wonder spread costs only about ⅔ as much as 2 pounds of butter! Try it. Get Knox from your grocer in 4-envelope package or 32-envelope size. 3 Worthy Causes Will Benefit from Sales Within Next Week

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGOANS who are in the market for Mexican gifts, summer clothes, or antique furniture may satisfy their whims and at the same time help along a worthy cause at three sales being held within the next seven days.

The board of directors of Hull House are congratulating themselves on having obtained one of Lake Forest's most attractive homes in which to hold a sale of the lovely goods offered by the shop. Mrs. Charles B. Pike generously is opening her beautiful Spanish house at 955 North Lake road, Lake Forest, next Tuesday for a sale of Hull House merchandise.

Included in the goods on view will be some stunning things Mrs. William McCormick Blair, chairman of the sale, brought back with her from Mexico and which should fit perfectly into the background of the house. Among the Mexican items are nonwashable luncheon sets, the kind that brush or wipe off. Some of those entertaining at luncheon next Tuesday and taking their guests to the sale are Mrs. Robert S. Macdonald, Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, Mrs. J. Andrews King, and Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr.

Hospital Junior Auxiliary Holding Its Sale Friday.

As a forerunner to summer, the junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital will offer bathing suits and white shoes at its next sale on Friday in the White Elephant shop, 27 East Ohio street. Mrs. Edward B. Woolf Jr. is chairman of the sale. Among members of the junior auxiliary "clerking" under her will be Mrs. Edwin W. Sims Jr., Mrs. Anthony M. Ryerson, and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr. The 24 year old shop gives its proceeds to the hospital to provide free beds and medical care for sick children from needy families.

Antique collectors will be bearing off treasures from the Woman's club of Evanston every day thru Friday, for the 8th annual antique show and sale of the Chicago Rockford College club is now in progress. Proceeds from the sale, which annually attracts dealers from all over the country, will go to the college's alumnæ fund.

60 Former Arden Shore Boys in Armed Forces.

Arden Shore, which opened a drive for funds yesterday to continue its work of building junior citizens, feels that it has a special part in the war program. Sixty former Arden Shore boys are now serving in the armed forces. Both the Arden Shore winter school and summer camp in Lake Bluff provide for underprivileged mothers and children the kind of health, character building, and educational program necessary for good citizenship.

A gift of $2 will keep four children for one day at the Arden Shore summer camp; $15 will keep a mother and four children for one week; $25 will supply milk for one month to 50 boys, and $100 will provide manual training equipment for 50 older boys for three months.

Altho its season officially is over, the Alliance Française will gather once more at 12:30 o'clock on Thursday in the Blackstone hotel to honor Mrs. James H. Winston of Evanston, who has belonged to the group since her father enrolled her for membership 50 years ago. Mrs. Winston has been a member of the Alliance longer than any of her confrères and served as its president from 1925 to 1930. Among those making reservations for the luncheon are Mrs. Carter Harrison, Mrs. Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. Lewis Dodd, Mrs. Ralph Cornelison, Mrs. Walter Bracken, Mrs. Morton Bodfish, Mrs. Harry Dingman, Miss June Lockett, Mrs. Ralph Winston, Mrs. Edward Mahon, and Mme. Maurice Landis.

Renwick S. Tweedys Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Renwick S. Tweedy [Caroline Case] are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Margot Case, their first child, yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital. Mr. Tweedy's mother, Mrs. Raymond Tweedy, is expected from Glenbrook, Conn., today or tomorrow, and Mrs. Tweedy's mother, Mrs. Ralph E. Case, will come from Darien, Conn., soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop K. Coolidge of Lake Shore drive are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Friday in Passavant hospital. The baby has two little sisters, Latitia and Deborah Jean. Mrs. Coolidge is the former Latitia Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Howard A. Kelly of Baltimore, Md. The children's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Coolidge of Kenwood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua D. Derry [Dorothy Bard] announce the arrival of a daughter, Joan Doughty, on April 29 at the Highland Park hospital. The baby, who is the Derrys' second child, is the granddaughter of the Francis N. Bards of Highland Park.

Mrs. Dee Bredin Speaks at Arts Club on Friday.

Every one who is interested in hearing Mrs. Dee Bredin speak at the Arts club on Friday morning is invited. The Queen Wilhelmina Fund, Inc., is sponsoring the talk, for which tickets are available at $2.50 each. Mrs. Bredin has many friends in Lake Forest, particularly among the hunting crowd, as she has been here frequently to take part in riding events. Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, and Mrs. Jan I. Noest, wife of the Netherlands consul, are planning luncheon parties following the talk, which is called "You Can't Beat the Dutch." Mrs. Bredin, a foreign correspondent, was in the Dutch East Indies a few months ago.

Poetry Magazine Aids to Hear Poet at Tea Tomorrow

Chicago women who have rallied to the support of Poetry magazine by forming an emergency committee will gather for tea tomorrow afternoon at the Cordon club to hear David Daiches of the University of Chicago, one of the poets "discovered" by the magazine, read some of his new poems. Hostess for the afternoon will be Mrs. James Bremner.

At its last tea the emergency committee, headed by Mrs. Augustine J. Bowe, doubled its membership. Among its new supporters are Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., who will join the Washington, D. C., committee when she goes east next month to join Lieut. Hamill; Mrs. George B. Van Buren, president of the Friends of American Writers, and Mrs. Barton R. Gebhart, who is forming a Glencoe committee.

At tomorrow's meeting the committee will discuss plans for selling a painting by Rosa Bonheur which Mrs. Rudyerd Boulton presented to the group before moving to Washington. Not less than $450 will be accepted for the painting.

Thru the Looking Glass

Already there are lots of leg makeups and there are more to come. Practically every manufacturer is rustling one up and each is convinced that his is the best possible substitute for hose and deserving of the most praise and publicity.

We have seen quite a few of them, and of those on the market one in particular seems to us a honey. It's a newcomer, but already something of a sensation.

◆

The big feature about this makeup for the legs is that in absolutely miraculous fashion it gives a finish that looks exactly like chiffon stockings. Its finish is not merely like hosiery in color but in TEXTURE—and to our way of thinking that's a real achievement.

Even at the heels and the area around the ankles, where so many leg makeups reveal that that's exactly what they are, this preparation fools the eye. Even when the foot is in motion the film doesn't look like a film; it looks for all the world like sheer chiffon, even to the illusion of fine thread.

◆

This is a liquid, applied with the hands. There's no trick at all to using it. It's in four good hosiery shades. This one is not waterproof; rain will spot it, but you can smooth it out while it's still moist or repair that damage with a little patching. Moderate perspiration doesn't affect it; it does not rub off on clothing, and it's not expensive. If you want the illusion of a seam in the back, eyebrow pencil applied with a steady hand and eye fixes everything.

A great many women, we imagine, felt as we did—that going stockingless on city streets was rather an unattractive business. A good leg makeup such as this one which doesn't in any particular look like a makeup will convert them quickly.

Colored Choir Provides Fine Night of Music

BY CECIL SMITH.

For 21 years J. Wesley Jones and his Metropolitan Church choir have been gladdening the south side with their monthly music festivals. Last night the celebrated conductor and choir moved into Orchestra hall and sang without intermission for more than two and a half hours, to the manifest delight of a capacity audience.

It is a stirring experience to hear these free and vibrant voices, either in the racial strains of Negro spirituals or in choral works from the general repertory. The secret of Mr. Jones' particular skill as a director lies in his ability to attain precision of attack and infectious rhythmic movement without robbing his singers of their inborn gift of spontaneity.

◆

From a concert which was dynamically presented thruout, it is difficult to select the high spots. Two of the most striking moments occurred, however, when Magnolia Lewis, with her wonderfully direct approach to her audience, collaborated with the chorus in the spirituals entitled "My Lord's Gonna Move This Wicked Race" and "In the Hollow of His Hand."

The chorus showed its command of expressive tone in J. W. Work's rather Tschaikowskian setting of Lanier's "A Ballad of Trees and the Master," and raised the roof magnificently, albeit at an unduly ponderous tempo, in "The Heavens Are Telling," from Haydn's "The Creation." Don Malin's sturdy expansion of a Lutheran chorale, "Let's All Together Praise Our God," was also vigorously sung.

◆

Maurice Cooper, tenor, and Clara Bolton, soprano, appeared as guest soloists. In two Handel airs and Felix Borowski's touching "When I Am Dead, My Dearest" Mr. Cooper sang with the utmost taste, and with a flowing and continuous melodic line of unusual beauty. If minor vocal difficulties in the upper register are overlooked, he is an artist of real distinction. Miss Bolton, despite a high voice of exciting concentration, demonstrated less musical maturity.

Many assisting performers contributed to the success of the evening. Frank Palmer, directing the male chorus, showed a gift for conducting, but not much respect of interpretative directness and simplicity. The several participating vocal soloists were C. V. Blackman, E. Bernice Coleman, Mabel Sanford Proctor, Mary Crowley, Foster Delaware, Blanche Hardison, Arthur Logan, and C. Wilbur Hardison. The accompanists, at the piano and organ, were Lowell Derrick, Walter E. Gossette, and Harriette Hammond.

Stage Notes

"His Honor, Father Time," an original play by Clarence M. Shapiro, will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings in the Civic theater by the Uptown players. Under its former title of "Echoes," the play won a national playwriting contest sponsored two years ago by the Federation of Little Theaters. The present production is directed by J. Bradley-Griffin.

◆

"A Child for Sale," the Yiddish comedy which opened a week's engagement at the Studebaker theater last night, will be reviewed in tomorrow's TRIBUNE.

Fashion Has a String Tied to It This Year

BY REA SEEGER.

Only pessimists refuse to believe in the resourcefulness of American designers: One good snooping trip around the shops and stores appraising the summertime collections will prove that nothing is impossible. For instance, you'll be astonished at the objects made of common ordinary string and rope. Hats and bags by Dache, made of putty colored or natural colored string, look like a million on the head and in the hand and completely baffle description. You have to see these beauties before you believe that the raw material was string . . . butcher or grocer's string at that.

◆

Another use for rope besides swings or clothelines is for the soles of play shoes. Rather narrow rope is wound until it has the appearance of swank wedge or platform soles contrasting with brilliantly colored canvas tops, or tops of coarsely woven cottons, such as gunny sacking, printed canvas, and duck twill. Sponge rubber for soles has been cut off by priorities, and altho there are many rubber and sponge rubber soled footgear still available, the supply is limited and not replenishable. The rope soles look twice as smart and are much cooler than the rubber. Oxfords for street wear, sandals, and sneakers for boating boast the 1942 swank of rope soles. Other rope or string merchandise includes belts, hatbands, string cuffs to gloves, lapel ornaments, shopping and knitting bags.

"The Girl Who Stood Alone"

By Roy Vickers

INSTALMENT XX.

HIDEOUT.

"They must be very low men to treat you like that, June," Mrs. Mallen said angrily.

"O, but they aren't! The secret service does awful things—they're really just like gangsters—only it's their duty. I had dinner with Glenday last night."

"I suppose he's a sort of local chief under the war office or whatever it is. He's the man who blackmailed me—a perfectly charming man."

"Is he!" echoed Mrs. Mallen, concealing her surprise.

"Well, I suppose not what everybody would call charming. He's rather forbidding, really. Frightfully authoritative—and then suddenly all boyish and friendly. He knows Devonshire and loves it. I believe he'd commit murder without turning a hair—and give up his life for a friend if it didn't interfere with his duty."

"Indeed! He sounds a remarkable man. And is he very good looking?"

"I don't know," answered June thoughtfully. "I don't think he is—no, he certainly isn't—I can't explain because he's not a bit like any man I've met before."

"I see," said Mrs. Mallen, "and you seem so enthusiastic about Glenday I'm wondering if Ralph Eddis hadn't better start looking for another girl—"

"Maybe he's already looking for one, auntie," cut in June. "After ringing me up several times to make dates and getting only 'business excuses' for answers he is sulking with me now. But as for Glenday, to him I'm just a secret service operator carrying out his orders, I suppose . . ."

"Getting back to us, tho," June went one, "would you rather I cleared out? Apart from the strain for you, I shall be an awful nuisance—never knowing what time I'm coming back—perhaps staying away for days on end. And I shan't be able to tell you what I'm actually doing. I haven't told you the details even now."

Mrs. Mallen took her niece's hand and stroked it.

"Certainly not, dear. You'll need a quiet hide-hole in which to rest. And I shall be able to help you a little—if only by making excuses for your absence."

"O, Aunt Dorothy, you are a darling!" Quite suddenly Secret Service Agent June Clayton burst into tears like an overwrought school girl.

Her aunt soothed her, but it was the telephone bell which made her pull herself together. As she lifted the receiver she was ready for anything.

"Miss Clayton speaking."

"Good!" It was Glenday's voice. "I only wanted to make sure you were back all right. Everything smooth?"

So it was not a strictly personal inquiry.

"Yes—yes, I think so. But it was a near thing over those photographs. I still don't understand—"

"Quite simple. Those were the photographs the police found on Rawlings when they arrested him. From that negative we took a positive and developed it. Then from the positive we took a negative—and let Rawlings develop it. The film was just as if it had been exposed in the camera. I suspect Rawlings took it for granted that he must have muddled the spools."

"I wish you had told me," she said. "I committed myself to all sorts of things. Shall I report now?"

"No. Not on this line. Better keep it till tomorrow. Good night."

"Wait, please. Jacob Ferrer phoned here tonight. I'm sure it was Ferrer because he asked for Miss Glayton. He wanted to know where I was."

"And I want to know where he is," said Glenday. "Indeed, I'm trying hard to find him. Good night!"

Aunt Dorothy was on her way upstairs to bed. June turned off the downstairs lights and followed. As she was getting into bed she heard a distant rumble that might have been thunder. The windows went on rattling for several seconds.

Before she had finished undressing she heard the gong of the Richmond fire brigade, and a minute later, more faintly, another gong and another. When she turned off the light she could see a faint red glow in the sky.

"If it's a fire, it must be a big one—and a long way off—probably at Dornham." There were some new factories there, she remembered. It did not occur to her that the fire could have any personal significance for her. In five minutes she was asleep.

She was awakened by a knocking on the front door. It woke her gradually, for the knocking was soft—three mild taps, a pause, then another three taps.

She turned on the light. A quarter to 3. As she slipped on a dressing gown she heard her aunt moving about.

"I'll see who it is auntie."

"Don't open the door, dear. Speak thru the letter box first."

June spoke thru the letter box and a woman's voice answered.

"You don't know my name, Miss Clayton. I am a friend of Jacob Ferrer's. Will you let me in, please?"

June opened the door and faced a faded wisp of a woman in the early '40s, who looked and spoke like a school mistress.

"You know how difficult it is for Mr. Ferrer to meet you," she said. "He wants you to come with me now. The police don't know me. And I know that I haven't been followed here."

"Wait here." June scampered upstairs to dress.

"It's all right, auntie. I have to go out on business," she said at her aunt's door. "Don't worry about me."

Within 10 minutes the two of them were leaving the house. As they walked toward the town the woman made polite conversation.

"There has been a dreadful explosion at a factory near Dornham. And I'm afraid some people have been killed. At least, so a policeman told me."

"How awful! And there was a fire as well, wasn't there?"

"Yes." Surprisingly, the little school mistressy person omitted a hoarse chuckle. "I expect they packed in a few thermite bombs as well. In here, please, Miss Clayton."

They entered a one time stable yard, in which was a light tradesman's van, the sides painted with a name on a green background.

"Moffatt, Confectioner and Pastry Cook."

"You will understand that Mr. Ferrer does not want you to know his address until you have settled your business. She opened the back of the van. Inside was a wicker armchair.

June got in and flopped into the wicker chair. The woman shut the door and locked it, leaving her in total darkness.

That journey, as nearly as she could calculate, took some 20 minutes. When the door was unlocked she knew that they were in a garden, altho in the dark she could see nothing. The woman took her arm and led her over a gravel path into the house by a kitchen door. A very large house, June judged.

Thru a green baize door into a wide hall where three men were lounging, drinking beer. They made no comment as June and her escort passed them. Then up a wide staircase to a room on the first floor.

"That door, please," said the woman, and left her. June opened the door.

In a drawing room, cut in half by folding doors which were closed, Jacob Ferrer rose from an armchair.

"Miss Glayton, I am very sorry to put you to such inconvenience, but in my circumstances I feel you will forgive me. May I pour you a drink? Or would you rather have some tea?"

"Nothing, thanks," said June. He indicated the armchair opposite and she sat down. "What do you want of me, Mr. Ferrer?"

"I must first thank you for the help you gave me the other evening on Barnes Common. You were most loyal."

This irritated June.

"I don't see what I was being loyal to—and, anyhow, I couldn't help myself," she retorted. "You put me in a very awkward position, Mr. Ferrer, but I suppose you couldn't help yourself, either. Will you please tell me why you have asked me to come here?"

Romeo Blanchette, former chaplain at the famous Lourdes grotto in France, will give a review and commentary on Franz Werfel's "The Song of Bernadette" for the Cathedral Book club at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the auditorium at 19 East Chicago avenue. Werfel was a soldier in the Austrian army who escaped to France when the Nazis took control of his country. According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

The most difficult play to teach beginners [and sometimes better players] is one that requires them to surrender a trick they might be able to shut out. The type of defensive play described in the following hand, for example, altho not at all difficult, is rarely seen in any except expert games.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

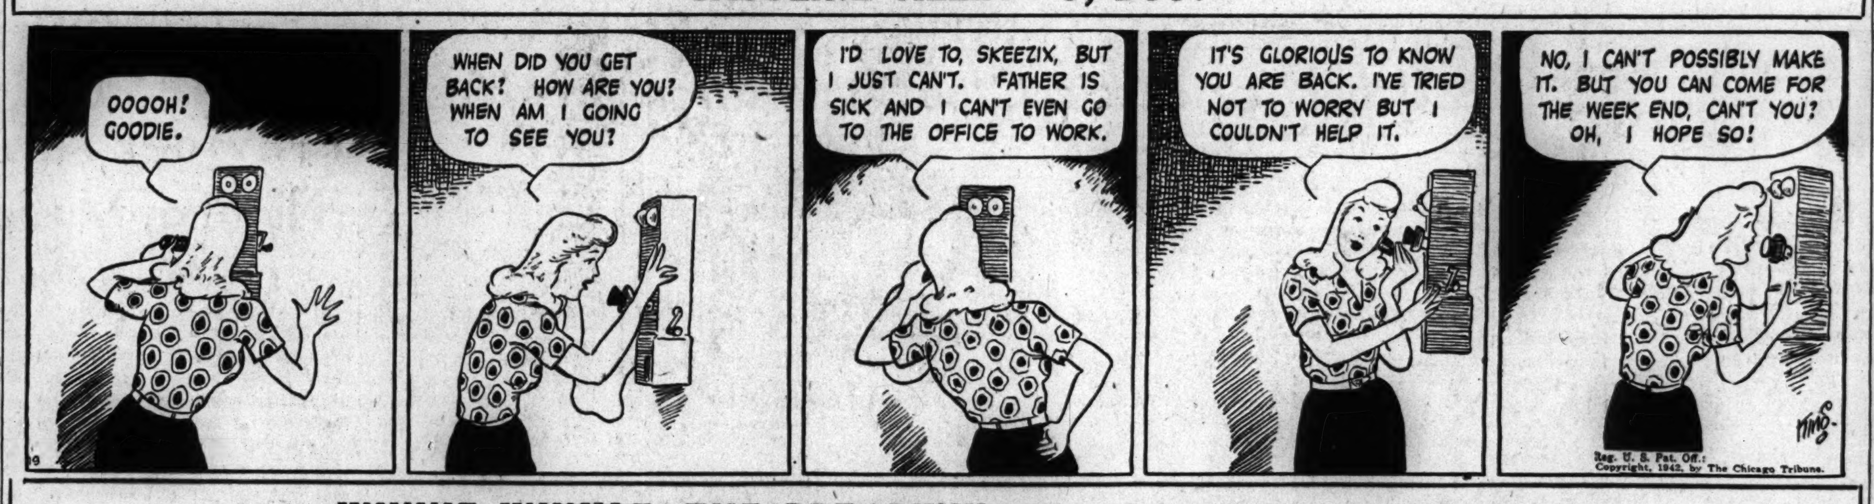
South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Four spades would have been a more logical contract, but let that pass. We are interested in a question of play.

West opened his fourth highest heart. This was won by declarer's jack and a spade was immediately led toward dummy. East captured the spade queen and considered the best return. His partner's suit did not look very promising. Declarer had at least one more stopper in the heart king and West's lead of the deuce meant that, at best, he could have only two heart tricks. It appeared much more probable that the contract could be defeated thru diamond tricks, this hope depending largely on finding West with a spade and/or club stopper. Obviously, it was too much to expect that West held the jack 10 of diamonds, and that on taking the lead with a spade or club, he would lead thru dummy's king, giving East all five diamond tricks. The safer and more constructive plan, by far, was to depend on West for any two diamonds, and stoppers in the black suits. This plan merely involved the immediate concession of a diamond trick to declarer, a concession that would reduce dummy to the king and one diamond [even if declarer could hold the first diamond lead in his own hand] and which would leave East in the excellent position of retaining four diamonds, headed by the ace queen, over dummy's doubleton king.

On this sound analysis, East [upon winning with the spade ace] returned the seven of diamonds, and from that point on, declarer found himself up against a stone wall. Realizing that he could not run the spade suit without surrendering the lead, declarer attempted the club finesse, but this, too, lost to West and a diamond return permitted East to run the diamond suit.

GASOLINE ALLEY—O, BOY!



OOOOH! GOODIE.
WHEN DID YOU GET BACK? HOW ARE YOU? WHEN AM I GOING TO SEE YOU?
I'D LOVE TO, SKEEZIX, BUT I JUST CAN'T. FATHER IS SICK AND I CAN'T EVEN GO TO THE OFFICE TO WORK.
IT'S GLORIOUS TO KNOW YOU ARE BACK. I'VE TRIED NOT TO WORRY BUT I COULDN'T HELP IT.
NO, I CAN'T POSSIBLY MAKE IT. BUT YOU CAN COME FOR THE WEEK END, CAN'T YOU? OH, I HOPE SO!

Have a peanut?

Why not? Peanuts have been proved to be an excellent food, rich in that good for your nerves vitamin B1, or thiamin. They're also rich in oil, which makes them not so good for oily skinned persons, dermatologists tell us. But peanut oil is wholesome, for the most part, and has many cookery uses when extracted from the peanut.

Peanuts are most valuable when they're used as a part of a meal. When snacked upon between meals, they rob us of appetite, and we're likely to overindulge in calories. It takes only 20 peanut kernels to make 100 calories, and you know yourself how hard it is to stop eating peanuts, once you've started!

Yes, we'd better keep peanuts in our meals, where they belong. The peanut crop is a good one, and these beans [they're beans, not true nuts] may have an important rôle to play in wartime menus. Peanut butter is an excellent sandwich spread. Chopped peanuts make "nut loaf," much like a meat loaf, and can go into a few salads without making them too hearty. They also help a great many desserts to taste better.

PEANUT BUTTER SANDWICH SPREADS.

1. Combine peanut butter with grated or ground raw carrots, and use with lettuce on whole wheat bread. Mayonnaise may be added.
2. Spread one slice of buttered bread with peanut butter, the other with jelly, and put together with lettuce.
3. Combine peanut butter or peanut crunch [coarsely ground peanut spread] with chopped pickle and celery, a little salad dressing, whole wheat bread.
4. Season peanut butter with onion juice and chopped stuffed olives and you have a delicious canape spread.
5. Peanut butter and crisp bacon make excellent sandwiches. Use whole slices of bacon, or cut it fine and mix it with the peanut butter.
6. Children sometimes go for peanut butter and sliced banana sandwiches. Adults are more likely to favor peanut butter and sliced, salted cucumber.

PEANUTS IN SALADS.

I don't favor indiscriminate use of peanuts in salads for, after all, a salad should lean to the appetizer side, and peanuts are food, not teaser. But they're good with grated raw carrot and chopped pickle, also add crunchiness to a cabbage slaw, when mixed in last, and may be sprinkled lightly over a fruit salad combination which functions as both salad and dessert.

PEANUTS IN DESSERTS.

1. Use them in cookies or cakes which call for other kinds of nuts.
2. Sprinkle them [chopped] on custards, blanc manges, other bland puddings, or mix them into the pudding itself.
3. Sprinkle on ice cream to make nut sundaes.
4. Serve the whole peanuts with fruit as a dessert course.

On the House

In the task of renovating the walls and ceilings of our rooms these next months it behooves us to consider the effect and values of the colors we use. . . . Colors around us can lift our spirits or weigh them down, but more than that, they can increase or decrease the amount of electricity we use. . . . It may be possible to get quite adequate reading light from a 100 watt bulb if walls are cream or ivory or very light, whereas if walls are blue or red the same amount of wattage might produce eye strain. . . . And as for ivory, this color will reflect some 78 per cent of light, while sky-blue reflects only 35 per cent, bright sage green some 48 per cent, and dark blue-gray only 17 per cent.

Resolution Sets Forth Jewish Postwar Aims

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

An international status for the Jewish people as established at Versailles and accredited Jewish representatives at the coming peace table were among goals sought in a resolution adopted at the war emergency session of the American Jewish congress yesterday at the Sherman hotel.

Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the governing council of the congress, presented the declaration, which also asked that the Jews of Palestine be given the right to organize a military force and that a Jewish commonwealth be established in that country as a basis of the justice and equality of a new world order after the war.

"The great sacrifices the present generation is called upon to make for an enduring peace would be utterly meaningless if a new world order based on equality and justice failed to emerge at the end of the struggle," the preamble to the declaration stated. "In that new world order, the Jewish people, long denied recognition among the peoples of the earth, claim and are entitled to full equality of status and the inalienable right to a free homeland of their own."

The preamble then reviewed the Versailles agreement and the league of nations action in 1922 when international recognition was given "to the historical connection of the Jewish people with Palestine . . . the first formal step in the full emancipation of the Jewish people."

"Since the advent of Adolf Hitler," the preamble continued, "not only have these rights vanished but Jews are being denied their elementary human status. They have become homeless and stateless refugees of the world. They have had to flee from every land touched by Nazi aggressors; those who remained were enslaved."

The four points of the declaration follow:

1. "That the international status of the Jewish people be recognized by the united nations and that in discussions preliminary to peace, the Jewish people be given an opportunity to participate thru their accredited representatives in all matters affecting Jewish interests.
2. "That in these discussions, the equal rights of the Jews in the broadest expression of that term, including their political, economic, cultural, and religious rights, shall be accepted as preliminary to the consideration of the Jewish status in the new world to be created after victory has been won.
3. "That the new world order cannot be established on foundations of peace and equality unless the problem of the homelessness of the Jewish people as a people is solved thru the establishment of Palestine as a Jewish commonwealth.
4. "That without further delay the Jews of Palestine be given the right and opportunity to organize a military force in Palestine of all Jews willing and free to serve, to fight under their own flag in the armies of the united nations in the Near East."

Never have summer rugs been better styled, more attractive than this season. Some of them, indeed, are so good looking that they might be used in informal rooms the year around. Special praise goes to peasant-craft rugs inspired by old Pennsylvania Dutch creations. They are washable and reversible and come in a variety of sizes, up to 9x12. They are distinguished for their artistic colors and their simplicity. Blended and contrasting tones form broad stripes across the width. One of the nicest is carried out in tones of yellow, beige, and brown.

Child Shouldn't Monopolize Family Guests

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We dropped in the other evening on an older relative who had just been calling that afternoon on a neighbor to whom she very much enjoys talking. This relative is very fond of children and knows how to talk to them. "But how I wish I had ignored Mrs. Sheldon's little girl," she said. "She gave no peace all the time I was there. I like Jinny, but it was just too much of a good thing. Her mother and I didn't have any chance to talk, and she did nothing to divert Jinny's attention. In fact, Mrs. Sheldon looked on beaming, and a little fatuous, I thought, as if it was too wonderful that Jinny liked me."

Right after this conversation, I found the following letter in my mail:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Why do so many parents allow children to monopolize a guest? There is a certain flattery in being singled out for favor by a child, but it can be overdone. I don't care to spend a whole week-end playing soldiers with little Bobby or house with little Nancy, with only as much time out for grownup companionship as the child's schedule may permit.

"Yet, in household after household, I find that the tiny tots must be given constant attention if one wants to remain in favor. Occasionally there is a half-hearted 'Don't annoy Aunt Belle, darling' from the mothers; more often they seem relieved to have their offspring taken off their hands temporarily. When we were little my mother told us that when children came to the house it was our job to entertain them, but when adults came we were to remain in the background. Am I just an old meany, or do other people feel the same way?"

Most of us who enjoy children like also to have them like us. And children in a family where there are callers can be, and should be, part of the picture up to a certain point. But when they clamber over and monopolize and make demands on a guest right thru a visit, it's too much of a good thing. It usually means that a child has had a certain kind of spoiling, and is acquiring self-consciousness or "smartness."

Of course, this kind of thing might happen occasionally, especially with some grownups who have an interesting way with children, but any mother whose child has been reared to understand certain courtesies can either directly or indirectly divert her child's interest, or simply send her away to play. In general, such children understand the situation.

As for the parents who act like those described in the letter quoted, well, perhaps merely seeing themselves in print as others see them may provide the cure. For the comfort of their guests, I hope so; and for the lessons in courtesy and considerateness that are due their children, I hope so, too.

Bach's Coffee Opus Lightens Symphony Bill

BY EDWARD BARRY.

"Coffee, coffee, how I love its flavor!" sang Lois Wallner at the Eighth Street theater last night. "Now listen, and your sire obey!" stormed Edward Stack. "In all things except the coffee," promised Miss Wallner. At intervals Kenneth Morrow, as commentator, would heighten the drama of the situation by a few remarks.

These people had not suddenly lost their minds. They were engaged in a performance with the Illinois WPA Symphony orchestra of Bach's "Coffee" cantata, the theme of which is the heartaches of a father whose daughter has an unholy love of coffee. He attempts to break her of her habit [one which was evidently regarded with horror in some quarters in 18th century Germany] by divers threats, but the only one which proves effective is to deprive her of a husband. She finally agrees to give up the beverage, but cunningly lets it be noised about that she will look with favor only on that suitor who guarantees to restore her coffee privileges.

This curious work [part of an all-Bach program presented under Leo Kopp's direction] revealed charmingly the humorous strain in Bach's complex makeup. Much of it has a mock sublimity which suggests that great questions of life and death are about to be considered. Instead it is coffee—nothing but coffee—from beginning to end.

Mr. Stack gave the father's part both dignity and high comedy. Mr. Morrow delivered his recitatives with ringing strength. Miss Wallner, who had had to learn her part on short notice, strove bravely with its enormous difficulties and succeeded in projecting much of the daughter's winsomeness and humor.

Helene Goldenberg and Arthur Tabachnick played the solo parts of the concerto for two violins in a sturdy, spirited manner. Sometimes their phrasing had great nobility and communicative power.

The program also held the aria, "Sheep May Safely Graze," arranged for orchestra by John Barbirolli; the second Brandenburg concerto, and an organ prelude and fugue in G minor arranged for orchestra by Arthur Dunham.

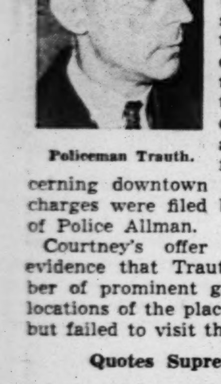
REFUSE EVIDENCE OF GRAND JURY IN POLICE TRIAL

Courtney Offer Is Snubbed by Green.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.



Policeman Trauth.

State's Attorney Courtney's offer of grand jury testimony concerning Policeman Fred L. Trauth was rejected yesterday by the police trial board. Trauth, a former member of the morals division, assigned to the suppression of gambling in the loop, is being tried on charges of neglect of duty and submitting false reports concerning downtown handbooks. The charges were filed by Commissioner of Police Allman.

Courtney's offer was to submit evidence that Trauth knew a number of prominent gamblers and the locations of the places they operated, but failed to visit these addresses.

Quotes Supreme Court.

A typewritten document was offered City Civil Service Commissioners Wendell Green and William Ronan by Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin at the opening of the afternoon session of the Trauth hearing. Commissioner Joseph B. Geary, chairman of the commission, was not present.

On the first page of the document was a quotation from a decision by the Illinois Supreme court stating that grand jury testimony may be disclosed "whenever it becomes material to the administration of justice." The testimony offered was given by Policeman Trauth on Feb. 3 and 4, 1942, when he was a witness before the grand jury investigating gambling. The Courtney document listed downtown handbooks and their owners known to Policeman Trauth as follows:

Lists Gambling Places.

The 316 S. W. club, operating in the vicinity of Wabash avenue and Van Buren street, owned and operated by Con Sullivan and Jimmy [The Cat] Ross.

The 400 club, owned and operated by Frank [Chew Tobacco] Ryan and Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin at 29 West Randolph street or 73-75 West Randolph street.

The Center club, owned and operated by one Jacobs at 225 West Van Buren street or 219 West Van Buren street.

The Turf club, owned and operated by the Fischetti brothers, Charles, Frank, Joe, and Rocco [cousins of Al Capone], at either 229 or 226 South Wabash avenue.

The Turf News owned by Dennis Cooney and operated at 169 West Madison street and 166 West Monroe street.

The La Salle club at 128 West Lake street, operated by one Roty.

The Wabash Stadium, operated at 159, 161, or 163 North Wabash avenue by one Yarrio.

The Your club, operated by Don Perry at 226, 228, or 230 South Wells street.

The Eagle club, operated by Porky Greenberg at 27 South Wabash avenue.

Sustains Policy Indictments.

"We believe this evidence is pertinent to the charges made against Policeman Trauth and for that reason we again ask the commission to admit it at this trial," Prosecutor Austin said to Commissioner Green.

Last week Green, speaking for the whole board, said he could not allow grand jury evidence to be adduced because grand jury evidence is supposed to be secret. He repeated that view yesterday.

Judge John Sbarbaro in Criminal court yesterday denied a motion to quash the indictment against 26 of the so-called kings and queens of policy gambling in Chicago. They are charged with conspiracy and if convicted face a prison sentence of 1 to 5 years. Judge Sbarbaro ordered the defendants to appear for arraignment Thursday, at which time he will set the date for the trial to begin, he said.

FIRED POLICEMAN FILES SUIT TO BE REHIRED BY CITY

A suit that seeks to force the city and the police department to rehire him was filed yesterday in Circuit court by Charles Q. Benton, former patrolman at the Maxwell street station. He says the civil service commission dismissed him Feb. 5 after reviewing charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

The basis of Benton's suit is that the commission is not properly constituted. The bill says the commission has no authority to review cases since, by state law, only two members of any one political party are allowed on the board, whereas the present board is constituted of Democrats. The suit adds the charges were not substantiated by evidence.

EXEMPT MEDICAL SCHOOL STUDENTS FROM ARMY TEST

Students now in medical school who are seeking appointments as second lieutenants in the medical corps of the army will not be required to take physical examinations, Maj. Gen. George Grunert, 6th corps area general, announced yesterday.

Waiving of the physical tests is expected to spur the enrollment of medical students in the army. Those who apply for the commissions will not be ordered to active duty until they have completed their medical school work and internships.

Applicants may register with the dean of the school in which they are enrolled. They must be over 18 years old.

BILL TO CHECK UNION RACKETS GETS APPROVAL

House Group Seeks to Curb Threats.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—A house judiciary subcommittee approved today legislation which would permit prosecution of labor unions under the 1934 anti-racketeering act if they interfered with interstate shipments.

Rep. Sam Hobbs [D., Ala.], who introduced the measure, said he would seek early consideration by the full committee. His bill—which labor union spokesmen vigorously opposed—would permit the prosecution under the 1934 act of any individual or group interfering in any way with interstate shipments.

Check on Union Threats.

It was designed primarily, Hobbs said, to deal with this situation:

Farmers and others have complained that when hauling produce or other merchandise to some large cities they were halted by union men who demanded—in terms implying the threat of violence—that union men be hired to unload their trucks.

The justice department brought charges under the anti-racketeering act against a New York local of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America and 26 individual members. In a 6 to 1 decision last March, the Supreme court ruled, however, that unions could not be prosecuted under the act for activities alleged in the charges.

Broadens Extortion Definition.

Under Hobbs' bill the definition of robbery and extortion would be broadened to include the obtaining of property by "actual or threatened force, or violence, or fear of injury." Persons found guilty of such actions would face a maximum penalty of 20 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Another section would prohibit, under the same penalties, interference with or obstruction of interstate commerce by "physical force or intimidation." This section, Hobbs said, was added at the request of Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation coördinator.

Oppose Curb on Dues.

The sub-committee also recommended that the full committee table a measure to make it illegal to solicit or demand the payment of dues as a consideration for employment on a government financed project.

Introduced by Rep. Lyle H. Boren [D., Okla.], this bill was aimed at the exaction of union initiation fees and dues from workers on some government construction projects. The committee rejected it without comment.

DON'T JOIN WAAC, CATHOLIC WOMEN URGED BY BISHOP

Fall River, Mass., May 18 (AP).—Bishop James E. Cassidy of the Fall River diocese today stood opposed to enlistment of women in the armed forces of the United States.

Attacking the program for a women's auxiliary army corps, Bishop Cassidy told a congregation at confirmation ceremonies in St. Patrick's cathedral yesterday that he hoped no Catholic woman would join the corps.

He said the corps was opposed by teachings and principles of the Catholic church and added he believed religious leaders thruout the country would back his stand.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH MUST BE DEFENDED, GOVERNOR DECLARES

The right of the people to express themselves must be defended, to the death if necessary, in wartime or peacetime, Gov. Dwight Green told members and guests of the Western Railway club last night at the club's 58th annual meeting in Hotel Sherman.

"The government must be vigilant against spending for anything that does not directly help win the war," the governor said. "Pressure groups may try to win appropriations for unnecessary projects, but the taxpayers must be on the alert. There are many such items up now in Washington which are nowhere near border line cases."

Gov. Green said he sees danger in cocksureness of safety in the war. "The middle west is on the timetable of the dictators," he said.

STRANGLES HIS WIFE AND THEN TRIES SUICIDE

Says She Confessed Being Unfaithful.

Mrs. Virginia Stuver.

Mrs. Virginia Stuver, 23 years old and the mother of a 4 year old boy, was found strangled to death last night on the floor beside the bed on which her husband, Allen, lay. He was near death from loss of blood as a result of slashed wrists.

The couple was found by Stuver's mother, sister, and brother-in-law, who went to their apartment over a garage behind 4729 Woodlawn avenue. The child had been with his grandmother.

Police said Stuver, also 23, told them his wife left Friday night with $50 and when he found her later she confessed repeated intimacies with other men. He said he brought her home, killed her, then slashed his wrists and turned on the gas. He said about 6:30 yesterday morning he awoke and turned off the gas, then lapsed again into unconsciousness. He is a layout man for a company manufacturing conveyor machinery.

Allen related the events before and after the killing to police and state's attorney's investigators.

He said that after his wife had admitted misconduct she said she wanted a week in which to think over her future course. He then took the child, Allen Jr., to his mother's. Sunday night, he said, she came back home and said she had been planning to marry one of her admirers, but that he had told her he must break off their affair.

Allen said he then took his wife dancing and she had numerous drinks. He said she flirted constantly with others during the evening and he made up his mind then to kill her. When they returned home and went to bed, he said, he got up and tied her hands with a piece of rope to the bed. Then he began to strangle her, he said.

He insisted he hadn't lost his temper at any stage of the crime and showed no remorse, police said. His only comment was:

"I see another way out, now."

STANTON BLAMED IN NEW DRIVE ON CITY'S HOODLUMS

They'll Be Unwelcome in Taverns and Cafes.

The hoodlums and the tavernkeepers can blame Danny Stanton as the cause of it all. As a result of his seizure in a tavern Saturday night, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan last night announced that he will henceforth recommend the revocation of the licenses of all taverns, cafés, and night clubs in which hoodlums, gamblers, or other known police characters are found.

The chief said he will start with a recommendation to revoke the license of the Rendezvous café at 2314 West 79th street, where Stanton and three others were arrested. As he left his office with Stanton and the other three to take them to the state's attorney's office and before the grand jury, Sullivan ordered Deputy Chief Walter Storms to determine the ownership of the Rendezvous so he can make charges against it.

Places Will Stay Closed.

He said that procedure will continue "from now on." According to the law, he must make his recommendation for revocations to Police Commissioner Allman who in turn will make them to the mayor. When Mayor Kelly acts, the places will be closed and stay closed, unless the courts order their licenses restored.

Questioned by Chief Sullivan during the day, Stanton admitted he was personally acquainted with several Chicago gangsters and union leaders whose murders have never been solved. He disclaimed, however, that he had anything to do with the killings. He shook his head and acted as tho he was sorry about the untoward taking off of James C. Dungan, in 1938, and that of William Schaaf, in 1940, business agents for the painters' union. "It was too bad, too bad," he said.

Held Extra 24 Hours.

Chief Sullivan used the opportunity to question the hoodlum when Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court, on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus sought by Attorney George Crane for Stanton's waiters' union, permitted Sergt. George Barnes of the detective bureau labor detail, to hold him another 24 hours. The same action also gave Sullivan an opportunity to bring him before the grand jury.

In his talk with Sullivan, Stanton refused to go into detail concerning his reputed large income. "Go to the internal revenue office," he said, "it's all a matter of record there."

Did Better as Beer Collector.

The reported czar of a number of local labor unions allegedly told the grand jury that he "did much better in prohibition days as a beer collector," than he's doing now.

Now, he told the jurors, he only bets on the horses by which he makes about $300 a month. He added he formerly made $400 a month recommending customers to gambling houses. James Redden, Louis Dorman, and Charles O'Broderdorf, arrested with Stanton, were reported to have told the jurors they are merely in the gambling racket.

Handwriting specimen No. 1 was that at issue in case yesterday. Specimen No. 2 is that written by Miller Arthur in court yesterday.

King Solomon used a bee. So did Judge Cornelius J. Harrington—a spelling bee. The word Miller Arthur of 1332 Hood avenue missed was "mechanic." Arthur, a mechanic himself, misspelled it the same way it was misspelled in an application for the lease of an apartment in the name of Miller and Judith Arthur. And Arthur's wife is Ola.

Mrs. Arthur was in court with her attorney, Benjamin H. Ehrlich, asking separate maintenance of Arthur, whom she accused of misconduct. Arthur had denied that the application was his. But after he spelled the word as it was spelled in the application, he admitted the application was his.

The judge indicated he would grant Mrs. Arthur the decree and she went home to 4857 Winthrop avenue. Arthur went to jail for 10 days on a contempt of court charge for trying to deceive the judge.

Jury Finds Woman's Death in Bathtub Caused by Radio

Death by electrocution was the coroner's jury's verdict yesterday at the inquest in the death of Mrs. Anna Johnson, 35 years old, 824 Oakton street, Evanston. Mrs. Johnson was found dead in her bathtub Sunday night by her husband, Elmer, a carpenter, after a radio had fallen from a window sill into the water while she was bathing, electrocuting her.

PIG TAILS TAKES OPENING FEATURE AT LINCOLN FIELDS

3 YR. OLD FILLY LEADS THRUOUT BEFORE 8,000

Book Plate, 13 to 1, Finishes Second.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Lincoln Fields opened its race meeting yesterday before 8,000 spectators who sent the Woolford farm entry of Pig Tails and Technician to the post as even money favorites in the main event of the afternoon.

The choice was a happy one, for Jockey Lee Haskell brought Pig Tails home on top in this six furlong dash, a length and a half in advance of the 13 to 1 shot, Book Plate. Meanwhile Technician was placing fourth.

Observers have marvelled for years at the stamina of race fans who have displayed the endurance of Burmese coolies in riding to Chicago tracks season after season in railroad equipment which would be tolerated by no other section of the American public, with the possible exception of suburbanites.

Maybe It'll Be Vorse.

The hearts of even the railway officials were touched yesterday when it became apparent that even the racing public [which will stand for almost anything] didn't have the physical ability to carry on with the type of transportation. Some of the passengers exhibited a cheerful attitude and said it wasn't nearly as bad as the Black Hole of Calcutta must have been. Others were on the verge of prostration. At any rate, the railway officials announced that there would be two trains today. This, of course, might be twice as bad as one train, but the fans probably will try it.

A field of seven went to the post in the main event of the day, which was called the Grand Crossing purse. Pig Tails, a 3 year old filly, had been running very consistently in her earlier starts this season, having been in the money eight out of nine times. She had won her last start at Churchill Downs a little less than two weeks ago. Her stable mate, Technician, a good handicap performer of other seasons, had started only once before this year, finishing fourth during the Churchill Downs meeting.

Holds Lead All the Way.

Pig Tails forged to the front soon after the start, raced easily under some restraint on the turn and had plenty left in reserve to hold Book Plate at a safe distance in the stretch. Meanwhile, Polymelior had come up to take third place, almost getting to Book Plate just before they crossed the line. The prices on the winner were $4.20, $2.60, and $2.20 across the board.

Favorites and second choices were coming in consistently during the opening day's program. Owasse, the 7 to 2 second choice in the second, and King Cotton, second choice in the third race, both won in strong finishes to make up a $31.80 daily double.

Handicap Weights Announced.

Racing Secretary William H. Shelley yesterday announced the weights for the $5,000 Crete handicap, first stake event of the meeting, which will be run on Saturday. Liberty Flight was allotted top weight of 116 pounds among the 31 nominees, at 120 pounds. Smacked, one of the speediest sprinters racing on Chicago tracks last season, drew 116. Miss Dogwood, winner of the Kentucky Oaks, is in at 111. Pig Tails, who tuned up well yesterday for the stake, was 105.

The mutuel handle yesterday totaled $237,832. On opening day last year it was $227,833.

BEN SMITH LEADS BIG TEN GOLFERS; POSTS 146 TOTAL

Michigan Junior and Team Hold 1 Stroke Margins.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Ben Smith.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 18.—Swinging Ben Smith, the amiable young Floridian whose personal architecture is a replica of that of Ray Mangrum, golf's human No. 1 iron, today began the task of restoring the University of Michigan swingers to the power once exercised by those other talented Wolverines, Johnny Fischer and Chuck Kocsis. The 6 foot 145 pound Smith put together rounds of 75 and 71 on his home course for the 146 that gave him the individual lead in the 23d annual Big Ten tournament, and also provided the major ingredient in supplying Michigan with the halfway team advantage at 612.

Going into tomorrow's concluding 36 holes, Benjamin and his associates are going to find the going a touch snug, for in each case they hold their margins by only a single stroke.

A shot back of Smith in the solo department tonight at 147 were Spero Daltas of Minnesota and Jim McCarthy of Illinois' defending team champions. Daltas, a chunky young Gopher of Greek descent, advanced an argument for the left handed school of golfers by scoring a 74 and 73 from the port side. McCarthy, the Lockport redhead who earned his letter as an end on the Illini eleven last autumn, held the 18 hole lead at 73, and after faltering with an outgoing nine of 39 in the afternoon, rallied for a 35, one under par, coming home.

Holmstrom Improves.

Johnny Holmstrom, the Illinois captain who has held the state and Western junior titles, was around the morning eighteen in 76. In the afternoon the tall Rockford lad who has been third in his other two conference efforts, dashed off a tidy 34, two under par for the front side, but settled for a 38 and a 148 on the homeward side. Two Ohio State golfers followed, John Krisko turning in a 76—73—149 and Johnny Lorms, sophomore son of the Columbus Country club professional, contributing a 74—76—150.

The work of Krisko and Lorms projected the Ohioans into second place in the team rankings with 613. Minnesota, which took the first round team position with a 308, against 309 for both Michigan and Ohio State, surrendered a few shots in the afternoon to drop into third place for 36 holes with 619.

Smith, a 21 year old junior from Fort Meyers, Fla., was off on his driving this morning, when he had a 36—39—75, but began to click off the tees in the afternoon, giving himself a 36—35—71.

Jim's 4th 1942 Tourney.

Daltas is a 22 year old native of St. Paul who is studying architecture. McCarthy is remembered as the medalist in the 1940 Western junior. Last spring, the redhead broke his hand in spring football practice and had to pass up golf. This year, illness forced him out of the early dual matches, with the result that this tournament is only his fourth competitive appearance of the season.

The individual scores for the first 36 holes, together with the best foursome totals in the team competition, follow:

MICHIGAN—Ben Smith, 75—71—146; John Leidy, 78—76—154; William Courtright, 77—79—156; David Osler, 79—77—156; Chandler Simonds, 80—80—160. Team total—612.

OHIO STATE—John Krisko, 76—73—149; John Lorms, 74—76—150; Billy Gilbert, 77—76—153; John Steckle, 82—79—161; Ed Reinhard, 85—81—166. Team total—613.

MINNESOTA—Spero Daltas, 74—73—147, Stanley Wronski, 77—79—156; John Wil-

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

SOME afternoon within the next year or so the field announcer at the Polo Grounds may inform the fans that "the battery for the Giants today is Koslowski and Koslowski," altho the pitching half of the pair now is operating for the New Yorkers as Dave Koslo. . . . At Hopkinsville, Ky., where Dave started his professional career three years ago, his brother Herbert was his catcher. . . . Darland Johnston, who went to the University of Michigan from Pittsburgh 10 years ago because he wanted to compete on Coach Matt Mann's swimming team, will receive his degree in chemistry at Ann Arbor on Memorial day. . . . Johnston won the NCAA low board diving title in 1936, his senior year as a regular student. . . . Benny Bass, the oldtime fighter, is a beer salesman in Philadelphia these days and his brother Harry, who also boxed a little and helped Benny train, is a bartender in a suburb of the same city. . . . Harry Bobo, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, whose drive to a title bout with Joe Louis was derailed by Gus Dorazio the other night, hopes to return to college to complete his premedical course this fall. . . . Harry dropped out of school four years ago when his father died. . . . Ken O'Dea, back with the Cardinals after three seasons with the Cubs and as many with the Giants, just now has become the catcher Branch Rickey thought he was when he brought him up. . . . Ken's throwing arm, which handicapped him in his first six years in the majors, now is the talk of the league.

Harold [Ace] Elliott, former pitcher for the Phils, is managing a semipro nine in Mount Clemens, Mich. . . . A half-dozen ex-collegiate boxers from schools scattered across the nation are in the advanced stage of their aviation cadet training at Foster field, Victoria, Tex. . . . The list includes Charley Harrington of the University of Cincinnati; Don Kemendo of Texas A. and M.; Bob Cary, New Mexico Military institute; Chet Kropidlowski, Whitewater [Wis.] Teachers; Will Marshall, Virginia Poly, and Stan Wilson, Sacramento [Cal.] Junior college. . . . Joe Kuhel, who has been the major leagues' foremost prestidigitator for a decade, has a formidable rival in Joe Abreu, Cincinnati's rookie infielder. . . . Lieut. Boze Berger, former Red Sox, White Sox, and Indian, is manager and second baseman of the Fort Myer [Va.] baseball team.

I Wonder Why.

Why do we wait till a person's gone
Before we tell of his worth?
Why do we wait, why not tell him now
He's the finest man on earth?

Why do we wait till a person's gone
To send him flowers galore,
When a single rose would have meant so much
If we'd taken it to his door?

Why do we wait till he cannot hear
The good things that we might say;
Why put it off, why not tell him now
And share in his joy today?

Of course we're busy—that's our excuse—
But why, O why do we wait
To tell a person our love for him
Until it becomes too late?

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 18.—The Dodgers, determined to clean up their 1942 National league pennant affairs without any unnecessary delay, proceeded along that line again today, much to the unhappiness of the seventh place Cubs. The champions saw nothing deceptive in the pitching of little Jake Mooty, piling up enough runs to assure their seventh straight victory while moving into a seven game lead over the Braves and Pirates. The score was 4 to 1.

An added aggravation for the Cubs was the fact that a 37 year old performer—Johnny Allen, the ex-American leaguer—was their conqueror. Aided by a sparkling defense and a dashing running attack in which four stolen bases contributed to the awe of the Chicagoans, the temperamental old right hander turned in a five hit job. The Chicago run came on Clyde McCullough's homer in the last inning.

Cubs Miss Opportunities.

Allen had an unhappy start but it didn't seem to affect him. A single by Stan Hack and Vaughan's error on Len Merullo opened the game. The first of Bill Nicholson's three strikeouts helped Allen to clean up this disturbance. The fourth also started promisingly for the Cubs. Nicholson walked but was doubled on Dom Dallessandro's liner to Bill Herman.

Charley Gilbert enlivened things for a moment in the sixth by opening with a double but Nicholson fanned again. When Peewee Reese scampered into short center to capture Dallessandro's fly, Gilbert was doubled off second.

The next Chicago chance to get a run came when Hack opened the eighth with a double to right. Merullo was thrown out and Gilbert walked. Nicholson whiffed for the third time and Dallessandro flied to Pete Reiser. McCullough hit his homer into the left field seats after two were out in the ninth.

Mooty Gets Hot Reception.

The first few minutes of the Dodgers' opening inning were so turbulent that Mooty seemed destined for an early dismissal. He began by walking Herman. Arky Vaughan immediately drove the first of his pair of doubles against the right field wall, Herman scoring. Mooty rallied quickly enough to set down the next three gentlemen, including Dolph Camilli, on strikes.

Mooty had to fight his way thru

John Rigney Dons Uniform in Navy Today

John Dungan Rigney, Chicago White Sox pitcher, reported to the Great Lakes Naval Training station yesterday morning to complete his enlistment in the navy as a seaman. He later visited the Chicago recruiting office for final orders assigning him to active duty today with other recruits from midwestern cities. He'll get his uniform today.

Rigney, like all recruits sent to Great Lakes, will be taught the fundamentals of seamanship during his period of training. His assignment to the recruit training division will include marching and drilling activities given every seaman.

Rigney said farewell to baseball Sunday when the White Sox defeated the Washington Senators, 4 to 3, in the second half of a double header. He gave up only three hits in his final game. Rigney is a graduate of St. Mel's High school, Chicago, and attended St. Thomas college in St. Paul, Minn.

Considerable attention has been attracted to Rigney, 27 year old right hander; first, because he is a star of one of baseball's best pitching staffs and, secondly, because of the unusual circumstances that have surrounded his contact with the armed services via his River Forest draft board.

Rigney has been with the White Sox since 1937.

In June, 1941, Rigney was rejected for army selective service because of a perforated ear drum. He was classified in 4-F as unfit for any type of military service.

IT'S NO SALE ON DAHLGREN; HE'S A CUB ONCE MORE

St. Louis, Mo., May 18 (AP).—Ellsworth [Babe] Dahlgren, first baseman recently purchased for $10,000 by the St. Louis Browns, has been returned to the Chicago Cubs, Don Barnes, Browns' president, announced tonight.

"We entered into a verbal agreement in which we thought both clubs agreed that if Dahlgren entered the armed service before October 1, the sale would be canceled," the Browns' president stated.

"However, we discovered that in the sale papers filed by the Cubs with the baseball commissioner's office, their version was that the deal would be called off only if Dahlgren was drafted. Many major leaguers in class 1-A are enlisting. If Dahlgren did that we'd be out in the cold. We are calling off the deal right now."

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ever-tryin' Wally Moses bashed a two-run homer with two out in the ninth yesterday in Comiskey Park, same giving the White Sox their third victory in two days over the Washington Senators, 7 to 5, their seventh in a row and a boost out of the American league cellar into a sixth place tie with the Senators.

Rookie Orval Grove, who started the winning streak in St. Louis May 10 as a reliever, went all the way yesterday in his first starting assignment.

There were times after the Sox had taken a 5 to 3 lead in the fifth inning that they seemed to have reverted to their early season fade out habits. But Wally's smash, his second of the season, dissipated all that pessimistic appraisal as the boys left the field chanting, "Bring on them Yanks." The Yanks will be here tomorrow and Thursday.

That Long, Uphill Climb.

Along about the time the Sox had a tabulation of four victories and 18 losses they were in the cellar, 4½ games out of seventh. Here are the second division standings as the Sox look forward to a day of rest today:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	13	20	.394
Chicago	12	19	.387
Washington	12	19	.387
Philadelphia	13	21	.382

The Sox got an opportunity early in the game to display their new found flair for coming from behind. The Senators made two runs in the first inning on Roberto Estalella's single, an error, Bruce Campbell's double and an infield out. The Sox tied it up in the second off Rookie Harlin Cathey with two walks, Mike Tresh's infield single and Moses' single which drove in both runs for the first of his four for the day.

After two were out in the third Mike Chartak tripled and scored on Campbell's single to put the visitors ahead, 3 to 2.

Sox Chase Mr. Cathey.

In the fifth the Sox made three runs and eliminated Cathey. Tresh singled, advanced on Grove's sacrifice, and paused while Moses walked. Luke Appling, bearing down like everything to drive in his first run of the season in his 105th time at bat, had to be content with a fly to Chartak, but Joe Kuhel came thru with a single to right, scoring Tresh with the tying run. Myril Hoag singled to center, scoring Moses, whereupon Don Kolloway singled to right, scoring Kuhel. Bill Zuber, whose one victory this season was at the expense of the Sox, replaced Cathey, and Dario Lodigiani flied to Campbell.

Jim Vernon opened the sixth with a single to left. Bob Kennedy, subbing for Sam West in left, handled the ball perfectly and made a fine peg to second but Appling dropped the ball. Jake Early singled to center, Vernon stopping at third, after which Jim Pofahl singled to center. Vernon scored but Early was sunk at third on Hoag's throw to Lodigiani. José Gomez fouled to Tresh and Zuber fanned.

Senators Tie It.

The run with which the Senators tied the score in the seventh was on the cheap side. Bob Repass walked with one down. He got back to first after Kennedy's spectacular catch of Chartak's short fly near the foul line, then stole second and took third on a wild pitch. He scored on Campbell's infield hit.

From the time he took over with two out in the fifth, Zuber didn't allow a Chicagoan to reach first until Kennedy led off the ninth with a single. Tresh, attempting to sacrifice, forced Kennedy. Grove struck out. Then Moses did his stuff.

ARMY COOLS OFF ON JOE LOUIS' BENEFIT FIGHTS

Jacobs Hears Bad News in Washington.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The army has grown extremely cool toward the idea of Joe Louis defending his heavyweight championship this summer.

In all probability, Pvt. Joe has done his last serious ring fighting until after the war ends. The generals who decide such things have not yet given Promoter Mike Jacobs the bad news, but he received a broad hint when he was here the other day asking around.

The army feels, frankly, that it is time for Louis and all the lesser prizefighters in the armed forces to settle down to their soldiering. There is a war on, and there has been no indication that the nation's morale would be keened up by a heavyweight fight.

What They Plan for Joe.

Louis, they feel, would best utilize his great talent by giving exhibitions in the many training camps over the country, and in between such bouts diligently continuing his training for the battlefield. Joe, in fact, already has been assigned to special services to make him more readily available for exhibition bouts.

The army's frosty attitude is painful to Promoter Jacobs, particularly so since Mike was under the original impression that he and the armed forces had reached a mutual friendship pact during the last winter that would make Pvt. Louis available for a big outdoor fight this summer.

Joe Has Been Generous.

There was the Louis-Buddy Baer engagement at Madison Square Garden of which the entire net receipts went to navy relief. Neither Promoter Jacobs nor Louis drew down a nickel from that one. Then, in March, Joe knocked out Abe Simon in the same ring for the benefit of the army emergency relief fund. That was supposed to have been the clincher.

However, Promoter Jacobs, as he seeks now to match Louis against Bob Pastor in a big, climatic fight for the benefit of everybody—including Louis, Pastor, the army emergency relief fund, and Promoter Jacobs—apparently is about to discover that his understanding with the armed forces was only a beautiful dream.

TORCH GLEAM far back early started up slowly after reaching the stretch and coming with fine belated speed thru the last eighth and rapidly getting to the leaders.

KING COTTON, well up from the start, obtained room on the inside when racing into the lead entering the stretch, opened up a good lead before reaching the last eighth then held it under mild pressure to the end. HIGHSCOPE followed the early pace in hand was forced wide in the turn and held on well in the drive. PIG TAILS, placed under snug reserve after opening up a clear advantage in the opening quarter, swerved before starting to draw out fast when nearing the stretch, continued to hold sway easily to the last sixteenth where she was mildly shaken up. BOOK PLATE, a factor from the start, came to the outside for the drive and closed resolutely. POLYMELIOR, far back to the stretch, moved up steadily thereafter and finished fastest. TECHNICIAN went evenly.

GINGALL took command easily, had o be hustled to hold WEST-HO safe thru the backstretch and around the final turn, drew out in the stretch then weakened but lasted. YOUROFF, kept in hand to the final quarter, made a determined effort under pressure and was wearing down the winner. SIGN worked her way up gradually and closing strongest was rapidly overtaking the leaders.

Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same.

MAN ABOUT TOWN, a forward factor in the early stages, raced up on the inside rounding the final bend, and then came to the outside after being straightened away in the final furlong, got up in the last stride to win narrowly. COMMISSION took command at the start, set all the pace, was drifting out slightly, near the end was unable to hold the winner in the closing drive. MISS BONNIE having good early speed, forced the pace to midway of the final furlong then weakened.

Winner trained by T. Root. Went to post at 5:37⅓. Off at 5:38. Start good from gate. Won ridden out, place driving.

ROYAL BLUE, well up in the early stages, rushed upon the outside rounding the stretch turn, came over on VEILED PROPHET after reaching the final furlong causing the latter to go over on COMMIXION, who was racing on the inside, then under urging, came on to win going away. VEILED PROPHET took command in the first 70 yards, set the pace to the final quarter mile, then weakened slightly when bothered by the winner but was much the best of the others. COMMIXION raced well up thruout, saved all the ground possible rounding the final bend, was forced to take up in the homestretch when in tight quarters.

REVELL PITCHES CRANE INTO LEAD IN WEST SECTION

Stops Austin on One Hit for 5-0 Triumph.

Prep pitchers really bore down yesterday afternoon. Gene Revell pitched Crane into first place in the west section of the Public High School Baseball league by shutting out Austin, 5 to 0, on one hit. Johnny Porvelli banged a home run for Crane in the third inning.

The victory was Crane's 11th in 12 games. Kelvyn Park, which upset Crane last week, is second with 10 triumphs and one loss. Austin is third with 11 victories and two defeats.

Art Anhalt of Washburne almost matched Revell's performance while holding Marshall to two hits in Lincoln park, but Marshall edged out a 1 to 0 triumph when a wild throw by Catcher Frank Pardell allowed Freedjin to score from first base on an attempted steal of second. George Prempas, Marshall pitcher, yielded only three hits.

Charlie Kubik held Tuley to two hits as Wells won, 2 to 1, on Smith field. Scores:

John Harley, Wilder Take Pro-Amateur

John Harley, golf professional at La Grange, teamed up with H. E. Wilder to win the first pro-amateur event of the 1942 season at Shore Acres yesterday with a best ball score of 34—31—65, seven under par.

Tommy Armour of Medinah paired up with a barnstorming amateur from the Pacific coast, Bing Crosby by name, and they finished in a tie for fifth place with 33—34—67.

Armour kept the pair in the running with a 36—35—71 while Bing posted a respectable 38—40—78. Crosby's presence was unheralded and nothing resembling a gallery was on hand to greet him.

Ky Laffoon carried off scoring honors for the day with a 32—36—68, four under par for the 18 hole route. Par figures are 35—37—72. Laffoon paired with Douglas Stuart to tie for second place with a best ball of 31—35—66.

Isaiah Wells, Catholic Youth organization 158 pounder, hammered out a decision over Billy White of Baltimore in the six round semi-windup.

Bobby Root, Cleveland lightweight, and Joe Dupont, Chicago 136 pounder, scored victories in four round preliminary matches. Root conquered Willie Pryor of Peoria, and Dupont beat Eddie Carson of the south side. Carson was floored twice in the fourth.

Bruce Henman, Laporte, Ind., middleweight, knocked out Jack Gregg, also of Peoria, in the second round of an opener set for four rounds.

NIGHT BASEBALL BAN MAY AFFECT ALL-STAR GAMES

New York, May 18 [Special].—The ban on night baseball in New York may cause a shift in plans for the two All-Star games, Ford Frick, National league president, said tonight. The first game is listed as a night game for July 6 in the Polo grounds with the winner to meet an All-Star service team at Cleveland the next night.

Frick said it would be difficult to hold the July 6 game at the Polo grounds in the daytime because some of the players would be in the west on Sunday, July 5. Asked about the suggestion that players might be flown here Frick replied: "You know how difficult it is to get air transportation for nonmilitary purposes."

COLAN RISKS HIS HOPES FOR TITLE IN STADIUM BOUT

Anton Christoforidis Is Foe Tomorrow Night.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Johnny Colan, undefeated in Chicago in seven fights, puts his chance for the world's light heavyweight championship on the line tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium. Colan is matched at 10 rounds with Anton Christoforidis, a tough gent from Cleveland, who himself once held this professional title.

Colan's recently acquired prestige may be tarnished, for the Cleveland Greek is a rugged club fighter who takes punishment for the pleasure of returning it.

Many Like Colan's Chances.

Johnny has come along splendidly so that he is a legitimate contender for the 175 pound crown that belongs to Gus Lesnevich. Many, who have seen Colan knock out six opponents and whip Altus Allen in 10 rounds, believe he can reach his title goal. Some of these Chicagoans, however, think that Christoforidis actually is a more formidable rival and they have indicated by their wagers that Colan will be upset.

Chris did a fine job in beating a favorite last month in Cleveland when he won from Jimmy Reeves, former Golden Gloves champion. His style that night—he has no other—was a persistent attack that keep piling up points regardless of Reeves' sharpshooting.

Won Title from Bettina.

Christoforidis defeated Melio Bettina for the light heavyweight title in January, 1941, in Cleveland. He lost the title to Lesnevich. He has fought twice in Chicago, winning a 10 round decision from Jimmy Burns at the Coliseum and knocking out Tony Burns in 6 rounds in Mills stadium in a match supporting the Billy Soose-Tony Zale fight.

The rematch tomorrow night between Tony Motisi of Chicago's CYO and Harry Teaney of Cleveland at 10 rounds is rated on a par with the Christoforidis-Colan bout. The men fought a 10 round draw in the last Stadium show which had the spectators in an uproar at the end.

Teaney finished training yesterday at Trafton's under the supervision of Johnny Papke, the only manager still able and willing to get into the ring with his fighter and actually show him how it's done.

Craig Learns a Lesson—Match Isn't Over Till Last Putt Drops

[This is the third of a series of articles on golf by Craig Wood of the Winged Foot club of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who last year, at the age of 40, won the Masters' and National Open championships.]

BY CRAIG WOOD.

In my first tournament in the metropolitan area I managed to win the New Jersey PGA championship on my new home course of Forest Hills with a 36 hole score of 141, three strokes under par for the distance. That victory included as fast a start as I ever had made. It consisted of five straight threes—a birdie, birdie, eagle, eagle, and a par. I was playing with the late Johnny Golden at the time, Johnny finishing as runner-up.

In that same year I ran into a little man who was later to give me an unhappy afternoon in the Masters' tournament. That was Gene Sarazen, whom I met in the playoff of the Metropolitan PGA. Yes, I was involved in a few extra inning workouts in those days, too. Of course, I had no idea then that I was to come out on the short end of playoffs for the British, National, and Masters' Opens and the National PGA.

Gene and I met in the playoff for that 1928 Met PGA at Quaker Ridge. He was six up going to the eighth hole. It looked like a runaway, but I got back in the ball game by winning the eighth, ninth, and tenth holes with 3—2—2. I gave up the next to a par, and was four down. I took the 12th and 13th with pars, but three putted the 14th. I won the 15th and halved the next two to lose only two and one. At the time, that comeback gave me a lot of satisfaction in spite of losing.

Meets a Young Man Named Horton Smith.

The need for conditioning my game via the winter tour was still uppermost in my mind, and I started in a small way in the 1925-'26 tour, making the Texas and Hot Springs Opens, and finishing in the money against a couple of fellows who were hitting the ball in those days — MacDonald Smith and Al Watrous. In the fall of 1927 and the winter of 1928, I was assistant at the Allerton club golf school in Chicago.

The following autumn I left on my first full winter tour and won the Oklahoma and Hawaiian Opens, my bid to the latter coming off of my victory in the New Jersey PGA. In the meantime I had become a member of the Professional Golfers' association and, like all pros, wanted to make my mark in that. I tried to qualify for the 1924 and 1925 tournaments, but didn't make the match play grade until the 1929 tournament, held at the Hill Crest club in Los Angeles.

In those days the national PGA was at 36 holes all the way, the same pattern to which it will return at Atlantic City next Monday. I qualified easily, and in the first round drew as my opponent a tall young fellow who was to make them all sit up and take notice that same winter. He was Horton Smith, and he took me to the 37th hole before surrendering. I won my next match from Neil Christian, three and two, and in the third round I felt pretty good for myself when I was three up on Johnny Farrell, then at the top of his game, with only five holes to go.

Abandons Baseball Grip on Diegel's Advice.

That's a match I'll never forget, for it was another experience in my career that proved the value of putting. If you remember, I thought I had my first tournament, the Kentucky Open, won until Bob Peebles came home with 12 putts for the last nine. Here I was with a comfortable three hole edge on Farrell and with no suspicion that he was about to put on one of the greatest putting shows I ever saw. He finished with birdies on five of the last six greens, including the decisive 37th, where I lost, one up.

Two men who helped me a great deal at this time were Leo Diegel and Bill Mehlhorn. I was playing with what amounted to a baseball grip, playing with my right shoulder dropped considerably. Leo changed my grip so that I could see only three knuckles on the right hand instead of four, with the right hand so much more on top that it was pointing the V more up the shaft.

YANKS IN TOWN TOMORROW FOR SERIES WITH SOX

Smith, Dietrich to Face World Champions.

The Yankees will be at Comiskey park tomorrow and Thursday and they will find the White Sox unafraid, even confident.

Almost everybody on the team is certain Bill Dietrich and Eddie Smith are in conquering mood. Dietrich should win because he has won more games than any other Sox pitcher now that Johnny Rigney has gone into the navy, the total being three out of six.

Smith is a virtual cinch because he's sure to win his first game some time and it might as well be from the Yanks.

Dietrich and Smith both pitched against the Yanks in New York, but the big crowd of 68,394 may have made them a bit self-conscious. In any event Smith lost, 6 to 4, to Red Ruffing in the first game and Dietrich dropped the second game to Atley Donald, 3 to 1. Of course, those games were played in the days when the Sox were fabricating an eastern trip of nine losses and one victory.

Last year Smith won two and lost four in competition with the Yanks. Dietrich didn't have a decision either way with the New Yorkers.

During his career Smith has defeated the Yanks a dozen times against 20 defeats. Dietrich has triumphed twice over the New Yorkers and lost 11. Many of the losses were sustained when Smitty and Bill were with the Athletics.

WHEATON STAR HURLS DISCUS TO NEW PREP MARK

Phil Durant, Wheaton High school discus thrower, was rankled yesterday when he trotted out for a dual meet with Glenbard.

Saturday, at the state prep meet, Durant took second with a toss of 149 feet 9½ inches. Paul Behan of Crystal Lake won with a record throw of 154 feet 6¾ inches.

So Durant wound up and let fly today. The distance was 155 feet 3 inches, almost nine inches more than the state record.

Durant won the discus and shotput for a total of 10 points as Wheaton whipped Glenbard, 77 to 36.

FELLER TO PITCH FOR DEAN'S NINE IN GAME SUNDAY

Bob Feller, former Cleveland Indian pitcher, has accepted an invitation to play with the Dizzy Dean All-Stars against the Kansas City Monarchs baseball nine in Wrigley field Sunday.

Feller, a chief petty officer in the navy and now stationed at Newport, R. I., telephoned officials of the game here that he had received permission to participate in the game.

more complications in the next two innings. Johnny Rizzo walked to open the second and Nicholson assisted nobly by making a one handed catch of Mickey Owen's low liner. Mooty tossed out Reese and, altho Allen singled, Russell was able to slap down the hit, a feat which kept Rizzo from scoring. Herman then tapped to Mooty.

Vaughan Again Doubles.

Reese arranged for Vaughan's second assault by leading off in the fourth with a single to left, moving to second immediately on Allen's bunt. Nicholson took care of a rakish liner off Herman's bat. Then the ex-Pirate shortstop nicked the right field wall again but the ball came down in time for Nicholson to hold Arky to a double, Reese scoring.

Owen started the Dodgers' two run sixth with a single which bounced past Hack. Owen stole second before getting a quick ride home on Reese's double to right. Allen tried to bunt Reese to third but popped out. Then Reese stole the base, a maneuver which was followed by Mooty's wild pitch. This gave Peewee time to reach the plate with the last Dodger run.

EAVES SENT HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 18.—Vallie Eaves, the Cherokee pitcher who left the White Sox very suddenly a couple of years ago and was acquired by the Cubs last season, is on his way back to Chicago. The reason: Manager Jimmy Wilson discovered before Sunday's double-header with the Dodgers that the Chief had overindulged and was in no condition to take part in the afternoon's chores. Wilson has had him ticketed for some minor league spot but hasn't been able to find the spot.

Bill Lee will give his 5 and 1 record its Brooklyn unveiling tomorrow when the Cubs take on the Dodgers in the final of the four game series. Curt Davis may start for the champions.

Hero.

Men hailed your courage, bowed and called you brave,
Stood by your bier, and few words had to say;
Then left you to your dreams in that far grave,
To carry on where you left off that day;
Wrapped in a cloak of silence, while the skies
Are rent apart by fury, sound, and flame,
What dreams are born beyond your sightless eyes?
Are they rapt dreams of home or hero's fame?
For you were born to laugh, to love, and live,
And build a peaceful world your very own,
Where men were friends whose faults you could forgive,
Where judgment was reserved for God alone.

That is the world you once knew—and you died
That in time to come that same world will abide.

COURT UPHOLDS 'FRIENDLY' SUITS FOR BACK TAXES

First Ruling on County's Levy Collection Plan.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Cook county's practice of holding "friendly" tax foreclosure sales whereby millions of dollars of back taxes have been compromised for less than the amounts owed was upheld in an Illinois Supreme court decision received in Chicago yesterday.

The ruling was the first pronouncement by the high court on the tax foreclosure plan which was inaugurated in 1939 by State's Attorney Courtney. Under the plan owners of more than 4,000 properties have cleaned up $24,253,425 in delinquent taxes plus 7¼ million dollars in penalties by paying $17,349,213, which is 72 per cent of the principal and 55 per cent of the total due, including penalties.

Asked for Foreclosure Suits.

The owners asked the county to bring tax foreclosure suits and agreed to bid at the foreclosure sales certain amounts, usually 70 to 75 per cent of the principal due. If the bids were deemed reasonable by the state's attorney, suits were started, and if no higher bids were made the taxes were cleaned up for the amount of the guaranteed bids.

Courtney discontinued the practice two months ago after Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in Circuit court denounced it as placing a premium on nonpayment of current taxes.

The county board, however, voted to continue the friendly foreclosures under its jurisdiction and is currently carrying on the program.

Contended Sale Illegal.

Yesterday's decision involved a taxpayer's suit brought by Attorney Charles Liebman, who contended that a tax foreclosure sale confirmed Feb. 3, 1941, by the Circuit court on a property in Proviso township was illegal. Taxes and penalties of $16,245 dating back to 1931 were overdue, and a foreclosure suit was started after a bid of $5,500 had been guaranteed. When there were no higher offers, the court approved the sale at $5,500, wiping out the entire amount of unpaid taxes and penalties.

Liebman contended that a deficiency judgment should have been entered against the property owner for the remainder of the $16,245, that the state's attorney and the county board should not have consented to the sale, but that they should have investigated the value of the property and directed the county to bid it in for the amount of unpaid taxes.

Liebman asked that all parties to the sale be held guilty of fraud and conspiracy and be made personally liable to make up the alleged loss in tax revenue.

The high court said the suit failed to present any theory under which the parties were liable for the tax balance.

"There is no claim made that any one agreed to do more than have the necessary public authorities bring a proceeding according to law to sell the property at tax foreclosure," the court held. "There was no agreement to suppress bidding, or to do anything that would hinder any interested party from attending the sale and paying any amount that the value of the property and the risks contingent upon a tax purchase would justify."

Met Law Requirements.

"All of the requirements of law were followed and the duty of the state's attorney in this respect scrupulously observed."

The court said that there is no law requiring the state's attorney to go out and investigate the value of each property involved in a tax foreclosure and that the county board is not obligated to bid in any property where other bids are less than the taxes due.

Commissioner Daniel Ryan, chairman of the county board's tax foreclosure committee, said the decision simply affirms the county's powers to continue the voluntary tax foreclosure suits.

STUDENT PILOT MAKES PERFECT FORCED LANDING

Frank Vrhel, 21 years old, of 2308 South Lombard avenue, who holds a student pilot's license, early last evening made a perfect forced landing after his airplane developed engine trouble above the intersection of Joliet and La Grange roads, three miles south of La Grange. He landed in a field about a mile from his hangar at Stimson airport and tied up traffic on the highway for about 15 minutes while county highway police piloted him, moving automobiles around his plane, back to the airport.

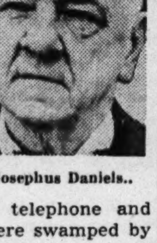
Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy and former ambassador to Mexico, now back in harness as a full time, shirtsleeve editor of his newspaper, the Raleigh News and Observer, spent the day working while local telephone and telegraph facilities were swamped by greetings and remembrances pouring in from high and low.



Josephus Daniels..

The veteran diplomat and cabinet member took the occasion to predict that the end of the present war, when it occurs, will be a sudden one. He bolstered his point with a previously untold incident of the first World war, revealing that in early October, 1918, less than six weeks before the armistice, the British admiralty was urgently seeking United States help to deal with an expected German U-boat offensive in the spring of 1919.

Plead for American Aid.

So certain were the British that the Germans were ready to unleash a terrific U-boat campaign that Sir Eric Campbell Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, made a special trip to Washington with half a dozen high ranking naval officials to impart the information to American officials, Daniels said. The British regarded the information so important that it could only be communicated in person.

Daniels said the visiting Britishers were received by him at his Wyoming avenue residence on the night of their arrival. Others present to hear Sir Eric's startling news were Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, and Admiral Benson, chief of operations. Until early the next morning this conference continued, Sir Eric insisting that the rapid construction of destroyers and other craft was necessary to meet the coming onslaught.

Start Building Program.

The following day, Daniels said, he received a confidential report from the American ambassador in Paris, William G. Sharp, stating that the war would be over in 60 days. In spite of general respect for Sharp's judgment and his sources of information, President Wilson decided the British warning could not be ignored. A tremendous shipbuilding program was at once prepared.

Daniels declared he told the story now to illustrate how unexpectedly the end of a war may arrive. Ambassador Sharp died in 1922 and Sir Eric in 1937.

Among the birthday messages piled up on Daniels' desk were greetings from President Roosevelt, Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, President Avila Camacho of Mexico, former Mexican President Abelardo Rodriques, and Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequal Padillo.

On Daniels' newspaper littered desk were two large vases of roses, gifts from the news and composing room staffs of the newspaper he has owned since 1894 and brought from a circulation of 2,000 to more than 70,000 in a city of 50,000 persons.

EXPERT SCOFFS AT BREAKDOWNS IN 50 HOUR WEEK

Psychiatrist Never Saw Such a Case.

Boston, Mass., May 18 (AP).—Belief that the 50 hour week will cause nervous breakdowns was challenged today by the president elect of the American Psychiatric association, Dr. Arthur H. Ruggles, of Providence, R. I.

The association began its annual meeting today with about 2,000 physicians in attendance, many of them army and navy officers whose main job is to guard the mental health of armed forces.

"For the past 30 years," said Dr. Ruggles, "I have been looking for a case of a mental breakdown caused by overwork or overstudy, and I have yet to find one."

Always Contributing Factor.

He explained that many cases are seen where the mental or nervous breakdown is due to combining hard work with too much alcohol, too little sleep, insufficient diet, unwholesome working conditions, and especially worry about work.

"As far as I know," he declared, "there is no scientific evidence to show that a 40 hour week is better for mental health than a 50 hour week. Yet, for the past decade we have heard almost nothing about the dignity and value of a long week's work.

"In the present emergency should we not give consideration to the potential value not only of the production program but also the effect upon the health of our citizens of a longer working week?"

Sees Fewer Disabilities.

Dr. Ruggles predicted that due to medical advances the 30 per cent of disabilities in our armed forces in the World war from nervous and mental troubles, can be cut in this war to 15 or 20 per cent. The cost of that 30 per cent in the World war he said already has passed one billion dollars, with 34,000 of these veterans still in mental institutions.

He predicted an increase in juvenile crime and delinquency, unless intelligent measures are taken to supervise children whose fathers are at war while their mothers work. In other countries he said the all out war effort has raised juvenile delinquency more than 100 per cent.

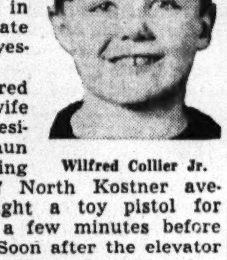
BOY OF 6 IS INJURED IN FALL OF 22 FEET FROM ELEVATOR CAR

Wilfred Collier Jr., 6 years old, 3830 North Kostner avenue, fractured an arm, a leg, and perhaps his skull yesterday when he fell 22 feet from an elevator car to the bottom of the shaft in Goldblatt's State street store yesterday.



Wilfred Collier Jr.

Mrs. Wilfred Collier Sr., wife of the vice president of the Braun Manufacturing company, 1657 North Kostner avenue, had bought a toy pistol for her son only a few minutes before the accident. Soon after the elevator car left the first floor the boy dropped the pistol, which fell thru the opening between the lift and the shaft. Wilfred reached for it and also fell thru.

Miss Lorraine Johnson, 829 South Western avenue, operator of the car, stopped it and grasped the boy by his foot. At this moment the boy's mother fainted and fell against Miss Johnson, causing her to lose her grip on the boy, and he plunged to the bottom.

UNION HARANGUE SHUTS OFF WORK IN A WAR PLANT

Power was shut down and all work ceased yesterday afternoon in the plant of the Bi-Metalic company, 1760 Diversey boulevard, where war contracts are being fulfilled, while five men suddenly appeared and loudly called all the workers to listen to a union harangue. The plant has 70 workers.

Carl Lieber, 26 years old, 1862 South Millard avenue, told the workers he was there to organize them for Local 758 of the United Automobile Workers. While he spoke Henry Nawrocki, 35, 5058 Henderson avenue; Peter Forstner, 29, 1346 Walton street; Joseph Bartnicki, 25, 2323 Shakespeare avenue, and Harry Desecki, 26, 2066 North Hoyne avenue, stood by and shouted approval of his remarks.

Elliott Clemence, president of the concern, ordered them out. He said he was for a closed shop, but disliked their procedure. They refused to go. Capt. John Howe and Lieut. John O'Malley of the Shakespeare avenue station then went there with four squads and arrested the men. They were charged with disorderly conduct. Municipal Judge Quilici released all except Desecki, who was to be further investigated, on their own recognizance.

LOOT FLAT OF BONDS, OLD COINS.

AAA PLANS NEW FARM SUBSIDY TO RULE OUTPUT

Seeks Increased Oil Crop Plantings.

Government agricultural officials yesterday at a meeting in the Morrison hotel sounded out regional directors from thruout the country on a proposed new plan for controling farm production—a plan so drastic that its adoption would scrap much of the present farm program, they explained.

Fred S. Wallace.

Before regional directors and chairmen of the Agricultural Adjustment administration from each of the 48 states, Fred S. Wallace, AAA administrator, proposed a new farm program whereby farmers would be paid subsidies merely to plant certain crops. They would be paid whether the crop was harvested or not. He indicated that the plan, if acceptable to those attending the meeting, would be put into effect shortly.

Would End Conservation.

The payments would be in the form of "incentives" to induce farmers to plant crops required to win the war. Department of agriculture representatives said the plan means the abandonment of the present soil conservation program whereby farmers are paid for not planting certain acreages.

Subsidies would be based on present federal crop loan rates. They would be sufficiently high, it was said, to assure the farmer that he will not lose money in shifting crops.

They indicated that it would be employed to a wide extent in areas where vital oil crops, such as soy beans, flax, and peanuts, could be produced. The payments might be used to step up production of peas, tomatoes, and sugar beets, and other major food crops.

Flax an Uncertain Crop.

The officials explained that instead of a farmer being paid $2 an acre to take wheat land out of production, he would receive a sum, not yet determined, to plant flax.

Because flax is an uncertain producer, the department officials said farmers have shied away from planting it as long as they know they can obtain equally as good returns from wheat, corn, or other grains. Under the new plan, the incentive payment would be so high that the farmer would feel he could not afford not to plant the crop desired by the AAA.

Wallace told the meeting that it was too early to write out all the details of the 1943 crop production program but that it must be planned well ahead. He said that this year the farmers had been asked to increase production of soy beans 71 per cent; peanuts, 60 per cent; peas, 32 per cent; tomatoes, 27 per cent; sugar beets, 24 per cent, and flaxseed, 20 per cent.

Only One Nation Capable.

"There is only one country in the world that can supply the food and raw materials needed in our fight for freedom—and that country is the United States of America," Wallace said. "And there is only one group in the United States who can supply these foods and fibers and oils—that's us—the American farmers.

"This year some farmers are short of labor, machinery, and farm supplies. Next year the pinch will be worse. In some places, we are even going to be short of enough good land to do the job.

"All that means that we are not going to be able to waste any land—any labor—or any machinery if we are going to produce the food and the fibers and the oil crops needed to fight this war."

Payments Give It Power.

Wallace outlined the power of the AAA to control farm production. Much of its power, he said, is in its "conservation" payments.

"If we are to be realistic, I think we must ask ourselves: 'Are we using our payments to obtain the greatest possible increase of the things urgently needed for this war?'" Wallace said.

"The principal job for next year," said Edward White, Wallace's assistant, "is to produce the things we need badly in the right amounts and in the right places."

TAYLOR SAYS CURBS ON TRADE, FINANCE MUST END WITH WAR

New York, May 18 (AP).—Undersecretary of Commerce Wayne C. Taylor said today that in the peace following the war any restrictive concepts of finance or trade which stands in the way of full development of production, employment and maximum national income "will be brushed aside."

The future development of natural resources or functions such as transportation and communications will be permitted, however, only when the federal government is certain that "the public interest is protected at all times," he told a world trade luncheon gathering here.

"Domination by a master race, a master nation or a master class within a nation is untenable," Taylor declared. "That is what this war is about. That is what we are fighting against. We are fighting for the good neighbor policy—a system of international organization and understanding under which agreements on foreign trade will not be reached merely because one nation is strong and one nation is weak."

Ceiling, Floor Set on Canned Vegetable Sale

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The Office of Price administration and the department of agriculture collaborated today in announcing a ceiling and a floor for prices of 1942 crop canned vegetables.

The dual-purpose price actions, officials said, would protect consumers from unwarranted increases and protect the canner by guaranteeing him a price of 92 per cent of the OPA-prescribed maximum.

Thru a government purchase program for lend-lease and other use, the department expects to encourage a canner to contract for all the vegetables that producers in his area can deliver.

Support Items Listed.

The vegetables to be supported are asparagus, lima beans, snap beans, beets, sweet corn, carrots, peas, spinach, pumpkins, squash, tomatoes, and tomato juice.

OPA also announced that similar price regulation on canned fruits could be expected to follow "in short order."

The formula for figuring canners' prices is based on the average price charged by each canner for sales made during the first 60 days of the 1941 pack. To this he may add 8 per cent to cover increased cost of labor, supplies, containers, and the like, plus actual increases in the cost of raw produce for the 1942 pack over the 1941 pack. Such raw materials increases shall not exceed, however, the advances in cost as of May 4, 1942.

Old Pack Ceiling Unchanged.

The formula applies only at the canner's level and only to canned vegetables packed in 1942. Ceilings for the 1941 packs and those of prior years will continue to be the highest prices prevailing in March, as prescribed by the universal price order.

The department of agriculture stipulated that its guaranteed prices to canners in any area would in no cases exceed 95 per cent of the average ceiling price in that area. This was designed to protect the government from excessive payments to high-cost canners.

YOUNG SELECTS COMMITTEE TO PUSH BOND SALES

Clifford S. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, yesterday appointed 18 widely known commercial and investment bankers of the bank's five state area as members of a committee created to stimulate the sale of government bonds.

The group's primary aim will be to encourage the sale to large investors of regular government bonds, leaving to other organizations the stimulation of interest in war savings bonds and stamps to persons of average means.

The committee, with Young as chairman, includes these Chicagoans: Walter J. Cummings, Edward E. Brown, Solomon A. Smith, Howard W. Fenton, Philip R. Clarke, Lawrence F. Stern, Harold L. Stuart, Edward B. Hall, Francis F. Patton, Charles F. Glore, Paul H. Davis, and Jay N. Whipple.

PAPER SALVAGE EXCEEDS NEEDS, SAY BOX MAKERS

The American people have done such a good job of saving waste paper that manufacturers attending the convention of the National Paper Box Manufactures association in the Drake hotel reported yesterday there is an overabundance of supplies. However, they said, the public should continue to save paper.

C. W. Reiber, president, said in his address to the convention that the curtailment of production of many civilian items normally packed in boxes, both for retailing and shipping has cut box manufactures' sales sharply.

Other speakers said supplies of paper board and boxes were ample for all requirements in sight. They said there would be plenty of boxes for civilian use at Christmas this year.

DEMAND FOR BIG BILLS DECLINING

Smaller Denominations, Coins Show Gains.

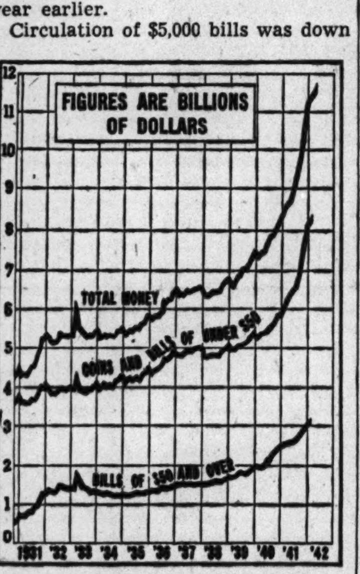
The demand for $10,000 and $5,000 bills has dropped in the last year, but most denominations of other bills and of coins have shared in the rise of total money in circulation, according to the federal reserve board.

On April 30 total money in circulation was $11,765,711,286, compared with 9 billion 71 million a year earlier. Complete figures on circulation of each type of currency for months later than February are not yet available.

Use Fewer Big Bills.

The February figures, published by the reserve board, show that $10,000 bills totaling 33 million dollars were in circulation at the end of February, compared with 55 million dollars a year earlier.

Circulation of $5,000 bills was down to 21 million dollars, compared with 24 millions. The large bills were in demand in the first half of 1941 for hoarding, bankers said at that time.



The chart shows the trend of circulation of money in United States in recent years.

Coin Use Shows Gain.

Total circulation of money on Feb. 28 was 11 billion 485 million. The circulation of all coins and of all denominations of bills from $1 to $1,000 showed large gains as compared with a year earlier.

At the end of February, circulation of coins and bills of less than $50 denomination totaled 8 billion 326 million dollars, against 6 billion 243 million a year earlier. Bills of $50 or larger had a total circulation of 3 billion 163 millions, against 2 billion 541 million a year earlier.

RESULTS OF EAST COAST FUEL OIL CAMPAIGN TOLD

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes announced today that east coast fuel oil consumers who have voluntarily converted to coal and other fuels are saving heavy fuel oil at the rate of more than 13,500,000 barrels annually.

Ickes said the total savings was an increase of 2,700,000 barrels since May 4 and that 368 concerns have joined the conservation program. Deputy Coördinator Ralph K. Davies estimated that probably another 15 million barrels a year could ultimately be saved by further conversions.

Federal Debt Up 2.7 Billions in Half Month to New Record

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The government debt mounted $2,785,505,341 to a new record of $73,434,700,147 in the first half of May. One of the largest increases in any similar period in the treasury's history, the new debt figure reflected speeded up borrowing to pay for war costs. A year ago the federal debt was $54,039,612,725.

Principal factors in the debt jump were the sale of 1¼ billion dollars of 2 per cent 7 to 9 year bonds, approximately 920 million of 2½ per cent 20 to 25 year bonds, $317,868,779 of war bonds, about 100 million of short term treasury bills [in excess of the amount of bills paid off in this period], and 100 million of tax notes.

Thru the sale of more war bonds and treasury bills, the debt may rise another 500 million this month, and in June the treasury has another 2 billion 800 million of financing planned, including sale of war bonds.

The debt figures include both the direct debts of the treasury and government corporation securities guaranteed by the treasury.

In the first 10½ months of the fiscal year, which will end June 30, the treasury has spent $26,031,969,073, including $20,406,491,139 for war, and collected $10,026,430,572 in taxes. This left a deficit of $16,005,538,501, which has been made up thru borrowing.

Plan War Distress Unit

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—Legislation authorizing creation of a "war distress finance corporation" to deal with business distressed or financial hardship cases attributable to the war was introduced today by Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] for himself and Senator Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.]. The new agency would be a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, with a capital of a half billion dollars. The new corporation would be authorized to refinance obligations on homes or businesses, or other obligations which were in default as a result of the war program.

LAKE SHIPS RUN NEAR CAPACITY, BUT MANY SAILORS WANT JOBS

All the Great Lakes boats that are fit for service, about 400, are plying the lakes now as a result of the wartime need for transportation, but many sailors are looking for jobs in Chicago and all the lake ports, shippers said yesterday.

They said the reason for the oversupply is the influx of salt water sailors from the east and west coasts, where war conditions have made the life of seafaring men perilous. The men also have been lured from salt water to the lakes by higher base wages.

Pay ranges from $121 to $159 a month and keep, according to the Lake Carriers' association, which is made up of ship owners. Lake sailors receive in addition a 10 per cent bonus if they remain with the same employer for a full season. This, members of the association said, is more than sailors earn on the ocean.

The association representatives said that 12,000 officers and men are working on the lake boats, which are carrying 3 million tons of freight a week.

Air Mail Volume Gains 36 Per Cent in Chicago

Air mail out of Chicago in April gained 36 per cent over a year ago, C. P. Graddick, director of express-mail-freight for United Air Lines, said yesterday.

REPORTS APRIL TANK RATE TOPS ALL WORLD WAR

New York, May 18 (AP).—W. H. Harrison, WPB production director, said today that more tanks were produced in the United States last month than in the entire period of the World war. He did not give the comparable figures.

"Production is reasonably abreast of schedules," he told a war production clinic, sponsored by the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce. "I can think of no greater crime which any war plant could commit than the crime of consciously or unconsciously not doing its level best with the tools and machinery available, simply because some supplies, some priority preference on critical demand elsewhere, created some uncertainty as to the future."

DEPOSIT OF OLD RUBBER STAMPS FOR WAR ASKED

E. Y. Horder, president of Horder's, Inc., stationer, yesterday announced a campaign to convert discarded rubber stamps accumulated in business offices into self-sealing airplane gasoline tanks and other war products.

He said the company has volunteered to become a collection agency for scrap rubber of any type, invited the deposit of rubber at company offices at 231 South Jefferson street or any Horder store, and said proceeds of the sale of the material will be added to the company's USO contribution.

SHIP DELIVERY MOVES TOWARD WORLD RECORD

3 a Day Launchings Expected by Fall.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—A grim report that "the losses of American flag vessels are already larger than in the whole last war" was brightened today by an official assurance that new merchant ships would be coming down the ways at the rate of three a day this fall.

The good news and bad in the battle of ship construction against the blast of submarine torpedoes was released as the house appropriations committee approved a $210,000,000 increase in the government's fund for writing insurance of merchant ships, their crews, and cargoes.

With a description of shipping as "the great problem in the conduct of this war," the committee informed congress that "at the rate losses are occurring, the fund is estimated to be liable for a little more than a ship a day."

Plan to Produce 800.

The other side of the story came in a transcript of Rear Adm. Emory S. Land's testimony before the committee. Declaring that he was counting on construction of 800 new merchantmen this year, Land, chief of the War Shipping administration, reported that 36 ships were delivered in April and that he "confidently" expected delivery this month of "50-plus."

"That, gentlemen," declared Land, "is the world's record, in anybody's country, and for all time."

He expressed hope that ship deliveries at the rate of two a day by June, and added "we confidently expect to be up to three a day, or better, two or three months later than that, and continue on."

Steel Key to Situation.

"Next year," he said, "if we get our steel, we will meet the 15 million ton mark [the goal set by President Roosevelt] and, in my judgment, based on facts, we have enough capacity in shipyards, shipways, men and everything connected thereto, given the steel, to do between 75 and 20 million tons next year.

"If we get the steel, we will do it. The shipbuilding program is on schedule, despite all the commentaries to the contrary."

In urging swift approval of the pending appropriation, he gave congress information that the submarine attacks had taken a toll of "close to a thousand" lives among the hardy, death defying men who man the merchant fleet.

"In view of the courage it takes the tremendous hardships these merchant marines are going thru and the lives they are losing—close to a thousand—I would hate to see any of their insurance held to the end of the fiscal year."

CHICAGO OFFICE OF WPB NAMES 2 NEW OFFICIALS

Appointment of two men to positions in the Chicago regional WPB office were announced yesterday. Joseph L. Overlock, regional director, announced the appointment of Frank Ellis as regional compliance chief. Ellis is vice president in charge of sales and branches for the William Wrigley Jr. company.

Edmund H. Eitel, Chicago district manager of the priorities division, WPB, announced the appointment of C. H. Sundberg as assistant district manager. Sundberg, a native of Sterling, Ill., has been engaged in business research and market analysis work for manufacturing concerns.

28,000 Trucks Are Sold Thru Rations Plan

H. H. Kelly, chief of the allocation section, motor transport division of the Office of Defense Transportation, said yesterday that since rationing of trucks was started in March, 28,000 vehicles have been released to civilian users and government agencies. He spoke at the opening session of the three day "war emergency" meeting of the directors of American Trucking Associations, Inc., parent organization of sectional, state, and local trucking groups, in the Drake hotel.

When rationing began, he said, there were 150,000 trucks and truck tractors available for distribution, and the total released to date has included 12,000 units for civilian operators and 16,000 to the war department and lend-lease agencies.

Will Last Nine Months.

Kelly asserted that at the rate trucks have been released so far, the pool will be gone in nine more months, but that without rationing it would have been exhausted before now. Explaining that the ODT and War Production board must make present truck stocks "stretch over two years if necessary," he said government policy is to make certain each vehicle released will directly aid the war effort.

He outlined four new ODT orders which go into effect June 1 requiring truck operators to reduce mileage and improve load factors. The orders, he continued, will relieve pressure on the new vehicle pool by creating a margin of idle equipment. He indicated that after June 1 some trucks now in use will be made available for rent or purchase by essential users certified by the rationing agencies.

Many Ease Restrictions.

John V. Lawrence, general manager of American Trucking associations, said 18 states, including Illinois, have removed weight and length restriction on motor trucks in the interest of speeding shipments during the war emergency. Other speakers yesterday included Col. A. B. Johnson, army ordnance department, who spoke on transportation of munitions.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, and Joel Dean, chief of the gasoline rationing division of the Office of Price Administration, are scheduled to speak today.

More than 600 directors of the truck association, motor carrier executives, truckers and shippers are attending the meeting. A score of speakers will discuss motor carrier operations and problems.

Tonight shippers, truckers, tire dealers, and city officials will attend a conference in the Hotel Sherman on rubber rationing and transportation. The meeting is one of 13 being conducted in large cities. Illinois and six other middle western states will be represented.

APRIL WAR DELIVERIES OF GENERAL MOTORS TOP MARCH 17 MILLION

New York, May 18 (AP).—General Motors corporation estimated today it had delivered 112 million dollars worth of war materials to the United States and Canada during April, 17 million more than in March.

The April deliveries brought the 1942 total to $369,479,371, approaching the total for the whole of 1941, which was $406,149,273.

Hourly rated factory employés, working on war materials, trucks, Diesel locomotives and other essentials to the war program, totaled 185,446 in the week ended May 2. The average number of both salaried and hourly employés on General Motors' pay roll in April was 235,000.

CHICAGO'S WAR BUILDING WILL BEAT DEADLINE

Expect All Finished by Early Winter.

The numerous war plants under construction or scheduled for the Chicago area will be completed in ample time to escape the contract cancellation order issued Saturday by the WPB, officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday.

Leverett S. Lyon.

The WPB order called for cancellation of nearly all contracts for war plants which cannot be completed and in operation by the middle of 1943. Leverett S. Lyon, chief executive officer of the association, reported after reviewing the construction program in this area that nearly all the work should be completed by late next fall or early winter.

Could Be Built Quickly.

Even the latest proposed plant—a Douglas Aircraft company cargo plane factory which the government has indicated will be located in Chicago—could be built within six months after preliminary negotiations are finished and the plant site acquired, Lyon said.

The plants will produce many types of weapons and materials to meet the aviation, ordnance, and supply needs of the armed forces. Chrysler corporation is preparing to begin work on a huge aircraft engine plant on the southwest side, and expansions are under way at the new Buick and Studebaker aircraft engine factories.

Plants Under Construction.

Among other plants under construction or scheduled are:

A factory for production of naval torpedoes, an armor plate mill, an aluminum sheet mill, several expansions of blast furnaces and other facilities at steel plants, expansions at gear factories, a Diesel engine factory, a shipyard and ways for submarine chasers, and a plant for making toluene, a component of explosives. In addition, it is understood that a plant for production of synthetic rubber will be built in this area.

800 STATIONERY WORKERS STRIKE IN CHICAGO PLANT

Eight hundred employés of the Wilson-Jones company, commercial stationers at 3300 Franklin boulevard, went on strike yesterday. Soon afterward Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins certified the dispute to the War Labor board for settlement.

Sergt. George Barnes of the police labor detail said the strike was called by local 148 of the United Paper, Novelty and Toy Workers' union, headed by Burt J. Mason. The labor department said the union is demanding continuance of a closed shop an a single contract for the company's Chicago and Elizabeth, N. J., plants, and that the company wants separate contracts without a closed shop clause.

H. R. Cornell, personnel director for the company, said about 200 AFL employés were still working. More than 300 employés of the New Jersey plant are on strike.

WALL STREETERS GET APPEAL FOR WAR BOND BUYING

Market 150 Years Old; Trade Slow.

New York, May 18 (AP).—Thousands of Wall street's workers and several hundred of the nation's financial leaders turned a celebration of the 150th birthday anniversary of the New York Stock exchange today into a plea to the whole financial community to buy government bonds to win the war.

With army, navy, and marine corps color guards, pretty girls in the uniform of the American women's voluntary services, and jeeps and anti-aircraft guns assembled before the historic subtreasury building at Broad and Wall streets, beside the stock exchange and Morgan's bank, Postmaster General Frank C. Walker told an outdoor meeting which jammed the financial district for blocks in all directions:

Cites Need for More.

"We can all be proud of the fact that in the last 12 months the people bought more than 6 billion dollars of war bonds, but with the war costing more than 125 million dollars every day even this impressive total is not nearly enough."

The master of ceremonies for the occasion, which halted trading on the "big board" from noon to 1 p. m., was Donald J. Hardenbrook, a descendant of John A. Hardenbrook, one of the original signers of the 1792 agreement which transformed 24 traders who did business under a buttonwood tree in Wall street into the New York Stock exchange.

Congratulatory message of President Roosevelt to Emil Schram, president of the exchange, said:

"It has been gratifying to me that the hysteria of the first World war has not been repeated and that our market places this time have remained open. The members of the exchange, like millions of their fellow citizens, find their normal business life affected by stresses and strains of world-wide character. Yet it is important that we do not permit these difficulties to disrupt our securities markets unduly. The continuation of an orderly market will be of vital importance both during the war and during the period of adjustment that will follow."

Stock Prices Uneven.

Prices turned spotty in the stock market after early rising tendencies generally failed to follow thru, but the list finished a shade higher. Dealings were sluggish from the start.

Transfers for the four hours totaled 216,620 shares compared with Friday's five hour aggregate of 257,120. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks retained a net advance of .1 of a point at 34.1. Of 541 issues appearing on the ticker tape, 217 were up, 150 down, and 174 unchanged.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN.

Advances outnumbered declines in a mixed market yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, but a sizable part of the active list was unchanged. North American Car, the volume leader, finished ½ point lower than on Saturday. Among other volume leaders were Chicago corporation, up 11-16 point, and Commonwealth Edison, unchanged.

Commodities

Cotton futures followed the general downward trend among farm commodities, declining 80 cents to $1.05 a bale under selling pressure. Most of the liquidation came on New Orleans orders. Grease wool and wool tops both slumped as hedge selling met indifferent demand. Grease wool closed 1.0 to 1.5 cents lower. Wool tops were down 0.4 to 0.7 cent a pound. Coffee, cocoa, and cottonseed oil were unchanged.

GRAINS SHARPLY LOWER ON NEWS OF FARM BATTLE

Wheat at 2-Week Bottom; Lard Declines.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Intervention of President Roosevelt in the congressional dispute over what restrictions should be placed on sales of government owned farm commodities sent grain prices into a sharp decline on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

The wheat market closed ⅞ to 1⅛ cents lower, reaching the lowest levels in more than two weeks. The July bread grain contract closed at $1.20⅜ a bushel. Wheat led the decline in other grains altho weakness in corn was directly attributable to the current trend of the agricultural legislation before the senate.

All Grains End Lower.

July corn futures closed at 87⅞ cents a bushel, with all corn futures down ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel from Saturday's close. Oats were off ⅛ to ¾ cent; rye, 1½ to 1⅝ cents, and soy beans, 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents a bushel.

Lard futures broke 17½ cents per hundredweight under federal ceilings to the lowest levels since March 3 before a small rally lifted prices slightly. All the selling was in the May contracts, which closed 10 cents lower at $12.72 per hundred pounds.

Pit brokers believed most of the selling of the May lard contracts represented speculative liquidation resulting from fears that new ceilings at lower levels would be announced shortly for the lard market.

Many Factors in Market.

Reports that the powerful senate farm bloc had split, thereby losing some of its legislative prestige, shook the confidence of many holders of farm commodities. The favorable progress of the wheat crop, the acute grain storage situation, and restrictions on shipping have discouraged investment or speculative buying of grain, dealers say.

VOTE INCREASED LOAN INSURANCE POWER FOR NHA

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—Legislation increasing the National Housing administration insurance authority by 500 million dollars to permit construction of 150,000 new homes for war workers was approved by the senate and sent to the house today.

Larger loans would be permitted and repayments might be made on a basis of 25 years, rather than the present 20 years, under terms of the bill, a compromise between measures previously passed in each division.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Rain on the Farm

May 18, 1942.

COLD, slanting rain storming over the farm upset the work schedule and called a halt to field work. Altho 50 acres of corn have been drilled the work is not finished and the men were hoping for more hot days to complete the job.

After the long hot spell of early spring the workers began to fear a shortage of moisture. Each day they scanned the skies anxiously for signs of the big thunderheads. Finally the rain came—in brief intermittent showers that drenched the dry soil. The men welcomed it, and, as is typical with all farmers, when there had been enough rain they made preparations for returning to the fields.

But the rain kept coming and before long the men began to complain of too much moisture—weeds growing thru lack of field cultivation, corn not yet drilled, and outdoor jobs untouched.

Fields Run with Water.

Then the rains turned cold and savage, letting up only once in a while to let a tantalizing day of hot sun slip in. Then the clouds closed over and the rain again beat down. Cisterns filled and ran over and the men wrestled angrily in the driving rain with a balky pump motor. The fields ran with water and tiny rivlets grew to small streams carrying away priceless top soil and drowning young seedlings.

The men began to worry over the seed in the ground. They were afraid that the cold and excess rain would cause the seeds to rot. Again they scanned the skies anxiously, but this time for the sight of a patch of clear blue and the sun.

The young feeder cattle, drenched and forlorn, still cropped the grass as if in a desperate hurry to get something in them before the whole fields were washed away. The fat steers in the feedlot huddled together in the barn, their wet backs steaming. The lambs and their shorn ewes stuck close to the barn and bleated for extra rations of hay because they would not roam the sodden woodlots.

Pools collected in the war garden and some of the newly appeared shoots disappeared in rain spattered lakes while others became covered with dirt thrown up by the pounding drops.

Picture Changes Quickly.

Thus a few days of rain change the farm completely. One week it is the scene of bustling activity—the tractors grinding thru the fields, the quiet chucking of the corn planter, the animals glistening in the hot sun as they graze leisurely thru the pastures, and the woods alive with color and beauty.

Then with the rains the farm takes on a drab, grey hue. The leaves on the trees drip quietly and monotonously; the cattle put their backs to the wind and rain and stand forlorn and miserable. Tempers grow sharp and indoor jobs are thought up desperately. Anything to keep busy.

But tomorrow may bring the sun and in a few hours the days of cold beating rain will be forgotten, and all that is left of the misery will be a few placid pools of water shining in the low spots of the fields while the ditches and creeks chuckle happily, running full with the excess rain.

STEERS AND HOGS DIP AS MEAT PRICES ARE FIXED BY OPA RULING

Steers and hogs weakened at the stockyards yesterday as beef and pork went under retail price ceilings established by the Office of Price Administration, while lambs, not affected by the ruling, sold strong to higher. Some of the latter rose to new peaks.

Price gains in fat lambs ranged up to 25 cents, reflecting recent increases in demand for lamb meat. About 1,000 California spring lambs averaging 79 to 80 pounds brought $15.50 to $15.60 a hundredweight.

Heavier selling by farmers resulted in a 5 to 10 cent decline in hog prices. Demand was lively at the reduced rates. The plainest classes of steers and yearlings held steady, but all others ruled 15 to 25 cents lower.

EASE WPB CURB ON EXPORTS OF FARM MACHINES

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—The WPB today liberalized its restrictions on export to 63 foreign countries of farm machinery to permit manufacturers to ship to each country 112 per cent of the total 1940 shipments of equipment, attachements and parts. Previously production was restricted to 80 per cent of each type of machinery exported in 1940, and 150 per cent of the attachments and repair parts.

WPB explained that producers now could use greater discretion in determining the types of equipment to be exported, splitting up their products as they deem advisable so long as they do not exceed the 112 per cent over-all allowance. The only country not affected by the change is Canada, which officials said has a "unit control" system of its own.

PRICE CHANGES NARROW, MIXED IN BOND MARKET

New York, May 18. (AP).—Except for a few liens directly affected by news developments, price changes were narrow and without trend in today's bond market.

Volume contracted to $5,147,300, face value, compared with $6,917,000 last Friday.

A few lower priced rails attracted substantial buying, some moving into new 1942 high levels. Wisconsin Central, Superior & Duluth division 4s, and Hudson & Manhattan income 5s were among the best gainers.

United States government obligations ended on the stock exchange 10/32 of a point higher to 14/32 lower. The undertone was steady over the counter.

Australia 4½s, Denmark 6s and Copenhagen 5s were higher.

ELECTRIC OUTPUT OF BIG SOUTHERN UTILITY A RECORD

Group's Production About ¼ All of Japan's.

The Commonwealth and Southern corporation's 10 electric subsidiaries produced a record 10 billion 800 million kilowatt hours of electricity during 1941, giving this one group the equivalent of about a quarter of Japan's entire output, Justin R. Whiting, president, said yesterday in the system's annual pamphlet report. Directly applied, the electricity would produce a billion pounds of aluminum, enough for 25,000 "flying fortresses," he said.

All phases of the system's operations were stepped up to the utmost in meeting war demands, and production of gas was 20 billion cubic feet. The system spent about $43,700,000 on additions or improvements, and expanded steam-electric generating capacity by a record 260,000 kilowatts.

Criticizes Tax Plan.

Whiting criticized treasury proposals for increasing taxes as unfair to utility companies which he said are not benefiting from war profits. He said the system's 1941 tax bill rose $11,513,912 to $35,981,699.

The corporation will litigate to its final conclusion its battle with the Securities and Exchange commission over application of the "death sentence" provisions of the holding company act unless the SEC permits retention of the southern properties under common ownership, Whiting asserted. The SEC has rejected the corporation's petition for a rehearing of an order to reduce the holding company's capitalization to an all common stock basis.

Net income of Commonwealth, the holding company alone, was $7,149,989 in 1941, as previously reported, against $7,377,973 in 1940. The corporation's proxy statement for the annual meeting on June 17 showed that of the $426,721 paid officers and directors in 1941, Whiting received $71,250. Corporation offices are in New York and subsidiaries operate largely in areas dominated by Tennessee Valley authority projects.

United Carbon Net Dips.

United Carbon company, manufacturer of products used largely in connection with the arms program, announced March quarter net earnings of $522,111, equal to $1.31 a share, compared with $540,028, or $1.38 a share, a year ago.

March quarter net profits of the Richfield Oil corporation and its subsidiaries fell to $539,394, equal to 13 cents a share, from $723,442, or 18 cents a share, a year ago.

The United Gas corporation, reporting for the 12 months ended Jan. 31, announced net profit of $7,106,651, compared with $5,181,946 in the preceding 12 months.

The American Crystal X Sugar company reported net profit of $1,470,095 for the fiscal year ended March 31, against $1,175,574 the year before.

BANK DEPOSITS CLIMB; U. S. EXPENDITURES OFFSET WITHDRAWAL

Demand deposits of member banks of the federal reserve system increased 387 million dollars in the week ended last Wednesday as government spending gave manufacturers and others additional cash to put in the banks, figures in the weekly summary for 101 cities showed yesterday. The government's expenditures enabled the banks to show the upturn in total demand deposits in spite of the treasury's withdrawal of 101 million dollars of its own money from the banks.

Commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of the member banks were 20 million dollars larger at the end of the week than on the preceding Wednesday.

Following are the principal assets and liabilities of the member banks of the reserve system in 101 cities as at the close of business Wednesday [last six ciphers omitted]:

STEEL FOR TANKS WILL BE TRIPLED BY BIG PRODUCER

Industry's Weekly Total Declines Slightly.

The steel industry yesterday slowed its production rate moderately for the week. Developments included disclosure that a big producer will triple its output of tank armor by the end of the year and announcement that the Great Lakes iron ore movement set a new high mark in the first five months of 1942.

The American Iron and Steel institute estimated steel mills will turn out 1,685,000 tons this week with operations averaging 99.2 per cent of capacity. Last week's production was 1,691,800 tons with mills operating at 99.6 per cent and a month ago the tonnage was 1,657,900 tons and the rate 97.6 per cent.

New Equipment Planned.

For the corresponding week a year ago, with the steel industry's capacity less than now, operations were 99.9 per cent and output 1,612,300 tons.

The armor plate expansion was announced by Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. J. L. Perry, president, said new facilities costing 5 million dollars will be installed in a former tin mill in the Pittsburgh district which was converted to production of tank armor early in 1941 after 40 years operation as a tin mill.

Each tank armor set produced by the plant consists of more than 30 pieces of heat treated prefabricated armor plate which are shipped to tank arsenals for assembly.

Includes 10 Furnaces.

The expansion program includes installation of 10 heat treating furnaces, three plate quenching tanks, 18 flame shape cutting machines, and 31 flame softening machines.

The WPB announced that iron ore shipments on the Great Lakes in 1942 attained a peak of 8,581,740 gross tons up to May 1, an increase of 23.9 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

The spring shipment represented a substantial start toward WPB's 1942 goal of 89,500,000 tons.

INDIANA UTILITY BONDS AWARDED EASTERN GROUP

The First Boston corporation and Mellon Securities corporation won the award of 4 million dollars of Public Service Company of Indiana first mortgage 3⅜ per cent bonds yesterday with a bid of 101.68. The bankers plan to reoffer the bonds tomorrow at a price of 102.75 and interest, subject to clearance with the Securities and Exchange commission. Eight other bids were submitted.

The issue awarded yesterday carries the same interest rate as a 13 million dollar bond issue sold privately by the company last December. Net proceeds from the sale of the new bonds, which will mature in 1972, will be applied toward a proposed construction program which is expected to be completed by late 1944.

TIRE COMPANY.

Please report on Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. What are its activities in the synthetic rubber field?—K. M. A.

Answer: The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company is one of the largest makers of tires, tubes and other rubber products in the world. Early this year manufacture of military needs for the government and allied nations had displaced the larger part of normal company activities.

Under normal conditions the company derives about 75 per cent of total revenue from manufacture of tires and tubes, altho it produced other rubber products in substantial quantities. All plants are operating on a full time basis. In addition, the company is operating a government owned munitions plant.

The company in 1941 began commercial production of its own compound of synthetic rubber known as "Chemigum," made from chemicals available in the United States. The product was reported to have excelled natural rubber in tensile strength and resistance to abrasion. It was said to be oilproof, thus making it superior to natural rubber for manufacturing hose, gaskets, and other mechanical goods.

"Chemigum" is processed by the same general production methods and equipment used for natural rubber. The basic raw material used is butane, a by-product of petroleum refining which is converted into butadiene, a liquified gas.

The company was organized in Ohio in 1898. Present capitalization is 2,059,168 shares no par common outstanding; 630,454 shares $5 no par preferred; a funded debt of 40 million dollars. A record of recent financial operations follows:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Div. com.
1941	$330,599,674	$12,831,397	$1.37½

WICKARD DENIES APPEAL TO BOOST COTTON ACREAGE

Approves Plan to Carry Problem to President.

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard in a conference today with representatives of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico cotton growers turned down their plea for increased acreage allotments, but approved a plan to carry the problem directly to President Roosevelt.

Burris Jackson of Hillsboro, chairman of the Texas statewide cotton committee, said Wickard appeared sympathetic toward their request, but informed them that the farm law prevented him from transferring acreage allotments from growers who failed to plant their entire quotas to other growers who wanted to plant more than their allotted number of acres.

Offer Solution of Problem.

The cotton men agreed that no help appeared possible from this source, said Jackson, but contended that the secretary of agriculture could grant their request by ordering an increase in the national acreage allotment.

Because cotton already has been planted in most of the south and parts of Texas, this would have the effect actually of increasing acreage only for west Texas and parts of Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Under the proposal to transfer acreage allotment, the growers in the late planting areas of the country would be allowed to devote to cotton, in excess of their own quotas, acreage equal to the amount which farmers in the early planting sections had been entitled to seed in the staple but which for various reasons they had not so utilized.

Says Acreage Will Fall.

Jackson estimated that the 27,400,000 cotton acreage goal would fall short of realization by about 4 million acres unless the department did increase the quotas in the last planting sections. He said the group would try tomorrow to obtain an appointment with the President.

Meeting with the cotton men at a dinner was a group of Texas wholesale grocery representatives, here to oppose an order of the Office of Defense Transportation which would require 75 per cent loads on return trips of delivery trucks, effective June 1.

ELEVATED WINS A LEGAL POINT IN FARE BATTLE

The elevated lines yesterday won a legal tiff with Attorney General George F. Barrett's office at a hearing before the Illinois Commerce commission on the L's petition for an increase in fares from 10 to 12 cents.

Assistant Commissioner James R. Clark upheld a motion by Herbert M. Johnson, attorney for the L, to rule out testimony on the details of an original cost value of $71,500,000 for the elevated properties as of June 30, 1919. The value was set by a former state commerce commission, and Johnson contended a reëxamination of the various items would only delay the hearings.

Assistant Attorney General William R. Morgan argued that many items in the prior valuation may no longer have value as useful property and wanted to question witnesses. Clark held the commission's ruling last week recognizing the prior value as of 1919 eliminated the need for a detailed inquiry into each item.

KEESHIN TO GIVE DRIVERS AWARDS FOR TRUCK CARE

The Keeshin Motor Express company, Chicago, announced yesterday that beginning June 1 it will sponsor a tire and equipment conservation contest among its 2,000 drivers. The contest, to run for a year, provides awards for drivers who avoid blowouts and truck breakdowns.

Harry M. Gordy, vice president and general manager of the truck line, said drivers who have no blowouts or breakdowns for two consecutive months will be given a silver badge. For each additional month that such a record is maintained, silver chevrons will be awarded. At the end of the first six months of the contest, Gordy said, the terminal with the highest percentage record will be given a dinner for its award winning drivers and will be presented with a trophy.

DEVELOPS NEW STRAIN OF COTTONSEED THAT PRODUCES MORE OIL

Austin, Texas, May 18 [Special].—A new strain of cottonseed which will yield a third more oil has been developed by the University of Texas, Dr. G. W. Goldsmith, director of the school's cotton research laboratory, announced today. The new variety—as yet unnamed—has been tested on several two and three acre plots of ground near here.

"The new breed raises the yield of cottonseed oil from approximately 300 pounds per ton of seed to 400 pounds and, since cotton grown in this vicinity is normally poorer in oil returns than that grown in other parts of the state, cottonseed crushers have expressed the belief that the new strain if grown in other sections would yield a still richer proportion of oil," Dr. Goldsmith said.

"The staple yielded by the new cotton is fully as good a quality as other Texas cottons and perhaps better."

SAFETY AWARDS GIVEN RAILROAD, PULLMAN UNITS

Awards for safety achievements in 1941 were presented by the National Safety council last night to eight railroads and two units of the Pullman company at a dinner in the Electric club in the Civic Opera building. Winners in the annual railroad employés national safety contest sponsored by the council included the Chesapeake and Ohio and Norfolk and Western railways and the Pullman company's Philadelphia Northern operating zone and Calumet, Ill., shop unit. Presentation of the awards was made by Col. John Stilwell, president of the council.

Henry T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology, told the railroad executives that the war effort needs 60,000 to 80,000 trained graduate engineers in the next few months, but the nation's engineering schools are graduating only 15,000 annually. Colleges and universities and the government, he said, are offering supplementary training courses in which more than 300,000 men and women have enrolled in 190 schools thruout the country.

COSTS UP, SALES CURBED, SOCONY OIL DISCLOSES

New York, May 18 (AP).—The Socony-Vacuum Oil company today gave an unfavorable report for the oil industry in a letter to its employés in eastern marketing areas, explaining the difficulties imposed by transportation shortages.

"Its costs are way up, its civilian market is curtailed, and it has had to rearrange its entire business," the letter said of the industry in general. "Since the beginning of the year Socony-Vacuum's earnings have shown an abnormally sharp decline each month."

Increased costs have been brought on by use of tank cars instead of tankers to bring oil to the east coast, the letter said. It estimated the extra transportation cost to the company alone at about $75,000 a day.

"This does not include other extra costs which the company has had to assume in rearranging its barge and pipe line shipments, in readjusting its refinery operations, and in buying products wherever available," it added.

MURRAY ASSERTS WAGE FREEZING PERILS UNIONISM

Cleveland, O., May 18 [Special].—A governmental wage freezing policy in the United States would achieve the objectives of opponents of organized labor, Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee and president of the CIO, asserted today.

Supplementing his report which will be made to the SWOC convention tomorrow, Murray said:

"The fundamental principle that attracts workingmen to labor organizations is collective bargaining and when you take out of the realm of collective bargaining questions affecting wages you actually destroy collective bargaining itself."

He declared that effective rationing of consumer goods and price limitations would be sufficient to check any possibility of an inflationary spiral and thus there would be no need for wage freezing.

ICKES HITS TEXAS FOR IGNORING OIL CURB SUGGESTION

Washington, D. C., May 18 (AP).—Petroleum Coördinator Harold L. Ickes said today action of the Texas railroad commission in permitting production of 1,402,038 barrels of crude oil and natural gasoline daily in Texas during the remainder of May, compared with a recommendation of 960,000 barrels by Ickes, was "a serious blow to the war program."

Ickes said he was disappointed with the commission's action at a time, he said, when the national and state government and oil industry were coöperating. To rock the boat just now can not but have serious consequences even to those oil companies that pursuaded the railroad commission of Texas that the amount of oil allocated for production in that state should be raised," Ickes said.

Wood Core for Rubber Heel to Save Scarce Materials

New York, May 18 [Special].—Commercial production of a new type rubber heel with a wood core was announced today by the B. F. Goodrich company. The company said this type heel could be used on all the 150 million pairs of men's and boys' shoes produced annually and that, based on this volume, there would be a saving of 10 million pounds of compounded rubber and of 1,700,000 pounds of steel.

EFFORTS OF PERU TO BOOST RUBBER OUTPUT ARE TOLD

Year Book Describes Two Planting Projects.

Efforts being made in Peru to increase production of rubber to offset the Japanese seizure of western Pacific sources are described in the Peruvian Year Book for 1941, a copy of which has just been received in Chicago.

An article titled "Peruvian Rubber" says that more than a million rubber trees from seeds and grafted buds are being planted in two Peruvian government nurseries.

One of the nurseries is located at Tingo Maria, on the headwaters of the Huallaga river. The other is at Oromina, a short distance from Yurimaguas, on the lower reaches of the Huallaga before it joins the Maranon river.

Located East of Andes.

They are east of the Andes mountains in an area tributary to the Amazon river. The Oromina nursery is on the site of an experimental rubber plantation which was abandoned about 20 years ago.

The department of agriculture of the United States government is coöperating in the Peruvian enterprise. The nurseries are under the supervision of the Peruvian department of agriculture and were organized as a result of the United States rubber mission to South America.

The experience gained in the experiments of Henry Ford in Brazil is being used in the Peruvian development. Seeds and seedlings from the finest East Indian and Malayan strains brought back to their homeland in the Amazon valley and to special nurseries operated by the United States government at home and in the Caribbean area are being used.

Grafted to Wild Trees.

Seeds from the various nurseries are planted in Peru and elsewhere in South America under the most favorable conditions, it is said in the year book. Small plants grown from the seed and later budwood—small twigs carrying buds of the rubber tree—are grafted on to hardy varieties of rubber trees selected from wild rubber tree areas.

The composite plant produced is said to have a sturdy rooted foundation and a high yielding Malayan trunk.

During the last few years Latin-America rubber production has been but a small part of the world output. Even in 1912, when Latin-American output was at its height, rubber production was only 49,000 tons. The United States normally uses about 500,000 tons a year.
